CHURCHGOERS CHEER ANTI-BETTING FIGHT

Prayers of Thanksgiving Mingle with Applause for Governor's Carnegie Hall Speech.

HAILED AS NEXT PRESIDENT

Gov. Hughes Declares He Would Rather Be in the Present Fight Than Have Any Gift of the People.

There was something of a religious spirit about the audience that thronged Carnegie Hall last night to hear Gov. Hughes and other speakers advocate the passing of laws by the Legislature to regulate race track gambling. The meeting which was under the auspices of the anti-race track gambling campaign managers had on the stage men representing many of the churches of the city. There were many cries of "Thank God!" and "God bless you!" when the Governor in the midst of his speech exclaimed that he would rather take part in a fight of the character of the present one and witness a demonstration such as last night's than accept any office within the gift of the people of the United States.

Hughes Warmly Welcomed.

A moment after these fervid religious exclamations had died away, the crowd seemed to realize that the man who was speaking was a candidate for the Republican Presidential nomination. Thereupon they stood, cheering and waving hats and handkerchiefs, for nearly a minute. Gov. Hughes aroused almost as much enthusiasm when he said that he hoped that the time would come when men in office would answer to the people alone. The Governor added that he hoped that methods that would make this possible would come into use.

A further religious feature of the meeting was provided at its opening, when, led by Tali Esen Morgan, the Ocean Grove chorus leader, the audience sang, to the tune of "One Wide River to Cross," a sort of topical song composed for the occasion by Winifred Arnold. Three of the six verses that the audience sang were:

Said Gov. Hughes on April 8:
"We've one more battle to fight;
Good men, not gamblers, rule this State;
We've one more battle to fight."

The gamblers laughed a bit too fast,
There's one more battle to fight;
For he laughs best who laughs the last,
With no more battles to fight.

They want their breed of horses fine;
There's one more battle to fight;
Not brutes, but men—our countersign—
And one more battle to fight.

Henry R. Towne, President of the Merchants' Association, introduced the Governor as "the most popular man in the State, its Governor, Charles E. Hughes."

As Gov. Hughes stood up a man on the platform arose and shouted: "We must have him for our next Governor!"

"No," cried a dozen voices in the hall, "the next President."

Then the audience cheered the Governor for a long time.

Gov. Hughes's Address.

In his address Gov. Hughes said:

"The character of a community like that of an individual is dependent on its self-respect. It must have a capacity for wholesome and persistent resentment against those who corrupt or pervert its institutions. There are those who care more about the enactment of particular laws than the means taken to secure them. I am not one of those. The most important thing is the moral force and the moral stamina of the community which is back of those laws and which compels their enforcement after enactment. Chicanery can be offset by chicanery. Skillful management of legislators may be offset by other skillful management.

"The only thing that is of value is the integrity of the community which stands for the straight voicing of the people's sentiment. Judges have differed on constitutional matters, but it is a new thing for any one to think it safe or good politics to defy the plain words of the Constitution of the State.

"Here to-night I exercise a high prerogative of the Executive of the State in talking to the people directly. That is the sort of thing I believe in. We have too many double dealings with a justifiable end in view. We want direct government through honest representation."

Gray Law Not Unconstitutional.

Gov. Hughes then went into the matter of the Percy-Gray law and explained the jokers at length.

"It has been said," he continued, "that the Governor is denouncing a law that has been upheld by the Court of Appeals. They know that it is not so, and I'll tell you why. The Court of Appeals has sustained that law, and that is why we are here. If it had not been sustained there would be no fight. It is not the business of the court to say what the penalties should be, says the court. Did the court say that the Constitution does not forbid race track gambling? Did they say that the Percy-Gray law was an adequate or sufficient law? No, they said that it was a law that the Legislature had a right to pass. The Legislature has the power and it is under obligations to pass a better law. We are not dealing with something furtive, but something notorious, and something that can be stopped, and it is the duty of the Legislature to say that it must be stopped.

"If you're ever going to remedy any wrong you must remedy some wrong. The leaders of religion are at the front of this matter. Thank God they are. Because of the fundamentals of their creeds they are united upon this. The business men of the State are back of this movement, too, and I know it.

"There are times when we look despondingly upon American life and think that all thought is for the dollar, but not at a time like this when you see every good man come forward and say, 'We're for the Constitution and law and order.'

"What a coalition on the other side—with the exception of a few misguided people who won't remain that way long. The debased of whatever party banded together for the gamblers. I yield to no one in respect and loyalty to party, but the trouble is that some one is so full of effort to get something for himself that he will ally himself with anything.

The Need of Clean Politics.

"We're going to have it impressed upon some people in this State that they dare not deliver a Senator. The iniquity is not that there is a boss, but that behind the boss is some special interest. We must have men elected who are accountable to the people. We want to see politics in such shape that the highest standards of life will be those of politics, that men keep their promises, and that no one ever dare to say to an elected officer: 'I gave you your job, and you've got to do as I say.'

"The people of this country want brain

H. H. ROGERS ASKS DAMAGES.

Says Government Has Injured His Character by U. P. Merger Allegations.

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, May 4.—H. H. Rogers, in answering the complaint of the Government in the Union Pacific merger suit, denies participation in the alleged conspiracy and asks that costs and damages be granted him for injury to his character because of the allegations made against him.

H. H. Rogers and James Stillman, with E. H. Harriman, Jacob Schiff, and others, and the Union Pacific, the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fé; the Southern Pacific, and other railroads are charged with unlawful conspiracy in attempting to gain control of other railroads and restrain and control commerce between the States.

Mr. Rogers makes a sweeping denial of every allegation and demands that the case against him be dismissed because he is not a resident of Utah district, and therefore not within the jurisdiction of the court.

He denies that he is or ever was a member of any body of men who attempted to gain control and restrain commerce and traffic between the States or that he ever bought stock in any railroad to gain control.

Rogers admits that he bought heavily of Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fé stock, but said he did so purely as an investment, even though the purchase was heavy enough in some cases to absorb half the stock, and he denies that there was the slightest intent to conspire or gain control, to an unlawful end.

Mr. Rogers gives as his belief, through information and observation, that no one of the defendants in the merger suit had any idea of creating a combination for the unlawful control of the Southern Pacific. He denies acquaintance with all the deals made prior to Oct. 8, 1901, the date he became a Director, and before which the Government alleges that all attempts to gain control were made. Since that time, Rogers avers, neither he, Harriman, Stillman, Kuhn, Frick, nor W. A. Clark have made in any way an effort to get control of the road.

Similar admissions and denials are made concerning the purchases of Union Pacific stock through Kuhn, Loeb & Co. and the Oregon Short Line.

James Stillman, whose answer was filed to-day, follows the lines laid down by Mr. Rogers, admitting investments of money, but denying any unlawful purchase. Mr. Stillman became a Director of the Union Pacific on Dec. 6, 1907.

FIREBUG SPREADS TERROR.

Another Attempt to Burn a Williamsburg Tenement Starts a Panic.

Two attempts were made last night to burn the five-story tenement at 220 Cook Street, Williamsburg, and recalling the fatal fire at 17 Humboldt Street on Sunday night, the residents of the neighborhood as well as the tenants in the house became so terrified that all last night they took turns keeping vigil against other incendiary attempts. Capt. Gallagher of the Stagg Street Police Station and a squad of reserves in plain clothes patrolled the streets hoping to catch the firebug at work.

The first attempt to burn the tenement was discovered at 8 o'clock by Morris Creamer, who lives on the ground floor of the house. He found a bundle of paper and rags saturated with kerosene on fire beneath the stairs. His shouts of "Fire" started a panic in the house, but they also brought several other tenants to his aid and between them they managed to stamp the fire out. It had not been communicated to the stairs.

Two hours later, when the tenants were still in a state bordering on panic, the dreaded shout of "Fire" rang through the house again. Mothers grabbed up sleeping children and fled to the street, and men also fled.

Peter Kolinsky found a paper and rag fire beneath the stairs on his floor. Again the tenants managed to stamp out the blaze before it communicated to the stairs.

$700 SMOKE IN CIGAR STORE.

Chief Croker Has a Narrow Escape on Way to Times Square Blaze.

A small but stubborn blaze in the cigar store on the northeast corner of Forty-second Street and Broadway shortly before 11 o'clock last night attracted a large crowd to Times Square, and for a short time threatened to tie up traffic and block the car lines.

Inside the store the firemen had a hard time locating the source of the fire owing to the fact that it had started between walls. Much of the stock of cigars, tobacco, cigarettes, and pipes was destroyed.

The damage was estimated at $700.

While on his way uptown to attend the fire, Chief Croker had what he called "one of the narrowest squeaks of his life." His automobile, driven by Capt. Rush, was going along Broadway about fifty miles an hour. When near Eighth Street an east-bound crosstown car, driven by Peter Ferron, stopped suddenly in the middle of the street. The machine was bearing down on it, when Rush, seeing the danger, switched sharply to the right, just grazing the front of the car.

Croker shouted to a policeman to arrest the motorman, and Ferron was taken to the Mercer Street Station. Later he was released, Chief Croker deciding not to press any charge.

FIRE DIDN'T WAKE BABY.

Youngster Slept On and Was Rescued Just in Time.

When the family of Max Gabriel, who lives at 315 West 139th Street, were dining last night, a heavy crash was heard upstairs that caused Mrs. Minnie Epstein, a married daughter, to cry out, "My baby is killed," and rush hurriedly upstairs, followed by her brother, Gustave Gabriel.

The third floor was filled with smoke, and the fourth floor, where her six-months-old baby was asleep in the front room, was in flames. Gustave ran up through the smoke, found the baby unharmed sleeping calmly. He carried the child to the fire escape. The fire damage was $3,000.

WAR ON BLACK HAND.

Italian Ambassador des Planches Confers with His Countrymen in Chicago.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, May 4.—Baron Mayor des Planches, the Italian Ambassador to the United States, arrived in Chicago this morning to investigate the numerous Black Hand outrages charged against certain classes of his countrymen here. Officers of the White Hand Society stated to-day that the Ambassador would remain in the city a week to study the situation.

The leading Italian merchants and professional men here have been the victims of extortion, blackmail, assassination, and dynamite outrages for months, and all efforts of the Chicago police to check them have been futile.

GRADY TO SUPPLANT COCKRAN IN CONGRESS

Tammany Leader Murphy Slates Him for the Place Now Occupied by His Foe.

FRAWLEY IS LISTED ALSO

Report That He Is to Get a Congressional Nomination, Displacing Francis Burton Harrison.

From an apparently reliable source came the information yesterday that Tammany Leader Charles F. Murphy expects to send Senator Thomas F. Grady, who has been a member of the State Legislature for twenty-six years and for a number of years Democratic leader of the upper house, to Congress in the place of W. Bourke Cockran, who recently incurred the disfavor of the Tammany leader.

Simultaneously came the interesting report that Senator James W. Frawley, who is a Tammany district leader and has represented the Twentieth District in the Senate, was slated for a Congressional nomination.

In order to make a place for Senator Frawley on the Congressional slate, it was reported that Francis Burton Harrison, who represents the Congressional district in which Mr. Frawley lives, was to be turned down. Mr. Harrison has been more or less of an independent, and represents, besides, a type of Democrat entirely distinct from the Murphy and Conners brand.

Senator Grady, on the final day of the regular session, pronounced his valedictory as a Senator. He has done so before, but there was an earnestness and emphasis to what he said on this occasion which made his colleagues believe that this time he really meant business.

Some of Senator Grady's associates also professed to know that he was slated for higher honors, but they made a mystery of what these honors were. Senator Frawley told some of his friends that he would not be back because there was a $7,500 job in store for him.

The report caused a great deal of comment in political circles. Mr. Harrison has known for some time that he would not get a renomination with the sanction of Mr. Murphy. No one expressed any great surprise about the Grady report. Senator Grady has been a most effective minority leader. His skill as a debater is acknowledged, and that Mr. Cockran would be turned down for a renomination was a foregone conclusion from the time he had his falling out with Murphy.

SLAIN GIRL'S PARENTS FREE.

Pennsylvania Judge Believes They Had No Part in Religious Sacrifice.

Special to The New York Times.

EASTON, Penn., May 4.—Judge Scott this afternoon released Henry Smith and his wife and Mrs. Mamie Bachman from jail after they had furnished bail in the sum of $3,000 each for their appearance before the Grand Jury the second Monday in June, on a charge of being accessories to the murder of May Irene Smith. Robert Bachman, who slew the child as a sacrifice to his religious belief, still remains in his cell.

When the doors of the Court House were swung open, at 9 o'clock, there was a mad rush to gain an entrance. The proceedings were brief.

"From what I have read of this case in the newspapers," said Judge Scott, "I am of the opinion that the Smiths and Mrs. Bachman had nothing to do with the actual killing of May Irene Smith. Of course, if the District Attorney has any new testimony, then we will proceed with the argument."

Alfred Smith, father of Henry Smith, entered bail for his son. Benjamin Solt of Petersburg did likewise for Mrs. Smith. Mrs. Bachman's bond was furnished an hour later by friends from Nazareth.

Bachman's brother, a cement manufacturer, is on his way East from California, and it is stated he will put up a strong fight in defense of the prisoner, who, the District Attorney declares, will be indicted and tried for the murder of the Smith child. It is reported that the defense will ask for a change of venue on the ground that public sentiment in Northampton County is so strong against Bachman that he might not receive a fair trial.

STEAL A HAT, UNAIDED?

Special Sessions Justices Incredulous Till They Saw the Man Was Large.

Joseph Lockwood, colored, was arraigned yesterday in Special Sessions for stealing a woman's hat from the millinery store of Ada Bacharach at 13 West Thirtieth Street.

"What sort of a hat was it?" asked Justice Mayo.

"A Merry Widow hat," answered the prisoner's counsel.

The complaining witness took the stand. She was small, but the court stenographer, who sits next to the witness stand, got a kink in his neck by holding his head sidewise to write. The Justice on the extreme left of the bench could not be seen by those on the same side of the court room.

Miss Bacharach said she had been trimming a hat in the back room of her store when she heard a rustling. Looking into the front room, she saw that a hat was moving, though she couldn't see from her side what was moving it. When she skirmished around to the other side she found Lockwood, and had him arrested.

The prisoner's counsel only asked one question and then looked triumphantly at the Judge.

"Was any one helping the prisoner?" demanded the lawyer.

"No," was the answer.

For a moment it looked like an acquittal, but the Justices saw that the prisoner was quite large and gave him sixty days in the City Prison.

ELEVEN MEN LOST AT SEA.

Steamer's Cargo Shifts Off the Oregon Coast in a Storm.

NEWPORT, Oregon, May 4.—In a storm Friday night on the coast the steamer Minnee Mellon shifted and sprung a bad leak. Saturday noon a huge wave struck the vessel and washed her deck and cabin, leaving the vessel waterlogged and unmanageable.

Eleven of her crew were drowned, some while trying to launch a boat.

SIGN AIRSHIP CONTRACT.

Wrights Make Conditional Sale to French Financier.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, May 4.—Both Henry Farman and Leon Delagrange, the present record holders for mechanical flight in France, are planning an active campaign by which to defeat the sale by the Wright brothers of the French rights in their machine for $100,000.

A contract has just been signed between the Wrights and Lazare Weiller, an eminent French financier, in which the latter agrees to purchase the French patent of the American aeroplane for the sum mentioned if before the end of 1908 the Americans shall be able to fly fifty kilometers in an inclosed space. The contract, however, will become void provided another aeronaut shall accomplish the feat before the expiration of the time limit.

Mr. Weiller already is interested in several large automobile manufactories, and if the Wrights should make good their claims he would be prepared to put their machine on the market.

SAVED BOY FROM A RAFT.

Six-Year-Old Was Drifting Down River When Man Swam Ashore with Him.

Six-year-old Willie Giggins of 441 East Eighty-first Street was paddling about on a raft yesterday afternoon in the East River at the foot of Eighty-second Street, when one of the boys dared him to paddle out to the end of the pier. Willie wouldn't be stumped and succeeded in getting out, but when he turned to come back his raft was caught in the tide and swept down the river.

William Ohlwilder of 410 East Seventy-second Street saw boy and raft going down stream, and he dived from the Dock Department pier and started after the boy. Despite the handicap of his clothing, Ohlwilder overtook the raft at Seventy-ninth Street and grabbed Willie under one arm.

Shore was nearly a quarter of a mile away, but Ohlwilder landed at Seventy-sixth Street. Willie was put in an ambulance and hurried to the Presbyterian Hospital. Ohlwilder rode as far as his home, where he dropped off and changed his clothes.

Willie recovered from his ducking later on.

CRANE FOR CHAIRMAN?

Report of a Shrewd Convention Move by the Taft Managers.

A report went around among the politicians last night that the Chairmanship of the Republican National Convention will be offered to Senator W. Murray Crane of Massachusetts. It was said that the idea of having Senator Crane preside at the convention originated with the managers of the Taft boom, and that several members of the National Committee were in favor of it.

The report created considerable speculation owing to the fact that Mr. Crane has been a strong anti-Taft man up to the present. He has been exceedingly active in behalf of the "allies," and has been credited with actually leading those forces. At one time it was widely reported that he would manage the Hughes boom, which then seemed to be assuming considerable importance. In Massachusetts, his own State, he was particularly active in obtaining uninstructed delegations, while his colleague in the Senate, Mr. Lodge, who of course is a Taft supporter, was endeavoring by every means to secure delegations instructed for the Secretary of War.

SALOON FOR EACH THIRTEEN.

New Illinois Town Collects $15,000 in Liquor Taxes.

Special to The New York Times.

BENBOW CITY, Ill., May 4.—Benbow City, the flat town, which has grown up around the Standard Oil Company's new refinery, eight miles south of Alton, is the "wettest" town in Illinois, and because it is the wettest it is also the richest.

It began its corporate existence as a village Monday with eighteen registered voters and twenty-three saloons. Within the corporate limits of Benbow City there are 300 persons and one saloon for each thirteen inhabitants. In addition to the twenty-three saloons there are seven brewery agencies, and each dramshop and each agency pays $500 a year license.

Payments for the coming year have already been made, and the little village starts out in life with a $15,000 nest egg. The liquor interests have paid $50 for each man, woman, and child in the village, the per capita wealth of which by reason of this revenue from the liquor interests is greater than that of any town or city in the United States.

MRS. FOLEY HELD THE FORT.

She Stood Off Linemen Who Wanted to Erect a Pole.

A gang of linemen started to place an electric light pole in Fourth Street, near East Avenue, Long Island City, yesterday afternoon. From his grocery shop on the corner John Foley saw them.

"You'll put no pole up here," he shouted to the workmen as soon as he could get to them.

"Them's my sentiments, too, John," added his wife.

"But here's our permit," replied Foreman Herbert Vogel, as he showed it.

"Permit or no permit, there'll be no pole put up here," answered Foley.

Then Vogel ran to the Magistrate's Court in Fifth Street, and a moment later a squad of policemen came after Foley. The workmen prepared to raise a flagstone in the sidewalk to make room for the pole. They had not counted on Mrs. Foley. She stood on the flagstone and defied the linemen to move her.

Presently Foley came back, for Vogel could bring no charge against him. He relieved his wife, who went back to tending shop. Many of Foley's friends gathered and offered to take turns with him in holding down the flagstones. At nightfall the linemen dragged the pole to another point down the street. But Foley and his wife remained on guard all night.

SAGAN DETERMINES TO TURN PROTESTANT

Will Take That Course Because Otherwise He Cannot Marry Mme. Gould.

VATICAN WON'T HELP HIM

Prince Solemnly Boxes Ears of Bicyclist Who Followed His Motor-car Into the Country.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

ROME, May 4.—It now seems plain enough that the object Prince Helie de Sagan and Mme. Anna Gould had in mind in coming to Rome was to negotiate with the Vatican for an annulment of the Gould-Castellane marriage.

Prince Helie has, I just learned, consulted Mgr. Lombard, the Consistorial lawyer, who cleverly assisted Princess Rospigliosi in her endeavor to get an annulment of her marriage with Mr. Parkhurst of Bangor, Maine. Mgr. Lombard gave it as his opinion that the Gould-Castellane case did not furnish sufficient elements to warrant the Church granting an annulment, and Prince Helie, forced to take drastic measures, is now determined to leave the Catholic Church and turn Protestant. He thus will be able to marry Mme. Gould both civilly and religiously.

Shortly after Prince Helie and Mme. Gould left here to-day for a motor trip into the country the Prince discovered that they were being followed by a bicyclist. He stopped the motor, whereupon the bicyclist did likewise.

After manoeuvring some time he Prince stopped so suddenly that the bicyclist almost ran into the motor.

Prince Helie jumped down, strode up to the bicyclist, and solemnly boxed his ears. Then he got back to his seat, and drove on tranquilly, this time unaccompanied. Both the Prince and his tormentor said awful things to each other, but neither understood the other.

MIDGETS GOING TO MARRY.

It Took Some Looking to See Them in the License Bureau.

One of the first men in line in the Marriage License Bureau in Brooklyn yesterday was a big man with a florid face and bristling mustache.

"Gimme a marriage license," he demanded.

"You can't have it unless you have the lady with you," explained Deputy City Clerk Scully.

"Oh, she's here, all right," returned the visitor.

"Well, bring her in, then."

"She's in already," replied the big man. Reaching down, he picked up some one, and to the astonishment of the clerk he found the blushing bride-to-be sitting on his desk. She appeared at first glance to be only about knee high to a Staten Island mosquito.

"This is the bride, and here's the bridegroom," said the big man, reaching down again, and this time placing a wee bit of a man on the desk. "They want to get spliced, and I'm acting as chaperon."

The couple proved to be John Brundish, 4 feet tall and 39 years old, and Miss Lida Kimball, 35 years old and just 3 feet 9 inches. The two are appearing in a Coney Island show. They are to be married to-day.

JEWELRY MISSING FROM BODY.

Robert Snyder Found Drowned in Bay, and Relatives Scout Suicide.

Stripped of the money and valuables which his relatives say should be on his body if he met with an accident and was drowned, the body of Robert Snyder was found in the bay off Clifton, Richmond Borough, last night. The body was identified by his relatives. A gold watch and chain which he always wore, a diamond ring which he had on when last seen alive by relatives, and all his money were missing.

Snyder was 34 years old. He lived with his father in Dongan Street, West Brighton, Richmond. He was employed in a responsible position by the American Linoleum Company. He had a bank account, was in good health, and was to be married soon. His relatives scout the idea of suicide. He was last seen alive on April 13 and was in good spirits.

Coroner Cahill's examination of the body showed no outward marks of violence and the Coroner thinks the case one of accidental drowning.

H. W. DROWNE WANTS DIVORCE

Woolen Merchant Says Wife Obtained an Invalid Dakota Decree.

Henry Russell Drowne of the woolen firm of Lawrie, Mann & Drowne, 61 Leonard Street, who lives at 147 West Thirty-sixth Street, has begun an action for divorce against his wife, Mrs. Louise A. Drowne.

Drowne says that he has $100,000 invested in his firm; that he is 47 years old, and was a widower with one child when he married his present wife on July 3, 1889. She was then 19 years old, he says, and had come to New York to be an actress. Her home was Cleveland, Ohio, where he married her. All went happily until 1903, when he had two attacks of typhoid fever. She then became an habitue of theatres, he says, and associated with men and women of questionable repute. The following year she left him, and in 1906 obtained a divorce in South Dakota, which, however, was held to be invalid in this State.

Through her counsel, Hays & Hershfield of 115 Broadway, Mrs. Drowne denies her husband's allegations.

ORDERED BACK TO ARIZONA.

Col. Stewart Stays One Day in Abandoned St. Augustine Post.

ST. AUGSTINE, Fla., May 4.—Col. William F. Stewart, the only officer of the United States Army destined to command an abandoned post until the date of his retirement, arrived here yesterday from Fort Grant, Ariz., upon orders to take up his headquarters at the abandoned St. Francis Barracks here.

Upon his arrival, Sergt. Brown, in charge of the Government property, turned his authority over to the Colonel, but that officer's command in St. Augustine was of short duration, for last night he received orders from Washington sending him to Fort Grant again. Col. Stewart left this evening, bound for the isolated post in the wilds of Arizona.

Then he slapped Magistrate Wahle on the back.

POWERS DECISION THURSDAY.

Presence of Armed Militiamen in Frankfort Alarms Citizens.

Special to The New York Times.

FRANKFORT, Ky., May 4.—Gov. Willson said to-night that he would not be ready to make known his decision in the Caleb Powers and Jim Howard pardon cases until Thursday.

When two squads of armed militiamen appeared on the streets to-night and mingled with the crowds, it was rumored that the Governor had decided to pardon Howard, who is in the penitentiary here, and, fearing that friends of Goebel might attempt to lynch him when released, had ordered the militiamen to be in readiness to protect him.

The soldiers are believed to be a portion of the detachment which is patrolling Central Kentucky to attempt to suppress the "Night Riders."

TO IMPROVE UPPER BROADWAY

Grass Plots to be Fixed Up by the Park Department.

At the meeting of the West End Association last night at the Hotel St. Andrew, Seventy-second Street and Broadway, John C. Coleman, for the Legislation Committee, reported that the Park Department was about to obtain an appropriation to put in order the grass plots in the middle of Broadway, between Fifty-ninth and Manhattan Streets.

The proposed improvement of West End Avenue was also reported to be taking effect, a plan for a harmonious scheme in floral decorations among the residents being near completion.

CAR BELL CORD SAVES LIFE.

Conductor Uses It on Injured Boy's Leg to Stop Flow of Blood.

Fred G. Lawrence, 17 years old, of Tuckahoe, was run over by a Tuckahoe trolley car yesterday while attempting to board it in Yonkers. The wheels passed over his right leg and left foot. Nathaniel Hayes, the conductor, cut the bell cord in the car and made a tourniquet to stop the flow of blood. His action saved Lawrence's life.

Lawrence was hurried to the hospital, where his leg and foot were amputated. The physicians say he will recover.

ICE SECRETS BARED AT JEROME HEARING

Counsel for the King Committee Brings Out Minutes of the 1906 Grand Jury.

TRUST RAN INDEPENDENTS

Contracts Show American Company Controlled Maine and About 80 Per Cent. of Hudson Supply.

A combination of circumstances, partly due to the plan of Franklin Pierce in presenting before Commissioner Hand evidence on which the King Committee of Metropolitan Street Railway stockholders is asking Gov. Hughes to remove District Attorney Jerome from office, resulted yesterday in light, not only upon the method of investigating the American Ice Company before the Grand Jury in 1906, but upon the methods of that combination itself.

The King Committee contends in its eighteenth charge that the American Ice Company is a criminal combination in restraint of trade, and should have been prosecuted as such, upon evidence at Mr. Jerome's command.

Yesterday's information came in three parts. First was the testimony at the investigation yesterday of Edward P. Kilroe, a lawyer who used to be manager for the Doherty Ice Company, a so-called independent concern. Kilroe refused to tell whether or not in his term as manager of the Doherty Ice Company, several "independents" met together with representatives of the American Ice Company arbitrarily to fix prices. He based the refusal on his constitutional privilege that to answer might tend to incriminate him, after Mr. Jerome had repeatedly warned him that a reply in the affirmative would bring him within the provisions of Section 168 of the Penal Code, governing a conspiracy in restraint of trade.

The second part of the information came from the minutes of the Grand Jury, which, in August, 1906, investigated the Ice Trust under District Attorney Jerome. These minutes had been previously kept secret, and Mr. Jerome objected to having them introduced at this hearing. He succeeded in having them withheld for the time being, but later in the day they were given out by James W. Osborne, special District Attorney General for the Ice Trust prosecution.

Oler on Increase in Rates.

The Grand Jury minutes contain this question asked of President Oler of the Ice Trust by Mr. Jerome:

"Now, Mr. Oler, does the rise in the price of ice force the poor of the east side and the suffering humanity of the city to do without ice, or does it force the soda-water and the ice cream people to curtail—people to whom ice is a convenience of business rather than a necessity?"

Mr. Oler replied that price increases forced the large consumers to curtail, and went on to say that the independents had tried to coax him into deals with them, but that he had always reminded them how unlawful such things were and had kept the trust free from all illegal entanglements. Mr. Oler told the Grand Jury that he knew of a meeting of independents for the purpose of raising the price, and named eight individuals concerned, including William Welch, William Hagadorn, and John W. Scott, besides Charles Mulford of the Glasgow Ice Company, John D. Schoonmaker, William J. Brennan, William M. Montgomery, and John M. Briggs. Mr. Jerome wound up by telling the Grand Jury that he was sure there was legal evidence to indict four of the independents.

The third development was the production at the hearing on the Jerome charges yesterday of the report of Accountant John R. MacNeille on his investigation of the Ice Trust for Attorney General Meyer late in 1906. This report was the principal item of evidence that disappeared mysteriously from Attorney General Mayer's desk after he had started a suit against the Ice Trust. Although the original report disappeared, there have been carbon copies in existence, and one of these copies was obtained by Attorney General Jackson early in his term. One of the copies was admitted by Commissioner Hand as a public record that had been available for the information of Mr. Jerome.

The MacNeille report shows the control by the American Ice Company of practically all of the Maine supply and upward of 80 per cent. of the Hudson supply through stock ownership in "independent" companies and a series of hard-and fast agreements binding the "independents" as to production, distribution, and price of their product. Fifty companies or firms dealing in natural ice are named, and many artificial ice firms. Among the former are those in which William Welch, William Hagadorn, and John W. Scott are concerned. The report declares on the trust's own statistics that a price of $8 a ton in the July ice famine of 1906 brought in a profit of 144 per cent. to the trust.

The testimony of Mr. Kilroe came nearly at the close of the hearing before Commissioner Hand. He said that he had been General Manager for Patrick H. Doherty in his ice business for ten years before 1904, and was now Mr. Doherty's counsel.

"Did you meet each year as a representative of Mr. Doherty with representatives of the American and other ice companies to fix prices?" asked Mr. Pierce.

Mr. Jerome interrupted to say that the witness ought to be warned against answering such a question in the affirmative. The witness said he would refuse to answer on account of his relation as counsel, but this plea was not allowed by the Commissioner, because he was not counsel for the Doherty concern at the time referred to in the question. Again Mr. Jerome interrupted:

"If he admits that he brings himself within Section 168 of the Penal Code, and I think that it should be plainly called to his attention."

"I think the witness may answer or plead his privilege," said Mr. Pierce.

"Then I refuse to answer," said Mr. Kilroe.

"Is that because it might tend to incriminate you?" asked Mr. Pierce.

"It is," said the witness.

By far the most interesting part of the testimony taken by the August (1906) Grand Jury is that of President Wesley M. Oler of the American Ice Company, which was in part as follows:

Kept the Company Law Abiding.

Q.—Have any approaches been made to the American Ice Company or to you or to any of its officers, as far as you know, by any independent ice concerns? A.—Oh, naturally, a man will drop in sometimes and talk ice, but I have always told him right at the beginning "Don't talk price because I won't talk it with you." I have stopped there whenever they started. I knew it was illegal and I have been very careful to keep our company law abiding.

Mr. Jerome then asked a series of questions relative to whether the independent dealers had sought to come to some agreement with the American Ice Company as to price. Mr. Oler objected to talking about his competitors, saying that some of them didn't know it was illegal to do certain things, and he had always made it a point to warn them that they were taking a risk when they did so, as he was familiar with the law and they were not. Finally he was told by the Foreman of the Grand Jury that he must answer Mr. Jerome's questions, and said:

Well, there was a session of independent dealers uptown, mostly men who owned one, two, three, or four wagons. They thought our price wasn't high enough for families. These men all thought we were going to have a price as high as that of 1890. They forgot that the world was moving, and when they found that we were not advancing the family price they got up an association, and they agreed to advance the price to 50 cents. (The American Ice Company was then charging 40 cents.) They authorized the President to see me about it. The President called me on the telephone and said:

"Mr. Oler, we agreed to make the price 50 cents to families uptown."

I said "Well, what are you going to do about it?"

"Nothing. Won't you meet us?"

"No."

"Are you going to keep the price at 40 cents?"

"Yes."

"Well, then, we can't raise it."

I said, "My advice is not to; you are doing an illegal thing." Now, I knew they didn't know any better. They didn't know the law. I did.

According to Mr. Oler, Harry Bailey of the West Side Ice Company was President of the independents. A Mr. Lockwood was Secretary of the independents. It was not disclosed that they were witnesses before the Grand Jury. In addition to Mr. Oler other ice dealers were called, among them Charles Mulford of the Glasco Ice Company, John D. Schoonmaker, William Welch, William Hagadorn, John W. Scott, William J. Brennan, William M. Montgomery, and John M. Briggs, all belonging to the independents.

After all the evidence had been submitted by Mr. Jerome he told the Grand Jury that it had nothing to do with the question of the price of ice. Its duty was to decide whether any one was guilty of a criminal conspiracy. He said:

"I don't believe personally and I don't suppose any of you gentlemen believe that these men went to Schoonmaker's office by accident as that fellow Mulford said. They [meaning the independents] went there undoubtedly to talk over their affairs. They had a perfect right to talk over their affairs, and they talked over the price of ice and they agreed that there was more money for them in advancing the price of ice."

Mr. Jerome told the Grand Jury that it was very clear to him that there was sufficient legal evidence to indict four of the independents. The evidence satisfied his mind, beyond a reasonable doubt, that the crime of criminal conspiracy had been committed.

"You are obliged to take your law from me," said Mr. Jerome. "If you are not satisfied with my exposition of it you can resort to the court for an exposition of the law. If you should be of the opinion, as I am, that these men have violated the law and should order a bill against these four men, I shall ask you to withhold the filing of the bill until we can see if it isn't possible to get hold of the other three of the seven that were present at that meeting."

The Grand Jury returned no indictments.

Trust Contracts With Independents.

Mr. MacNeille's report, which Commissioner Hand received yesterday, centres around the contracts, and other arrangements by which the Ice Trust maintains its influence with the "independents." At the outset it makes note of the admission of President Oler that the trust controls substantially all of the Maine supply, and then goes into an analysis of figures obtained from the American Company showing that the trust is interested in one way or another in ice houses handling 81 per cent. of the Hudson supply. Of the other 19 per cent. 6 per cent. does not come into New York at all, which makes the division between the trust and the actual independents on the Hudson supply, Ice Trust 81 per cent., independents 13 per cent.

The report declares that the American Ice Company has a contract with the Mountain Ice Company, the largest in New Jersey and Pennsylvania, outside of the American and its controlled companies, which excludes the Mountain from practically all the Brooklyn trade and prevents it from selling ice in that borough to any competitor of the American. Mr. MacNeille declares that a statement submitted by President Oler on the artificial ice plants in operation in Manhattan and the Bronx, Brooklyn, and Queens in the Summer of 1906, is probably deceptive in that it contains the names of plants the product of which was not for the market, but for the purposes of the owners. That list showed twenty-three plants with 32 per cent. of the total artificial ice capacity entirely free from trust domination.

In what Mr. MacNeille has to say about the cost of ice, he estimates a 60 per cent. profit on total sales to ice dealers and consumers, and an 84 per cent. profit on wagon sales of all kinds. He says further:

"It should be stated that the family trade of the American Ice Company is a small part of their business, however; their nominal price to families has been, since March 1, 1906, $8 per ton, and it is believed that in actual practice since said date, families to a very large extent have paid in New York, $10 per ton and over. Even on the $8 price for July, 1906—the total cost is $3.27.9, as compared with the selling price of $8 and over, leaving a net profit of $4.72.1, or more than 144 per cent."

The report contains a list of about fifty so-called independent ice companies, and dealers, and sets forth the contracts and agreements existing between them and the American Ice Company. One of these companies is the J. W. Scott Ice Company, of which J. W. Scott, formerly Secretary of the American Ice Company, is an officer. Mr. Scott was a witness yesterday. He said his company was an independent, and mentioned several other ice companies that were on the Ice Trust agreement list. Typical sections of these contracts are contained in the report, and illustrate how the territory was parceled out, sales limited, supply restricted, and prices regulated between the independents and the Trust.

One of these typical cases was that of P. H. Doherty, an "independent," and the American Ice Company. The contract provides that the American Ice Company shall sell to Doherty about 42,800 tons of ice a year at 65 cents a ton, free on board, Hudson River, with provision for payment by Doherty in addition to the price on a sliding scale of 25 per cent. of any increase in the New York bridge price over $1.50 per ton on the sales of ice in question. Then follows this agreement regulating the actions and business of Doherty:

> Agreed that the second party (Doherty) is to have the right to continue to conduct his ice business and to maintain his pier at Forty-eighth Street and the North River, notwithstanding this agreement, until the first day of January, 1906. Second party also agrees that he will not, during the term of this agreement, directly or indirectly, through or by himself or others, or through or by any corporation or corporations, and whether as principal, agent, servant, or employe, engage in the ice business, and whether at wholesale or retail, in the City of New York as now constituted, except with the written consent of the party of the first part, had and obtained in each instance.

The agrement was made on Dec. 1, 1905, and will expire with the ice-cutting season of 1909 and 1910.

Yonkers Company's Terms.

Another typical agreement is that made by the Yonkers City Ice Company and the American Ice Company, which will not expire until Jan. 1, 1911. In part it follows:

> First party [the Yonkers Company] agrees that it will not at any time during the term hereof, either through itself or any other corporation or corporations, or by its servants, employes, or others, directly or indirectly, whether at wholesale or retail, engage in or carry on the ice business in Greater New York, Jersey City, Newark, Hoboken, Mount Vernon, or New Rochelle otherwise than as under contract, and second party likewise agrees that it will not during the term of this agreement, either through itself or any corporation or corporations, or by its servants, agents, or employes, directly or indirectly, whether at wholesale or retail, engage in or carry on the ice business in the City of Yonkers.

There are agreements cited excluding ice dealers from competing within the territory covered by the American Ice Company either in harvesting or selling ice; providing that the American Ice Company should only sell to one dealer in a certain territory; eliminating competition between an "independent" ice company and the American Ice Company, and providing for agreements as to prices of ice between such companies while forbidding the "independent" companies from selling ice to persons specified in the agreements.

It also was shown that the American Ice Company had on file nine bills of sale, most of which contained an agreement from the vendor binding not only himself, but also his heirs and executors and administrators not to engage directly or indirectly within a period of ten years in selling ice either at retail or wholesale, either as principal, agent or servant in Greater New York without the consent of the American Ice Company.

One of the interesting features of the report is its discussion of the ice famine in Greater New York in 1906. The report says:

> It is believed there has not been an ice famine up to date during the year 1906 in Greater New York, and that there will not be during the remainder of the year such a famine, and that there has not been during said year danger of an ice famine. The sales of ice to the American Ice Company for the New York department have been for the year 1906 considerably larger than for the similar period in 1905. When the bridge price of the American Ice Company in New York was $4 per ton and the delivered price to families $8 per ton the American Ice Company made a deal on June 11, 1906, with Williamson & Brennan whereby the former bought 26,000 tons of ice for the price of $1.33 in the house. On July 5, 1906, two days before the American Ice Company raised its bridge price in New York to $5 and $6 per ton and the price to all their trade other than families to $7 per ton delivered, the President of the American Ice Company bought from the President of the Mountain Ice Company 50,000 to 60,000 tons of ice, free on board vessels Maine, at $1.75 during July, 1906, and what they did not take during July at $2.

The report shows further how the American Ice Company controls, through stock ownership, several other alleged independent concerns, and sets forth in detail purchases and sales of ice at what appear to be preferential rates. The correspondence between President Oler of the trust and some of his district managers, much of which has already been printed, is also included. On the basis of the revelations of trust control the report suggests these lines for further inquiry:

> Why did the American Ice Company buy ice in large quantities in Maine from outside people when they were not harvesting themselves?
>
> Why did the American Ice Company gain control of the visible supply of ice, and why did they run their artificial ice plants in Greater New York on one-half production during January, February, March, and April, and on two-thirds production during May and three-quarters in June, 1906?
>
> Why did the American Ice Company, when they had been previously buying ice from outsiders refuse to consider offers from outsiders subsequently?

Wouldn't Buy Ice in the Famine.

There are contained in the report extracts from letters showing large offers of ice during March and April, 1906. The report concludes:

"It is believed that an artificial shortage was created by the American Ice Company in order to raise the price of ice."

There was a sharp clash at yesterday's hearing between Mr. Jerome and Deputy Attorney General De Ford as to the famous Conners-Murphy ice speculation in the late Fall of 1906, when the two politicians are understood to have dropped $40,000 each on being caught short of the stock by C. W. Morse. The theory has been that Conners got wind of the suit that Attorney General Mayer was talking about bringing in the last days of his incumbency, and of which Mr. Mayer notified the incoming Attorney General William S. Jackson. So Mr. Jerome questioned Mr. De Ford:

> Q.—Were you aware of a certain letter that one William J. Conners of Buffalo wrote to the Attorney General on the subject of ice and a shortage of 2,100 shares of ice on the stock market here? A.—I know the facts about that from hearsay and I will tell you about it.
>
> Q.—Are you aware or not? A.—If you will produce the letter I will tell you.
>
> Q.—The letter was signed by John W. Gates and shown by Mr. Conners to Mr. Jackson. A.—I wasn't present; were you?
>
> Q.—No, but I heard the Attorney General swear to it. A.—I wasn't present and he didn't show me any letter.
>
> Q.—You were not aware of the fact? A.—No, he didn't show me any marked money.
>
> Q.—Not yet? A.—Perhaps you will show something on me a little later.
>
> Q.—Not I, as I have known you too well and too long to put in anything about your personal character, but not as a lawyer. A.—I have no doubt you don't respect my legal opinion very much inasmuch as you have refused to act on it.

The hearings will be continued to-day.

NEW ICE INQUIRY BEGUN.

Osborne Examines Talesmen for Special Grand Jury—Affidavit by Jackson

The reinvestigation of the affairs of the American Ice Company, which Attorney General Jackson says in an affidavit filed in the Criminal Branch of the Supreme Court is "required by justice," because certain members of the Grand Jury which ended its investigation on March 16 were directly or indirectly interested in the affairs of the company, began yesterday, when Special Deputy Attorney General James W. Osborne established a precedent by personally examining every talesman called to sit on this special Grand Jury.

The entire morning was occupied in selecting twenty-three jurors. Most of the time the Attorney General was in court, and frequently Mr. Osborne asked his advice. Mr. Osborne asked all the talesmen called whether they held any stock in the American Ice Company, whether they belonged to any banks or corporations interested in the stock, whether they knew Mr. Morse or any members of the company, and whether they had any friends interested in it in any way whatever.

The first juror chosen, who was appointed Foreman by the court, was Evert Jansen Wendell of 8 East Thirty-eighth Street. The others were Abraham C. Quackenbush, insurance, of 25 Pine Street; Arthur Lincoln, a stock broker, of 29 Wall Street; Samuel Aufhauser, President, of 45 Maiden Lane; James Buckley, General Eastern Passenger Agent of the Erie Railroad, 399 Broadway; William Brower, a druggist, of 170 William Street; Perry Townsend, a clerk, of 342 West 123d Street; William H. W. Morris, retired, 1 West Eighty-fifth Street; Roderick J. Kennedy, retired, 456 East 149th Street; W. A. Topping, broker, 32 Broadway; John C. Wilson, insurance, 128 Broadway; William Lee Sawyer, insurance, 581 Tremont Avenue; Joseph E. Lopez, Secretary, 46 Cedar Street; John J. Galaher, real estate, 120 West Fifty-ninth Street; Nathan Hutkoss, manufacturer, 121 East Eighteenth Street; James O. Poillon, 48 West Eighty-second Street; William B. Ast, retired, 228 East Fifty-eighth Street; W. S. H. Armstrong, Treasurer, 120 Liberty Street; Edward C. Post, 550 West End Avenue; Thomas C. Wood, retired, 81 New Street; George H. Schulmann, diamond dealer, 937 Broadway; Cornelius N. Bliss, Jr., manager, 14 East Sixteenth Street, and Alfred E. Dieterich, Secretary, 500 Madison Avenue.

Justice Goff will charge the Grand Jury to-day.

MADDEN-McGINNIS FEUD ENDS.

Turfmen Make Up After a Quarrel Which Has Lasted a Year.

A quarrel between John E. Madden, the Kentucky breeder and turfman, and J. L. McGinnis, a New York horse owner, which began nearly a year ago, as the result of the purchase of the horse Salvidere by one of Madden's patrons, reached a point where McGinnis went yesterday to the Stewards of the meeting with a complaint that Madden had used abusive and threatening language to him. Madden met McGinnis later and said a mistake had been made. Then McGinnis withdrew the complaint.

ONE HARLEM BRIDGE CLOSED.

Old Madison Avenue Span to be Connected with Temporary Structure.

Traffic over the Madison Avenue Bridge across the Harlem at 138th Street has been stopped for three days.

The swing span of the old bridge is to be floated down stream on the high tide to-day and connected with the temporary bridge at a point a block and a half below the old structure.

The new bridge will probably not be completed for a year yet, and the temporary structure will be used.

DEATH RATE DROPS A BIT.

Less Than for Same Week Last Year—60 Deaths from Scarlet Fever.

In all, there were nine deaths less in this city last week than there were in the corresponding week of last year. The actual figures were 1,500. The death rate for the week figured out by the Health Department was 17.69, as against 18.37 a year ago.

That there is still much scarlet fever is shown by the total of 60 deaths reported, as against 19 last year.

INMAN & CO. FAIL, OWING $1,250,000

Inability to Sell Spot Cotton Causes Bankruptcy of Well-Known Augusta Brokers.

INMAN'S WIDOW WITHDREW

J. R. Gray, Owner of Atlanta Journal, One of the Partners—Little Effect in New York.

ATLANTA, Ga., May 4.—The firm of Inman & Co., cotton brokers of Augusta, with wide connections, went into the hands of a receiver. The liabilities are said to be about $1,250,000, and the assets in excess of that amount. The long-continued depression in the cotton market and consequent failure of the firm to dispose of its spot cotton, is given as the cause of the failure.

Walker P. Inman was formerly head of the firm. After his death last November his widow withdrew from it. The sole members of the present firm are James F. McGowan of Augusta and James R. Gray, owner and editor of The Atlanta Journal. Mr. Gray is a son-in-law of the late Mr. Inman.

The petition in involuntary bankruptcy was filed to-day in the United States Court by attorneys for the Atlantic Compress Company, the Gulf Compress Company, J. C. Evans, and C. R. Sims, creditors for sums ranging from $500 to $11,000. T. W. Barrett, Jr., of Augusta was made receiver.

Mr. Gray explained that the firm had prevailed upon the creditors to hold off until every possible means was exhausted. The firm was ready to co-operate for an economical administration of its affairs.

Mr. Inman always indorsed liberally for this firm, and lent it the full strength of his great credit. His death last November has rendered it impossible for the firm to have the benefit of this powerful assistance. There has been no speculation on the part of the firm or either member, and the embarrassment grows solely out of the depression in the cotton market and cotton contracts for actual delivery to the mills and consumers. The mills have practically quit buying cotton, and have left the firm in a position where they have been unable to dispose of their enormous holdings at anything like a fair figure.

It is believed that with economical handling of the assets the creditors will be paid in full. It is difficult to say just how the firm stands, as the fluctuations in the market affect the assets.

Inman & Co. of Augusta were said in cotton trade circles in this city last night to have had eight or ten accounts with Cotton Exchange houses in this city, but it is not believed that the net amount due to any one of these firms will reach a large amount. In some cases at least the accounts held for the firm in this city were closed out yesterday.

F. A. Toole is the manager of the New York office of Inman & Co. in the Cotton Exchange Building. He said last night that he knew nothing regarding the bringing of bankruptcy proceedings, and that he had had no advices on the subject up to the time he left the office for the day. Being told that the advices from the South gave the inability of the firm to realize on its spot cotton as the chief reason for the firm's embarrassment, Mr. Toole said that from what he knew of the situation he would regard that as the only reason for the failure.

The name of Inman has been prominently identified with the spot cotton market for nearly half a century. The Inmans of Inman & Co. of Augusta, of Inman, Akers & Inman of Atlanta, and of Inman, Swan & Co. of New York all came of the same family, but the firm of Inman & Co. of Augusta was not connected with the other firms, so far as business operations are concerned. The Inmans in the days before the civil war owned a plantation in Tennessee. After the war several members of the family engaged in the spot cotton business in New York and the South, and all made fortunes in the business.

Cotton futures were active and strong in the New York market yesterday. After the recent prolonged decline, prices rose sharply, and the trading was on a large scale. The May option rose to 8.83 and the July option to 8.89, these being advances of about 40 points above the closing prices of last Saturday and about 80 points, or $4 a bale, above the lowest prices of last week.

SULLY'S SOAP CO. FAILS.

Ex-Cotton Plunger Said to Have Lost Heavily in Buchan Concern.

The Buchan's Soaps Corporation, of which Daniel Sully became President not long ago, went into bankruptcy yesterday, with liabilities of $85,000. Mr. Sully is said to have lost heavily in the concern.

The corporation was capitalized at $1,200,000, and had offices at 221 Fifth Avenue and a manufacturing plant at Driggs Avenue and Norfolk Street, Brooklyn.

Two petitions in bankruptcy were filed yesterday. One was by Philbin, Beekman & Menken in behalf of Charles H. Stanton, the Oriental Bank, and the Trow Directory, Printing, and Binding Company. The other petition was filed by Leonard Bronner, counsel for Artemus Ward, George H. Thompson, and Louis Cohn. Judge Hough, in the United States District Court, appointed Leonard Bronner receiver, with a bond of $10,000, and authorized him to continue the business.

The firm's business has been poor since last October. Mr. Bronner is authority for the statement that Mr. Sully lost $100,000 in the soap business. Col. George H. Thompson, who has been identified with the Buchan Companies for many years, was quoted yesterday as saying that Mr. Sully had lost $200,000 since he bought control of the corporation. It was Mr. Sully who increased the capital of the concern from $42,000 to $1,200,000.

Frank Tilford, in whose name one-third of the company's stock stands, will lose practically nothing by the failure, it is said. Col. Thompson is quoted as saying that the assets will be sufficient to meet all liabilities and that the failure was in a measure due to Mr. Sully's spectacular methods of advertising the business.

LYONS CO. ON ITS FEET AGAIN.

Building Concern, Which Failed for $8,000,000, to Pay in Full.

Judge Hough has confirmed a composition of the J. C. Lyons Building and Operating Company, 4 East Forty-second Street, with its creditors, which ends the bankruptcy proceedings began against the company on Dec. 20 last.

The following statement was given out by counsel for the company:

> The Lyons Company had obligations of upward of $8,000,000 and has succeeded in effecting a composition with its creditors on the basis of paying all creditors in full by notes, 50 per cent. payable in fifteen months and 50 per cent. payable in twenty-four months. All of the creditors, with the exception of those having aggregate claims of $2,000, joined in the composition.
>
> J. C. Lyons, President of the company, is very gratified at the success of this composition, which, he feels, is entirely due to the attitude adopted by the large creditors, who co-operated throughout to effect the plan of reorganization.

The company also announced the sale of the premises 18, 20, 22 West Eighteenth Street and 23, 25, and 27 West Seventeenth Street at a price approximating $1,000,000, subject to a mortgage of $625,000, the balance of the purchase price being paid in cash.

Liner, Propeller Gone, Holsts Sails.

The White Star liner Cretic, in last night from the Mediterranean, reports that on April 30, about 1,462 miles east of Sandy Hook, she passed the Booth liner Justin, heading northwest under sail, with her propeller gone. The skipper of the Justin was looking for a tow, but required no other assistance.

CHURCHGOERS CHEER ANTI-BETTING FIGHT

in every endeavor, and in politics also, but it is one thing to manage a campaign and another thing to try to own an officer elected by the people.

"I want to see some things improved. I want to see the Public Service Commission have jurisdiction over telegraphs and telephones. I want to see invested capital protected, but I want to see it demonstrated that the people are on top, that no creature of the State is superior to the State, that every franchise is provided under proper regulations. This is too vast a community to be governed with the old Democratic methods—it is too large for the meetings together—but success lies in proper representation."

Speaking of the vote upon the anti-race track gambling measures, the Governor asked:

"Did that look like a party measure? Oh, if we could have the history of the solicitations that preceded that vote!"

"It has been said that these bills will help the poolrooms. The first thing that we want to do with the poolrooms is to get rid of the discrimination in favor of the race tracks."

Louis Marshall, the next speaker, who had been a member of the Constitutional Convention of 1894, said that he did not wish to cover the same ground that the Governor had covered, but, neverheless, he wanted to voice support of the Governor's fight.

"On the one side," said he, "is Gov. Hughes, and on the other the gambling element led by Senators Grady and McCarren."

Prof. Paul Fuller, Dean of the Law School of Fordham University, said:

"We are here to indict the members of the New York Legislature who voted against the anti-race track gambling bills. If these legislators wish to be anything better than messenger boys, than agents of The Jockey Club, than accessories to every fraud into which the poolrooms entice youths, they must rectify their course."

Prof. Fuller also advised the women of the audience to exert their influence upon their men folk.

"Ask them when they are about to vote for one of these legislators," said he, "to ask the legislator if he has a master in Washington who tells him how to vote."

Before it adjourned, the meeting passed a set of resolutions pledging its support as individual citizens to the cause. The resolutions concluded:

> That we hereby demand from our legislators, Senators and Assemblymen, summoned to convene in special session at Albany, the passage of the bills, commonly known as the Agnew-Hart bills, to carry out the plain provisions of the Constitution against race track gambling, putting gambling within the race track inclosure on the same footing as gambling outside the race track inclosure.
>
> That we condemn the action of those Senators, Democrats and Republicans alike, who voted at the recent session of the Legislature against the enactment of laws to carry into effect the provisions of the Constitution, enacted by the people of this State, and more especially those Senators who have betrayed the people's trust by a supine abdication of their function as representatives of the people at the mandate of irresponsible party bosses.
>
> That we denounce those party traders and hucksters who, not elected by the people nor responsible to the people, unknown to the law and the Constitution, have filched the rights of the people and the functions and offices of Government, and dictated to our legislators votes contrary to the will of their constituents, the plain mandate of the Constitution and the law of common morality, and that we demand such a change in the system of nominations for office as shall lessen or abolish such illegal control of the representatives elected by the people.

The Rev. Charles F. Aked, in a brief address, indorsed what Gov. Hughes had said and the audience was then dismissed.

BOARD OF TRADE RACING VOTE.

Organization to Make Postal Card Canvass on Hughes Bills.

The New York Board of Trade and Transportation has begun a postal card canvass to ascertain the unbiased opinion of the members of the organization regarding race-track gambling as embodied in the measures promoted by Gov. Hughes.

In a circular issued by G. Waldo Smith, Chairman of the Executive Committee, it is stated that at the request of a number of members the committee submits the question for a general vote. It is stated that "those who request the submission of this subject to our members believe it is a proper question for our action because the integrity of fundamental or constitutional government in this State is involved. Also because gambling on races is a menace to every business house whose employes may be led into fatal indiscretions."

The return postal card sent to each member is as follows:

> Shall the New York Board of Trade and Transportation petition the Legislature of New York State to pass the Anti-Race Track Gambling bill?
>
> The undersigned member of the New York Board of Trade and Transportation votes * on the above question.

STRENUOUS DAYS FOR HUGHES.

Will Speak Seven Times in Two Days in Orleans District.

ALBANY, May 4.—It was announced at the Executive Chamber to-day that the Governor's itinerary has been completed for his campaign of speech-making next Friday and Saturday in the Niagara-Orleans Senatorial District, where a special election is to be held to select a successor to the late Senator Franchot.

The Governor is due to arrive in Rochester Friday morning, where he is to meet William C. Wallace, the Republican Senatorial candidate. From Rochester they will go to Halley, Orleans County, where a meeting is scheduled for 11 A. M. They will go in an automobile to Albion to address a meeting at 12:30. The next stop will be Medina, where a meeting is to be held at 3 P. M. The party will then go into Niagara County, the first stop being Middleport. A meeting has been arranged for 5 o'clock. From Middleport they will go to Lockport, where a meeting is to be held at 8:15 in the evening.

On Saturday the Governor, accompanied by Mr. Wallace, will go by trolley to North Tonawanda to address a meeting at noon. At 8 P. M. there will be a meeting at Niagara Falls.

It is said here to-day that the successful candidate at the special election would not in any event take his seat in the Senate before May 22 or 23, when the State Board of Canvassers is expected to meet. The local board of canvassers will probably meet on May 19. The extraordinary session of the Legislature is to convene on Monday evening, May 11.

HUGHES AT METHODIST DINNER.

Tells of Observing a Growing Sentiment for Law and Order.

Gov. Hughes attended the dinner of the Methodist Social Union at the Hotel Astor last night. He was received with an outburst of applause, followed by the Chautauqua salute, the diners rising and waving napkins in greeting. The Governor said:

"I am here only to thank you for your cordial greeting and the manner in which you have supported me in my efforts. I regret exceedingly that it has not been possible for me to meet the different bodies of different beliefs that have invited me to join with them upon various occasions.

"There are a great many people who take a pessimistic view of the future, but I do not believe that there is a growing sentiment in favor of law and order. Our people are sound. They are bound to progress. Make no mistake in looking toward the future, a future that will spring from the wholesome sentiment of the American heart."

As the Governor sat down three cheers were given, with a "tiger."

COURT FREES LAUTERBACH.

Three Charges Growing Out of Motoring Are Dismissed.

Alfred Lauterbach, son of Edward Lauterbach of 761 Fifth Avenue, appeared in court yesterday with his mother to answer to three charges of breaking the automobile law—speeding, the want of proper lights, and carrying a false number. He was arrested on Nov. 16 by Bicycle Policeman Frank Reuschle of the West 125th Street Station at 166th Street and Broadway. His mother was with him at the time. All three charges were dismissed.

CORNER IN CORN SENDS UP THE PRICE

Patten and Bartlett Have Paid for Nearly 4,000,000 Bushels Since May 1.

FARMERS AIDING THE BULLS

Refusal to Sell Stock on Hand and the Small Crop Factors in Advancing the Prices.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, May 4.—Corn took its turn to-day at the skyrocket game now being played daily on the Chicago Board of Trade, and soared to 70½ cents. This is the highest figure at which corn has sold in this market since John W. Gates, Daniel G. Reid, and others who comprised what was known as the "tin plate crowd" attempted to corner the market in 1902.

In July of that year the price was boosted to 88 cents, and the deal, while apparently successful, ended in wholesale court proceedings because a number of the big shorts defaulted, asserting that the market had been manipulated to a fictitious level.

"Big Jim" Patten and W. H. Bartlett are the men behind the so-called "corn corner." They own practically all the cash corn in Chicago, having taken in and paid for nearly 4,000,000 bushels since May 1, and many of the bears who have sold for delivery this month are unable to fill their contracts. The deal had its inception in the small crop raised last year and the unusually poor quality. By refusing to sell, the farmers are aiding the bulls in an advance of prices. Little corn is coming forward from the country, and Patten and his associates are in a position to dictate prices.

The advance to-day also revived memories of the famous Coster and Martin deal in 1892, which was engineered by Charles Coster, who last week committed suicide in New York. Coster ran the price of May corn up to $1 on the last day of the month. His bank refused to certify checks given in payment for cash corn. Coster and his partners "went broke" and a slump of nearly 50 cents within a space of five minutes caused a wild panic on the board.

JOHNSON BARS SECOND PLACE.

Not In Any Combination to Get Vice Presidential Nomination.

WASHINGTON, May 4.—Rumors of combinations with the end in view of nominating Gov. Johnson of Minnesota for Vice President on the Democratic ticket were denied to-day at the Johnson headquarters in this city, where the following statement was given out:

"Gov. Johnson is in the race for the Presidential nomination. If by any chance he fails to get the Presidential nomination, he will not, under any circumstances, accept the Vice Presidential nomination."

ST. PAUL, Minn., May 4.—When the statement from Washington was read to Gov. Johnson to-day, he said:

"I am not entering into any combinations whatsoever for the nomination for the Presidency or Vice Presidency, and I will say that I am not a candidate for the Democratic nomination for the Presidency except under the conditions that I have already set forth in a statement published some time ago."

HARMON FOR OHIO GOVERNOR.

Democratic Convention Likely to Nominate Him—Will Indorse Bryan.

Special to The New York Times.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, May 4.—It seems almost certain that the Democratic State Convention which will convene here to-morrow, will nominate Judson Harmon for Governor. This means that the anti-Tom Johnson forces will be in command, Johnson's candidate, A. Atlee Pomerine of Canton will be defeated, and that W. I. Finley, State Inspector of Oils, Harmon's manager, will be State Chairman.

Delegates are straggling into the city. Mayor Johnson, his lieutenant, Charles P. Salen, and Mr. Pomerine are here. Mayor Johnson says all he desires for himself is to be National Committeeman. There is no doubt that William J. Bryan will be indorsed and that the delegates to the National Convention will be instructed for him.

Mr. Finley said to-day that the Cleveland Mayor would be defeated at every point.

AID FOR HUGHES BOOM.

Governor's Friends Open Information Bureau with Up-State Branches.

To quicken the Hughes Presidential boom a new agency has sprung into being. It is the "Hughes Information Bureau," which has opened a downtown headquarters at 165 Broadway, and will open offices uptown within a few days. Its purpose is thus set forth in a circular which is being sent broadcast over the State:

> A number of personal friends of Gov. Hughes believe that his policies and personality should be placed before the voters through a channel which will be authentic and reliable. This bureau will endeavor in all legitimate ways to crystallize public opinion so as to determine who is the candidate who can carry the State of New York at the coming Presidential election. This bureau has just been organized, and is an entirely independent effort on the part of his friends.

The circular is signed by W. H. Van Steenburgh, a lawyer of 10 Wall Street; Frederick M. Willis, an importer, of 156 Fifth Avenue; F. M. Crossett, a publisher, of the same address; John Patterson, a lawyer, of 43 Cedar Street, and Henry Bowers Mingle, a lawyer, of 165 Broadway. All are personal friends of Gov. Hughes. Mr. Mingle is Secretary of the Hughes Information Bureau.

"One of the first things we shall do," said Mr. Mingle, "is to take a poll of the voters in the State, both Republicans and Democrats, with a view of ascertaining just what the popular sentiment is, and to convey the information thus collected to the people of the State and Nation."

NEW REPUBLICAN OFFICES.

State Committee's Headquarters to be Moved to 45 West 39th Street.

Plans for the new headquarters of the Republican State Committee at 45 West Thirty-ninth Street have been filed with Building Superintendent Murphy. They contemplate the conversion of a four-story dwelling into offices and assembly rooms, which the committee will occupy instead of the building at 12 East Thirtieth Street, which has been used as State Headquarters since the removal two years ago from the Fifth Avenue Hotel. The estimated cost is $7,000.

NEW GRAND JURIES AT WORK.

Judge Rosalsky, Instructs Them to Investigate City Institutions.

In charging the two regular county Grand Juries for the May term in General Sessions yesterday, Judge Rosalsky said:

"I would advise you to look into some of the city institutions. I went, a short time ago, with Judges Swann and Malone, to the penitentiary, the workhouse, and the city reformatory on Hart's Island. While we were satisfied that the officials of these places are faithful and efficient, we were struck with the insufficient number of keepers in proportion to the number of prisoners. This should be rectified."

BUSINESS IN WEST PICKS UP.

But In Other Sections Bank Clearings Reflect Shrinkage In Trade.

Further improvement in business conditions in the West is indicated in an increased volume of payments through the banks in that section during April. In other sections of the country, according to returns compiled by R. G. Dun & Co., a large total loss in bank clearings is reported.

Total exchanges for April in all cities in the United States are $9,748,135,263, a decrease of 22.9 per cent. compared with a year ago and 24.5 per cent. compared with April, 1906. The loss at New York City, due in large measure to the reduced volume of operations in the speculative markets and to the lower security values, still overshadows the loss in other sections, though it is heavy at most New England, Middle Atlantic, South Atlantic, and Pacific Coast points.

The small loss at Chicago compared with a year ago shows that the volume of payments through the banks at that important city are again nearly as large as the heavy total in 1907, while in the comparison with 1906 there is an increase. At a number of cities west of Chicago there are considerable gains over 1907, notably at Kansas City, while at St. Paul the loss is very small; likewise at Detroit, Milwaukee, and Indianapolis.

PEEPS IN THE WRONG WINDOW

Then an Eleven-Year-Old Boy Gets Into School for the First Time.

In all his eleven years Hyman Etken, who lives with his father and mother at 31 Willard Street, had never gone to school until yesterday. He had never wanted to go, and was overjoyed when two years ago his mother was told that there was no room for him in the school at which she applied.

Hyman might not have been in school yet had it not been for a mistake he made yesterday. He happened to be in the vicinity of Broome and Sheriff Streets a few minutes before 1 o'clock, and he saw a crowd of boys and girls running toward a big building.

Hyman joined in the chase, thinking it might lead to a mad dog, or at least a fight, and having no suspicions of the big gray building toward which the chase was leading. Not until he found himself in the yard of Public School 34 did Hyman realize to what his curiosity had led him.

It led him just a little further, too, for once in the school yard, he drew himself up to a window sill and peeped through the window into the face of Truant Officer James P. Byrne.

Then Hyman ran, but Byrne ran faster. He caught the boy and brought him back. Principal Goldwasser questioned him. Then he sent him to Miss Moses's class, the lowest in the primary. Mrs. Etken came to school later and said she was glad a place had been found for her boy.

TOMBS PRISONER MISSING.

Arraigned with Sixteen Others, He Slips Out of Court Unobserved.

Although the records of the officers of the Court of Special Sessions show that he passed over the Bridge of Sighs to that court room on Friday morning with sixteen other prisoners and later passed back again, young Harry Randall, who Chief Probation Officer Gravour says is a Canadian criminal, cannot now be found.

Gravour says that Randall had only been in this city two days, having come from Montreal, where on April 28 he was arested for stealing a $16 diamond pin in a department store. When Gravour went to his cell to talk to the prisoner on Saturday morning he was not there.

He notified the Justices of Special Sessions, and a general alarm was sent out from Police Headquarters. It is supposed that the prisoner simply walked out of court on Friday after pleading, while the attention of policemen and court officers was held by some other case.

TRACTION SUIT CONTINUED.

Metropolitan Officials Testify In the Weller-Weil Action.

The suit brought by Minnie Weller and Emanuel Weil against the Directors of the New York City Railway was on again before Justice Young in the Municipal Court yesterday, with little tangible result so far as affirmative evidence was concerned.

The most interesting statement made by any of the witnesses of the company was that of Chief Engineer M. G. Scarrett of the Metropolitan Street Railway, the construction and electrification head of the system, that he didn't know anything about the expenditure of $11,000,000 provided for electrification under the terms of the lease and agreements of Feb. 14, 1902, between the Metropolitan Street Railway, the New York City Railway, and the Metropolitan Securities Company.

UPHOLDS THE INTERBOROUGH.

Commissioner Dismisses Complaint of Washington Heights Patrons.

Washington Heights residents got a severe setback yesterday when Public Service Commissioner Eustis abruptly terminated a public hearing on the request that the Interborough Rapid Transit Company be ordered to run local trains on the Broadway division of the Subway all the way to Dyckman Street, and the expresses which now stop at Dyckman Street all the way to Kingsbridge.

Commissioner Eustis said that he would not favor the granting of the order asked for.

THAW QUITS ASYLUM PENDING A HEARING

Will Remain in Comfortable Quarters at the Dutchess County Jail.

HIS SIDE HEARD THERE

But Jerome's Argument Against His Release May Be Heard Here Before the Up-State County Judge.

Special to The New York Times.

POUGHKEEPSIE, May 4.—Harry Kendall Thaw, looking the picture of physical health, laughed yesterday when Justice Morschauser adjourned court until Monday and Assistant District Attorney Garvan started back to New York to report to Mr. Jerome the loss of the first day's battle in the fight to keep Thaw under lock and key.

A. Russell Peabody, the only one of the old counsel present, left the conduct of the case to J. G. Graham of Newburg, the former secretary to Gov. Odell, who was employed to start the fight for the release of Thaw.

District Atorney John E. Mack of Dutchess County addressed the court, asking that the case be sent to New York County, whence it came.

"We have only a court and jury fund of $10,000 for the year," he said, "and to properly present the District Attorney's side of this case might require $30,000.

"Besides, I know nothing of this case save what I have read in the newspapers."

Garvan Fears Expense.

Mr. Garvan, representing Mr. Jerome and the County of New York, asked leave to address the court. He pointed out that the experts in the first trial of Thaw had cost New York County $24,000. He said that the hearing on the writ might continue for more than a month, while it would be necessary to send commissions to Paris, Monte Carlo, Rome, and London to obtain testimony.

"The prisoner has been tried for the killing of Stanford White and has been found not guilty on the ground of insanity. The court has sent him to Matteawan and we feel that before he is released the case should have the fullest hearing."

"The man has never been adjudged insane," retorted Mr. Graham, "and the proposition of spending $30,000, or any other sum, to keep him in Matteawan is an unjust one.

"We want a different atmosphere in the hearing on this writ. If Thaw was insane when he was tried, the District Attorney had no right to try him. Our client has been confined for three months and his commitment papers did not pass on his sanity."

Justice Morschauser was swift in his decision on the question of sending the case to New York.

"I deny the motion," he said. "I could not transfer this case without the consent of the counsel for the relator."

"We won't give that consent," said Mr. Graham.

Case in Two Counties.

"And besides," continued the Judge, "I don't believe that the District Attorney of this county is going to permit the expenditure of any such large sum as has been mentioned. I am willing to let New York pay out as much as it pleases, but the hearing of the case for the relator will be held in this court, and then, if the District Attorney of New York wants his side heard in New York, and wants to spend New York's money in conducting his case, I will permit that and adjourn court to New York."

Mr. Garvan seemed a bit surprised at this proposition of hearing one side in Dutchess and the other in New York.

"I'd like to ask about the disposition of my client," began Mr. Graham.

"That will come last," said the Judge. "Shall we proceed with the case now?"

There was a hurried consultation, and District Attorney Mack suggested that District Attorney Jerome desired to conduct the case against the writ as applied for and the release of Thaw. Mr. Garvan pointed out that Mr. Jerome was busy with his own defense in New York, and that it was improbable that he would be free before a week. Justice Morschauser then gave a week in which to allow of Mr. Jerome's taking a personal hand in the case. To-morrow Mr. Graham and Justice Morschauser will be notified whether Mr. Jerome will be able to go on with the case next Monday or on any day before then. It may be that Mr. Jerome will not undertake to try the case in two counties and proffer the financial aid to Dutchess that it has been suggested he might offer.

Disposition of Thaw.

Then came the question of how to dispose of Thaw during the time of waiting and the time of hearing on the writ of habeas corpus. The counsel for the prisoner suggested that he be turned over to the insane asylum authorities in Poughkeepsie, but the District Attorney objected to this on the ground that Dr. Pilgrim, an alienist for the Thaw side, is the head of the asylum.

Thaw was eager to keep away from Matteawan. He had a quarrel with the officers of Matteawan last week, and, it was reported yesterday, had been deprived of certain privileges that had been granted him.

"I will send him upstairs," decided the Judge. "The Sheriff can give him comfortable quarters, I suppose."

In the Poughkeepsie Court House "upstairs" means the jail. The top floor of the building, a fresh, well-kept, sunshiny structure, is used for the prisoners. It is about as wholesome and as bright and as cheery a place for prisoners as could be found anywhere. The Sheriff of Dutchess is "Bob" Chanler, brother of the Lieutenant Governor, and a man of wealth. He is at present abroad. The Sheriff's room is a big, bright one, comfortable as befits the demands of a rich Sheriff.

Thaw's defense was broadly hinted at last night. He said himself that he was willing to go on the stand and stay on the stand as long as the court might require. He will bring alienists and the report of the lunacy commission which found him sane to speak for his present condition of mind.

"There was no excuse for my staying in Matteawan as long as I did," he said to an acquaintance. "I was acquitted and I am sane. Being in contact with insane people has been terribly trying."

Among the witnesses who will testify for Thaw and who were present here yesterday were Father Evers, chaplain of the Tombs; Dr. McGuire, physician of the Tombs; the special officer who had charge of Thaw during his two trials; Dr. Brashear, an aged theological professor, and a keeper from Matteawan.

A. Russell Peabody stated that Evelyn Nesbit Thaw, although she has not seen her husband in more than two months and has begun suit for annulment of their marriage, has offered herself as a witness in her husband's behalf should her testimony be necessary to obtain his freedom.

Thaw himself undoubtedly will go on the stand in his own behalf, Mr. Peabody said.

Doubt Hearing's Legality.

An attempt was made last night to see Mr. Jerome at his flat at 3 Rutgers Street, but there it was said that he had gone out for dinner with friends and would not be back until late. Just how he will take the proposition of fighting the attempt to release Thaw before a Dutchess County court sitting in New York and having the case for the people put up at the expense of New York County is a question. One of his assistants expressed a doubt as to the legality of such a proceeding. He seemed amused by it, but would not express an opinion as to how Mr. Jerome would take it.

Roger O'Mara said last night that he believed Thaw would soon be free. "And I think," he added, "that he will drop out of sight by getting down to a business career. He is a changed man."

LAST HAMILTON TREE GONE.

The Historic Group of Thirteen Has Finally Been Wiped Out.

Alexander Hamilton's famous group of thirteen trees has ceased to exist. The only one that has been standing for some time was felled last week, and, with their destruction has passed away one more of New York's historic landmarks.

The trees stood in an open plot of ground that will soon be utilized for buildings facing Convent Avenue, between 142d and 143d Streets. The boys of the neighborhood were busy yesterday hacking off pieces of the last Hamilton tree and offering them to passers-by as souvenirs at prices ranging from 10 to 25 cents Several older residents who have viewed the trees with veneration for the last quarter of a century have procured pieces large enough to be made into walking sticks.

Whether Hamilton planted the trees or not is a much-mooted question. In the limelight of recent historical investigation this has been denied. They did, however, stand on Hamilton's country estate, known as The Grange, and the old Hamilton residence is still standing.

STRIKE, BUT DON'T KNOW WHY.

800 Yonkers Teamsters Ordered Out by Their Union Officers.

Eight hundred teamsters went on strike in Yonkers yesterday, a general call-out being issued by William Sweeney, delegate of the Yonkers local of the Teamsters' Association, and Charles Jennings, National Organizer. Most of the men are willing to work, and perfect friendliness exists between employers and drivers. The men say they do not know why they are out.

It is said by the men that the price of living has been so high since last Winter that a number have got behind in their union dues. The drivers made an agreement with the owners about a year ago that there was to be no trouble of any kind for a year. This year closes next Sunday. It is reported that the delegates have presented a further agreement to the owners for signature. There has been no disorder, but many of the drivers say that they are afraid to go on their wagons for fear of violence. The owners declare that the man have been called out without reason.

Red Cross Nurses for Tornado Victims.

Six Red Cross nurses will be sent to-day by the New York State branch of the American National Red Cross to Hattiesburg, Miss., to nurse those injured in the tornado which swept through that section of the country. A dozen Red Cross nurses have already been sent from the District of Columbia and Pennsylvania State branches, and more may be called upon. The nurses will be in charge of Major W. L. Simpson, U. S. A., special Red Cross agent at Hattiesburg. Funds are requested to pay for the traveling expenses of these women and to pay for proper food for the patients. Contributions may be sent to Jacob H. Schiff, Treasurer, New York State Branch, 500 Fifth Avenue.

EVANS TO REJOIN HIS FLEET TO-DAY

Will Be Taken to Monterey, Where the Connecticut Will Await Him.

SMALL CRAFT IN A STORM

Destroyers Join the Reunited Battleship Fleet After a Hard Battle with the Sea.

SANTA CRUZ, Cal., May 4.—The Atlantic battleship fleet was united once more to-day, when the ships of the second squadron arrived from Monterey and the flotilla of torpedo boat destroyers joined it from San Pedro, the latter after one of the stormiest voyages of the cruise. The second squadron, headed by the Alabama, flying the flag of Rear Admiral Sperry, came across Monterey Bay, leaving at 5:30 this afternoon. The flotilla came in at 1:30. Admiral Thomas to-night moved from the Connecticut to the Minnesota, although his flag of senior Rear Admiral still flies at the main truck of the former.

The Connecticut is to proceed to Monterey at 6:30 in the morning and take on board Admiral Evans, who will return to active command of the fleet. He will go aboard about 9:30 o'clock, and the flagship will arrive here about 11 o'clock.

No ceremonies will attend the return of Rear Admiral Evans. When the Connecticut leaves port to-morrow the blue flag of Admiral Thomas will be run down and he will hoist his red pennant on the Minnesota. As soon as Admiral Evans is aboard the Connecticut at Monterey he will hoist his flag as commander in chief.

The torpedo flotilla fought every inch of the way from San Pedro against a strong head wind that caused big waves to break over the boats and wash the decks from stem to stern. The screens of the bridges and every loose article about the decks was washed away. Nearly every man on board was seasick during the trip. No serious damage resulted, however.

PASO ROBLES HOT SPRINGS, Cal., May 4.—Admiral Evans was feeling remarkably well on this the last day of his stay here. The private car in which he is to make the trip to Monterey is here awaiting him.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 4.—The first and second squadrons of the Pacific Fleet arrived here this afternoon from Puget Sound ports. They will await in the harbor the arrival of the Atlantic Fleet on Wednesday, and will participate in the naval review. The first squdron, in command of Rear Admiral James H. Dayton, consists of the cruisers West Virginia, Pennsylvania, Colorado, and Maryland. The second squadron, under Rear Admiral Sebree, is composed of the Tennessee, Washington, California, and South Dakota.

Visitors are coming to San Francisco at the rate of 25,000 a day. The ferry building has been blocked constantly since Saturday morning. Southern Pacific Railroad officials to-day said that 75,000 persons had reached San Francisco over their lines already.

PLEASED BY FLEET'S VISIT.

Takahira Tells Those Decorated by Mikado—It Will Cement Friendship.

The sentiment that Japan welcomes the increase of this country's naval power in the Pacific because it decreases Japan's responsibility in the preservation of peace there, was expressed last night by K. Midzuno, the Japanese Consul General in New York, at a dinner in the Hotel Astor. The dinner was given by the Consul General to those New Yorkers who have received decorations from the Mikado—about twenty in all.

Baron Takahira, the Japanese Ambassador, was also a guest, and spoke after the dinner. The Baron said that the visit of this country's fleet to Japan would result in the cementing of the bonds of sympathy between the two nations and that the relations in the future between the United States and Japan would be even more happy than in the past.

WAS SUICIDE CLUB MEMBER.

Man Who Killed Himself Had Said He Belonged to New York Organization.

Special to The New York Times.

MUSKEGON, Mich., May 4.—That Herman De Kruyter, whose body was found Monday night after a five weeks' search, was a member of the Black Veil Suicide Club of New York, was established to-night beyond reasonable doubt.

On the body of the suicide was found a black veil, with gloves and stockings of the same hue. On three previous occasions young De Kruyter had attempted to take his own life. On each occasion the attempt was made after he had received through the mails a package containing a black veil, a pair of black stockings, and a pair of black gloves. To his parents he admitted that he had joined a suicide club in New York two years ago. The society he said originated in New York, and afterward established a branch in Chicago.

Members of the society believed death was only a transition to a state of perpetual bliss. Instead of regarding death with aversion, the society regarded it as a pleasure. Each member pledged himself to die when his number was drawn. The signal was the transmission of a black veil through the mails.

De Kruyter's parents say they will spare no effort to trace the society's headquarters.

JAIL FOR BUCKET SHOPPER.

Sentence of Thirty Days in a Test Case in Washington.

WASHINGTON, May 4.—Percy Wade, recently convicted of violating the gambling laws of the District of Columbia by conducting a "bucket shop," was to-day sentenced by Justice Barnard in Criminal Court to serve thirty days in jail. Mr. Wade took an appeal, and was released on $500 bail.

Wade's case was regarded as a test under the District code. Five other brokers are under indictment for offenses similar to that charged against Wade.

RIX NOW ON TRIAL FOR PIANO SCANDAL

Committee of Board of Education Sits Until Midnight in Hearing on Charges.

SECRET SESSIONS HELD

Music Director Accused of Accepting as New Pianos He Knew Had Been Used.

Frank R. Rix, one of the two music directors of the New York public schools, was placed on trial last night before the Committee on Buildings of the Board of Education on charges of "misconduct and neglect of duty" which grew out of the investigation of the "piano scandal."

The committee sat until nearly midnight hearing testimony. Numerous witnesses for the prosecution were on hand, and considerable progress was made, though it will take several meetings before the committee will have all the facts before it. Mr. Rix was accompanied by counsel. The Board of Education is represented by Commissioner George Freifeld.

The charges against Mr. Rix were preferred by Supt. Maxwell at the request of the committee as the President of the board and the Commissioners are not allowed by law to prefer charges against a department director. The hearings will all be behind closed doors, as was the case in the trial of Caleb W. Cameron, who was recently fined on charges in connection with the acceptance of old pianos as new.

The complaint against Mr. Rix grew out of his testimony against Mr. Cameron. It is reported that while on the stand under cross-examination he admitted that he, too, had perhaps accepted a piano as new, and had by signing a paper caused the city to pay for it as new, when he himself had at that time doubts about it.

That was in February, and President Winthrop at once suspended Rix until the matter could be disposed of. The music director has been only nominally in the employ of the city, and without compensation now for nearly three months.

The committee decided on adjournment last night to meet again next Monday night, when additional witnesses for the prosecution will be heard.

GOLD IN SLOT MACHINE.

Honest Corporation Will Now Return the $2.50 Mistaken for a Cent.

In the Lost and Found Column of THE TIMES this morning is an advertisement which reads:

FOUND—A $2.50 gold piece in one-cent automatic stamp machine in Post Office.

The good news is that the owner, who put in the coin evidently in mistake for a cent, may get it back by identifying a mark upon it and paying the cost of the advertisement.

When the stamp-vending machines came into use recently, one or two of them yielded more stamps than were paid for until they were repaired. This is probably the first instance, however, where any one ever paid $2.50 for a one-cent stamp.

We were first to point the way to distinction in Ready-for-Service Apparel for Men

But in the rush that followed—the inevitable desire to mimic success, there have been countless instances of over-reaching.

In other words, freakishness and novelty have been confused in the minds of many manufacturers who had the will but lacked the talent—or facilities.

We are still producing—and always shall—garments that are beyond the confines of the ordinary. But good taste and elegance are, and will be, predominant features.

Our designers have created many exceptionally attractive models in Spring Suits. Among them may be mentioned the straight front 3-button coat, very slightly form-tracing back; generous, deep cut lapels and several styles of sleeve cuffs.

COLOMBIA'S TROOPS GUARD HER BORDERS

Both Venezuela and Panama Are Demanding Portions of Her Territory.

TAFT MAY SETTLE DISPUTES

Understood in Carthagena That Part of His Errand South Is to Avert Outbreak of Hostilities.

CARTHAGENA, Colombia, May 4.—The Government of Colombia has reason to believe that the Government of Panama is intriguing with Venezuela to declare war upon this country.

It is known that the occupation of Jurado, which is on the Atrato River, the boundary line between Panama and Colombia, has angered the Panama Government. The occupation of Jurado, it is stated, was on the advice of the American Government, which held that it was clearly within Colombian territory.

It is said here that the attitude of the Government of Panama has given the United States a good deal of solicitude, and that one of Secretary Taft's chief missions to Panama is to try and adjust the matter. It is believed in Colombia the American Government is aware of the effort of Panama to induce Venezuela to make war upon Colombia.

Passengers who have just arrived in New York from Savanilla, Colombia, bring news of the presence of President Reyes at Santa Marta, a Colombian seaport on the Goajira Peninsula, over toward the Venezuelan frontier line. He is there to look out for Colombia's boundaries, which are threatened both by Venezuela and Panama.

Panama, according to the Colombians, is seeking to despoil Colombia of certain territory along the Atrato River, which includes the town of Jurado. Venezuela's demand is that Colombia cede her a very material part of the Goajira Peninsula, down the centre of which the present boundary now runs, as well as a certain area in the vicinity of Cucuta. She wants to get possession of a railroad that runs from Cucuta to Encontrados, where connection is had with the Venezuelan line running northerly to Maracaibo.

Panama, it is declared, would like to embroil Colombia with Venezuela on the eastern frontier, as such an outcome would give her a better chance to force her claim for territorial extension on the western frontier.

NO REVOLUTION IN PERU.

Consul General Higginson Says Insurgent Movement Is Quite Unimportant.

Eduardo Higginson, the Peruvian Consul General in this city, stated last night he had cable advices from his Government showing that the insurgent movement in Peru is of no importance whatever.

"The trouble," said the Consul General, "is isolated in character and has no weight or political significance. It was caused by the approach of the Presidential elections in Peru, at which time local disturbances are liable to occur. Latest advices by cable to-day are to the effect that the leader Durand, with a few followers, was being pursued by the Government troops. His capture is likely at any moment."

BRAZIL'S CORDIALITY LIMITED.

Intimation That There Are Powers with Which She Is Not Friendly.

RIO JANEIRO, May 4.—A message from President Penna was presented to the Brazilian Congress to-day. He says the relations of Brazil are cordial with almost all foreign countries.

This statement is interpreted as practically excluding the Argentine Republic, and possibly Peru, from the number of powers enjoying good relations with Brazil. Congress opened yesterday.

Elected President of Bolivia.

LAS PAZ, Bolivia, May 4.—Fernando Guachalla was to-day elected President of Bolivia in succession to Señor Ismael Montes, whose term expires Aug. 14 next.

JEWISH TRUST UNRESTRICTED.

British Court of Chancery Refuses to Confine Its Operations to Palestine.

LONDON, May 4.—A petition of the Jewish Colonial Trust asking power from the court to restrict its operations to Palestine was dismissed this morning by the Court of Chancery. The trust has a capital of $10,000,000, which has been subscribed with the object of promoting the welfare of the Jewish race in all parts of the world.

The managers of the trust, who were supported by a considerable section of the stockholders, contended that the colonization of Palestine and neighboring territory was the "great ideal of Zionism and the only object worth entertaining." Israel Zangwill and other dissentients bitterly opposed the proposed scheme of limitation.

"It would mean," Mr. Zangwill declared to the court, "sitting down idle before the closed gates of Zion."

The promised land, he declared, was not at present attainable, and the proposed restriction would prevent the trust from ameliorating the distress of persecuted Jews in many parts of the world.

In dismissing the petition, the court took Mr. Zangwill's view. The Justice said that if he sanctioned the suggested alteration he would be doing little to improve the condition of an oppressed and great people outside of Palestine.

120 DROWN IN THE DNIEPER.

Were Passengers on a Ferryboat Which Became Unmanageable.

ST. PETERSBURG, May 4.—A ferryboat on the River Dnieper capsized yesterday near Bykhoff, in the Government of Mohileff, and 120 persons were drowned, chiefly peasants and their wives and children returning from church.

The boat was overcrowded and became unmanageable in the middle of the stream. The passengers got into a state of panic and caused the boat to upset by crowding to one side.

HONORS WALTER McCLINTOCK.

Berlin Scientific Society Invites Him to Talk on Blackfeet Indians.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, May 4.—The Prussian Royal Anthropological Society has paid a distinguished compliment to the young Pittsburg naturalist, Walter McClintock, having invited him to deliver next Saturday night at the Anthropological Museum, before a select company of scientists, a lecture on the Blackfeet Indians of Montana and the Rocky Mountains.

Mr. McClintock lived among the Blackfeet ten years, and was finally adopted as the son of Chief Mad Wolf. The lecture he will deliver here is substantially the one he delivered before President Roosevelt at the White House last April.

At the conclusion of his lecture here Mr. McClintock will sing a series of Blackfeet war songs.

A few weeks ago Mr. McClintock, who came to Germany with credentials from Mr. Carnegie, talked about the Blackfeet before an invited company at Ambassador Tower's house.

His stories form the basis of the Indian opera, "Poia," by the Pittsburg composer, Walter Nevin, arrangements for the production of which are under way in Germany.

ASQUITH ON HOME RULE.

British Premier Restates His Attitude to the House of Commons.

LONDON, May 4.—Dissatisfied with Premier Asquith's answers on the subject of home rule for Ireland given in the House of Commons April 30, the Unionists again raised the question in the House this afternoon.

The Premier said that he was not responsible for the construction placed by John F. Redmond and the Irish League on the utterances of Winston Spencer Churchill during his Manchester campaign. He said the only statements he authorized were that it was impossible for any one to determine now what issues would be placed before the country at the next general election, and that the disenabling pledge given at the last election applied only to the existing Parliament, and thereafter the Liberal Party would claim to possess an absolutely free hand to deal with the whole problem of Irish Government.

Mr. Asquith reiterated that the policy of the Liberal Government had been plainly expressed in his speech in the Commons on March 30 and in the amended resolution then adopted which read: "In the opinion of this House a solution of this problem can only be attained by giving the Irish people legislative and executive control of all purely Irish affairs all subject to the supreme authority of the Imperial Government."

LONDON, May 4.—Augustine Birrell, Chief Secretary for Ireland, announced to-night that the resignation of Sir Antony Macdonnell, Under Secretary to the Lord Lieutenant of Ireland, will take effect in July.

Commons Advances Licensing Bill.

LONDON, May 4.—The House of Commons to-night passed the second reading of the Licensing bill by a majority of 246, and referred the measure to a Committee of the Whole House.

PLOT TO KILL KITCHENER.

Police in India Discover Conspiracy Against Him and Other Europeans.

CALCUTTA, May 4.—The police are investigating the native plot revealed here yesterday to murder Europeans by means of bombs, and the more they go into the matter the more serious and widespread does the conspiracy appear.

Documents seized at the house where bombs and explosives were being manufactured reveal that it was part of the plot to kill Lord Kitchener, Commander in Chief of the British force in India, and otherhigh officials.

The authorities believe they are facing an attempt at revolution. A number of prominent Bengalese are implicated and sensational arrests are expected to follow.

An examination of the persons arrested to-day confirms the gravity of the bomb conspiracy. Some made startling admissions regarding the intentions of the organization against public officials and of actual attempts at the use of bombs, which, however, proved unsuccessful.

One man said he had traveled all over India in connection with the movement, which he described as a great revolutionary campaign against the Government. The prisoners were remanded.

SIMLA, British India, May 4.—The promptitude shown by Major Gen. Sir James Willcocks, commander of the British forces, in rushing his troops to the scene of the disturbances has deprived the Afghan raid of present danger.

He attacked the raiders on the hills west of Landi-Kotal, in Khyber Pass, and drove them back over the frontier, scattering them in various directions. Finding no support from the other tribes, the raiders are dwindling away.

According to advices received here the Mohmands and other border tribes are quiet and engaged in harvesting.

SLUMP IN BRITISH CONSOLS.

Serious News from Indian Frontier Causes Decline to 84⅞.

LONDON, May 4.—The serious news regarding the Indian frontier situation adversely affected consols as well as Indian stocks on the Stock Exchange to-day. The latter declined 1 to 1½ points under fair offerings, while consols, which opened at 86, made a net decline for the day of 1⅛, which is a remarkable slump for this security.

Unloading by disappointed dealers who bought early in the year in the belief that the expected cheapness of money would conduce to active business, and who were tired of waiting, was partly responsible for the relapse.

$20,000 Paid for Ewer and Dish.

LONDON, May 4.—The art collection of the late Marchioness Coyningham was sold at auction at Christie's to-day. Among the silverware a James I. rosewater ewer and dish, with the London hallmark of 1618, weighing 90 ounces, realized 4,000 guineas, (about $20,000.) A similar specimen is in Windsor Castle.

DAVIS TAKES CHARGE OF NORMAL COLLEGE

Leading Educators Condemn Coeducation at His Inauguration to the Presidency.

STUDENTS CHEER FOR HIM

Acting Mayor McGowan Represents the City at the Ceremonies—Keys Turned Over to New President.

Three significant notes touching the public school system of the city were sounded at the installation yesterday of George S. Davis as President of the Normal College. In making the opening address on behalf of the Trustees, Chairman Henry H. Sherman of the Executive Committee of the college made this statement:

"This event will have a larger and deeper significance than any in the history of the college. Many new problems will come up for the new President to solve, which may involve the elimination of the high school from the work of the college, the entire reorganization of the city's college system, with Presidents for each institution, but with all under one body of college Trustees."

City Superintendent Maxwell touched somewhat on the same matter, saying:

"I venture to think that Mr. Davis's selection for the high office of President of this college at the present juncture has a deep significance in at least two important respects:

"It signifies, in the first place, that the Normal College will remain in the immediate future, and, as far as we can see, for all time, a separate, independent institution for the higher education of women. At an epoch when thinking men and women throughout this country have everywhere begun to question the wisdom of co-education, the City of New York joins forces with the conservatives who feel that collegiate education, both for women and for men, is given under the most favorable conditions when it is given in separate and independent institutions.

"While George S. Davis remains President of the Normal College, I venture to predict that it will not become an annex to any other college; the title of President will never be changed for the title of Dean.

"The second thing which the selection of Mr. Davis signifies is that the college will be brought into closer harmony than it has ever before enjoyed with our great system of public schools."

Dr. Thomas Hunter, the venerable President Emeritus of the institution, spoke briefly thus of co-education:

"Co-education would be an outrage if imposed upon New York. Co-education should never exist in a great city, and I need not tell you the reason why."

The simple act on the part of President Winthrop of the Board of Trustees, who presided, in declaring Mr. Davis President, and the latter's acceptance of the obligation, evoked this comment from Acting Mayor McGowan, who spoke in behalf of the city:

"In the absence of the Mayor, I have administered the oath of office to more than 200 officials, but never in my life have I been more impressed than by the simple words of the new President, who without oath assumed so earnestly the high obligations which his office imposes."

The audience of students, Faculty, and friends of the college broke into instant and prolonged applause when President Davis arose to receive the keys and seal of the college from Dr. Hunter and to deliver his inaugural address.

EULENBURG UNDER GUARD.

Police Investigating Charge That Prince Committed Perjury in Harden Trial.

BERLIN, May 4.—Members of the criminal police force, according to the Tageblatt, have been picketed around the castle of Prince Philip zu Eulenburg, at Liebenberg, as a precaution against the Prince's leaving the country. It is desirable, the police think, that the Prince should not leave home until the completion of the preliminary investigation by the Crown Prosecutor of the allegation that the Prince gave false testimony in the recent Harden trial in Berlin.

Prince Eulenburg, who lives in almost feudal style, is ill of neuritis. Physicians delegated to examine him by the Government affirm that he is unable to travel, yet a dozen policemen watch the exits of the castle grounds day and night. The Prince recently received a judicial commission at his bedside with the utmost courtesy. He offered the fullest facilities for investigation, and replied to questions clearly and without hesitation.

VANDERBILT COACH ON TIME.

Reaches Brighton on First "Business" Trip According to Schedule.

LONDON, May 4.—A great crowd gathered in Northumberland Avenue this morning to witness Alfred G. Vanderbilt's start on the coach Venture from the Victoria Hotel on its first business trip to Brighton. The coach was heartily cheered as it passed down the avenue.

Reginald Vanderbilt and Craig W. Wadsworth, Second Secretary of the Embassy in London, were among the passengers.

BRIGHTON, May 4.—A. G. Vanderbilt, driving the coach Venture, arrived here promptly on schedule time. A great crowd turned out in Brighton to welcome him. The first part of the journey was in bright sunshine. The stopping places, Malden, Reigate, and Crawley were gayly decorated in honor of the passage of the coach, American flags predominating. The last stage of the journey was through heavy mists, and Brighton, when Mr. Vanderbilt arrived, was enveloped in fog.

Railroads Fined for Cruelty to Cattle.

CHICAGO, May 4.—In ninety-five cases brought by the Government against six of the chief railroad companies centring here, charging violation of the twenty-eight hour law for the transportation of cattle, Judge Landis in the United States District Court to-day imposed fines aggregating $13,150.

Notes of Foreign Affairs.

LONDON, May 4.—King Edward and Queen Alexandra returned to London this afternoon from their Scandinavian tour.

BERLIN, May 4.—Baroness Udo von Ruexleben, who shot and killed her husband and then shot herself in their chateau at Buddenberg, near Dortmund, May 1, is dead.

PARIS, May 4.—Fifty heavyweight automobiles of all classes left Paris this morning for a month's tour of France. They are engaging in an industrial competition under the patronage of the Ministry of War.

PARIS, May 4.—The Radical and the Radical Socialist Parties were heavy gainers throughout France in the municipal elections held yesterday. They made their advances at the expense of the Extreme Socialists and the Reactionary Nationalists. The latter in Paris alone lost 45,000 votes.

LISBON, May 4.—The International Telegraphic Conference was opened in this city today. Belgium intends to propose an important modification of the present system of counting words whereby the existing distinctions regarding plain, conventional, and code language is to be abolished and a uniform word of five letters or five figures substituted. This proposition already has met with strenuous opposition from the commercial interests of Great Britain and America.

RIO JANEIRO, May 4.—The Government has decided to install a radiograph station on the Island of Fernando de Noronha, 125 miles off the eastern extremity of Brazil.

JAMES SULZBACHER A SUICIDE

Stock Speculator, Related to the Seligmans, Hangs Himself.

James Sulzbacher, 35 years old, of 798 Lexington Avenue and, the police say, a distant relative of one of the firm of J. & W. Seligman & Co., bankers, of 1 William Street, committed suicide yesterday morning at the house where he boarded by hanging himself.

Sulzbacher and his brother, Samuel, formerly lived together at the Lexington Avenue house. Lately the brother has been living in a resort in New Jersey for his health. Samuel Sulzbacher was employed by the Seligman banking firm.

Sunday at dinner James Sulzbacher asked a doctor who boards at the house for poison. He said life wasn't worth living, and he didn't intend to keep up the farce any longer. Yesterday morning Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Rosenfelt, who conduct the boarding house, heard a noise in the bathroom and found the door locked. Mr. Rosenfelt looked over the transom and saw Sulzbacher hanging by a rope. Patrolman Sullivan was called and cut Sulzbacher down. He was dead.

Two passbooks in Sulzbacher's name were found in the bathroom. One was on the Emigrants Bank and showed deposits of $100 and the other on the Seaman's Savings Bank with deposits of $300. Sulzbacher had no employment. It is believed that he made a living by speculation in the stock market.

At the offices of J. & W. Seligman & Co. no information could be obtained regarding young Sulzbacher. He was a relative of Joseph H. Sulzbacher of the Stock Exchange firm of J. H. Sulzbacher & Co. of 111 Broadway.

TICKET AGENT SELF-SHOT.

Arthur B. Schurter, New York Central Employe, Kills Himself in a Hotel.

Arthur B. Schurter, a ticket agent of the New York Central at its office, 1,216 Broadway, committed suicide early yesterday morning at the Hotel Netherland, Fifth Avenue and Fifty-ninth Street. He arrived at the hotel shortly before midnight on Sunday and engaged a room. He had no baggage, and registered as A. Schuyler, Boston.

Then he bought a cigar and had a flask of whisky sent to his room. He was walking about the corridor of the hotel for some time smoking, and did not go to bed until 1 o'clock. Nothing was heard from him yesterday morning when the chambermaid knocked, and Manager Whittaker opened the door with a pass key. He found Schurter on the bed dead. He had shot himself through the head with a revolver. By his side was the whisky flask half emptied, and pinned to his shirt sleeve was a paper on which was written in pencil the address and telephone number of A. G. Cattell, an undertaker of 62 West 102d Street, and the name Smith, 111 East 123d Street.

In Schurter's pockets was $19.60 and a gold watch, but he had left no papers. The Smith of 111 East 123d Street, to whom the paper referred, was Leonard Smith, Baggage Master of the New York Central Railroad at the 125th Street Station. Schurter lived with him and considered Mrs. Smith his foster mother. Schurter was earning a good salary and was doing well, but his friends said he had been talking for some time of taking his life.

NO MORE EELS IN BATHTUBS.

End of a Short-Lived but Lively Sport in Brooklyn.

The fascinating sport of spearing eels in family bathtubs has come to an end in Brooklyn. Also the eel plague in the borough's water pipes is over.

Deputy Water Commissioner Cozler did it, but just how he won't say. But no more of them came out of the faucets yesterday.

Brooklyn anglers put in a lively day Sunday fishing for eels in their bathtubs, but the best sport was to be had in the plunges and swimming pools in the local gymnasiums and Turkish bath establishments. At some of the natatoriums night spearing was indulged in, torches being used to lure the eels from the bottoms.

WHAT JOY THEY BRING TO EVERY HOME

as with joyous hearts and smiling faces they romp and play—when in health—and how conducive to health the games in which they indulge, the outdoor life they enjoy, the cleanly, regular habits they should be taught to form and the wholesome diet of which they should partake. How tenderly their health should be preserved, not by constant medication, but by careful avoidance of every medicine of an injurious or objectionable nature, and if at any time a remedial agent is required, to assist nature, only those of known excellence should be used; remedies which are pure and wholesome and truly beneficial in effect, like the pleasant laxative remedy, Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna, manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna has come into general favor in many millions of well informed families, whose estimate of its quality and excellence is based upon personal knowledge and use.

Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna has also met with the approval of physicians generally, because they know it is wholesome, simple and gentle in its action. We inform all reputable physicians as to the medicinal principles of Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna, obtained by an original method, from certain plants known to them to act most beneficially, and presented in an agreeable syrup in which the wholesome Californian blue figs are used to promote the pleasant taste; therefore it is not a secret remedy, and hence we are free to refer to all well informed physicians, who do not approve of patent medicines and never favor indiscriminate self-medication.

Please to remember and teach your children also that the genuine Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna always has the full name of the Company—California Fig Syrup Co.—plainly printed on the front of every package and that it is for sale in bottles of one size only. If any dealer offers any other than the regular Fifty cent size, or having printed thereon the name of any other company, do not accept it. If you fail to get the genuine you will not get its beneficial effects. Every family should always have a bottle on hand, as it is equally beneficial for the parents and the children, whenever a laxative remedy is required.

The Giants jarred the feelings of the Phillies yesterday when they gave them a beating which they will not forget in a hurry. They tucked the game away in the very first round, when a fusillade of hits and some indifferent play on the part of the visitors gave them 5 runs. This total was augmented in four other innings during the game, and when the smoke of battle had cleared away the one-time champions had wreaked a sweet revenge on the Quakers and won by the overwhelming score of 12 to 2.

Last week Pitcher Sparks shut out the Superbas, and Manager Murray concluded he was the real thing and called upon him to operate against the Polo Ground tribe. But he proved the easiest proposition the Giants have stacked up against this year. He opened the seance by sending Shannon, the first man up, to first through inability to locate the plate, and the fun began. Hits followed a-plenty, some clean and some otherwise. The Quakers were unable to get together until the damage was done, and even then the rally was only temporary, as the Giants stung the ball in nearly every inning thereafter, and gave their opponents one of the greatest leather huntings witnessed at the Polo Grounds in many a day.

While the Giants were performing all sorts of rude stunts to Sparks's delivery, Mathewson was delivering gilt-edged ball. It was one of Sparks's bad days, but he didn't seem to know it, for it was suggested that he retire before the completion of the calamity. He declared he was all right, and Billy Murray took him at his word. Subsequent developments must have convinced him of his error, as the home team touched him up safely sixteen times for a round dozen runs. They did not spare the Quaker twirler's feelings, but lambasted the ball in all sections of the field.

As though to pile on the agony and show his contempt for the visitors, Manager McGraw replaced Mathewson and Bresnahan in the sixth inning and substituted Beecher and Needham, and it is due to this chance that the Phillies were not shut out. Christy Mathewson, with his most approved twentieth century ball, had the Quakers up in the air for keeps. Only three straggling hits were made off his delivery, and the home plate appeared as far away from the Phillies as the championship pennant. The score:

WASHINGTON, May 4.—With an easy victory over Washington to-day—11 to 5—the New Yorks climbed into undisputed possession of first place in the American League race, and the Senators, through their defeat and Detroit's victory, are now wallowing in last place.

Pitcher Smith was batted both hard and at the right time by the Yankees, and, although the locals were able to tie the visitors in the fifth inning, the six runs garnered by New York in the seventh and eighth rounds put the game far out of reach of the Senators. Joe Doyle pitched the first two innings for the visitors, but Manager Griffith concluded he would not do to-day, and brought out young Manning, whose work in the remaining innings was the distinct feature of the game.

Manager Griffith and Moriarty, who were on the coachers' lines, were ordered off the field by Umpire Connolly for disputing his decisions. The score:

PHILADELPHIA, May 4.—Although outbatted by nearly two to one, Philadelphia to-day defeated the Boston Americans by 3 to 2. In six consecutive innings the home team went out in order, not a man getting to first base, but in each of the first and eighth they touched up Young's curves for three hits and scored enough runs to win. MANHATTAN GETS REVENGE.

Beats St. John's of Brokolyn and Evens Up Last Week's Defeat.

Manhattan College got sweet revenge on the team of St. John's College of Brooklyn yesterday afternoon at American League Park for its defeat by the latter last week. The local lads went into the game with blood in their eyes and won by the score of 8 to 6. Most of the runs on both sides came as a result of errors, but a particular feature of the game was the fearless base running of both teams. Manhattan was especially proficient, having sixteen "steals" to their credit. "Bob" Yates, the crack pitcher of St. John's, who last week fanned more than a dozen of the New Yorkers, had six strike outs to his credit yesterday, while Barrett, his opponent, dropped eight of the Brooklynites in their tracks. Particular features of the game came in the fourth and eighth innings, when Barrett retired all three men on strikes. The score:

St. Withold First by a Neck in a Sharp Finish for Maidens' Race—Four Favorites Are Beaten.

Fresh horses, trained for the racing of the Eastern season, made a clean sweep of the programme at the Jamaica track yesterday, to the exclusion of the campaigners from the Winter tracks, which, through all the earlier part of the Spring, figured prominently among the winners. A natural result of this was a disastrous day for the public favorites, which in every race on the card were horses that had run either at the Winter tracks or at the earlier meetings, while the chief surprise of the afternoon was furnished by a horse that yesterday went to the post for the first time since last Fall, King Cobalt, in the Dunton Stakes, six furlongs, for three-year-olds.

A field made up practically of Aqueduct winners opposed King Cobalt, with James B. Brady the post favorite and Rialto and Berry Maid close second and third choices, six horses running, with King Cobalt among the outsiders. King Cobalt, again carrying the Brownleigh Park stable's colors, under which he raced last season, broke quickly and showed in front in the first few strides, going on with such a flash of speed that he was four lengths in the lead on the far turn, with Rialto and Berry Maid then the closest of the others. The pacemaker held his big advantage to the turn into the stretch, but there began to tire, and the seasoned horses were fast picking him up at the end, though he lasted long enough to win by a length and a half in 1:12 1-5, the fastest three-quarters of a mile of the New York season. Berry Maid, ridden out, finished second, a head before Rialto, while James B. Brady, feebly handled, was a poor last.

Brother Jonathan, half-brother to the winning Whitney filly, Top Note, easily captured the purse for maiden three-year-olds by half a dozen lengths after Rosario had led for seven furlongs of the mile-and-a-sixteenth race, Rosario lasting it out and getting second place by a big margin from Twigs. Almandine, favorite in this event, fell near the turn out of the back stretch, where Musgrave, who rode him, tried to crowd through on the rail. Musgrave received a fall that shook him up severely, but was not dangerously injured, though he was compelled to cancel his riding engagements for the remainder of the afternoon.

Castlewood, running in the name of J. L. McGinnis, in the last race, a handicap at a mile and a sixteenth, was the medium of quite a betting coup, the horse being backed from a top price of 8 to 1 down to 2 to 1 at post time, and starting a strong second choice to Zienap, favorite. Ridden by E. Dugan, Castlewood took the track in the run to the first turn and galloped in front all the way, winning easily by three lengths from Zienap, and Light Wool second and third, after a whipping finish for the place.

GARDNER SURPRISES CONKLIN.

Chicago Player Loses Billiard Match by Score of 400 to 348.

C. F. Conklin, Chicago Athletic Club, was eliminated as a possible contender for the world's amateur billiard honors last night at the Liederkranz Club, when he was defeated in the international 18.2 balkline tournament by E. W. Gardner, Passaic, N. J., by the score of 400 to 348. Although a long drawn out affair, it was the most interesting contest in the tourney and furnished the second surprise. During the first half of the game the Chicago player appeared an easy winner, but after leading by 96 points in the fourteenth inning he gradually fell back, and his opponent overhauled him in the twenty-fourth inning with a run of 62, which gave him a safe lead and enabled him to finish the contest with an advantage of 52 points. The result was entirely unexpected, as Conklin had made a decidedly better showing than Gardner in the previous matches and would have figured in a three-cornered tie if Rerolle defeats Demarest in the final game of the tourney to-night. Gardner ran out his string in thirty-eight innings with an average of 10 20-38, and high runs of 62 and 59. Conklin averaged 9 15-37, with 56 and 46 as his best single efforts. The score:

Gardner—0 13 1 0 13 10 27 10 14 0 11 0 0 2 22 59 11 0 0 13 12 19 0 62 11 27 1 0 4 0 9 6 0 10 18 0 1 14. Total, 400; average, 10 20-38; high runs, 62, 59, 27, 27.

To-night Calvin W. Demarest, Chicago Athletic Club, will play Lucien Rerolle, Amateur Billiard Club, Toulouse, France.

Re Rolle Defeats Poggenburg.

Lucien Re Rolle appeared to advantage in a billiard match last night at Daly's Billiard Academy when in an exhibition match with J. Ferdinand Poggenburg he averaged 26 10-15 in a 400-point match. The French champion played a splendid exhibition of 18.2 balk-line billiards, and won by a score of 400 to 252. Re Rolle's best run was 80, while Poggenburg averaged 18 with 70 as his best single effort. The score:

Re Rolle—38 80 46 0 21 46 32 9 11 60 6 2 12 14 24. Total, 400; average, 26 10-15; high runs, 80, 60, 46, 46.

Poggenburg—1 0 57 7 12 0 70 28 17 26 0 30 2 2. Total, 252; average, 18; high runs, 70, 57, 30, 28.

BIG ENTRY FOR JAMAICA.

Jersey Automobilists Meet Wednesday to Discuss New Motor Law.

A. R. Pardington and Fred Wagner had a long conference yesterday over the programme of the speed trials at Jamaica next month, which they expect to make one of the most notable events of the season. There is promised a notable entry list, including some crack racing machines, and it is expected that some excellent records will be made. The status of the Wilkesbarre hill climb, which is slated again for Memorial Day, is expected to be settled in a day or two. The withdrawal of Walter White's protest clears the way for the granting of the sanction asked of the A. A. A., and enables the contest to take place.

There will be a meeting on Wednesday in Newark of the association automobile clubs of New Jersey. The new motor vehicle law is likely to come in for some discussion. The non-resident automobilists still maintain their determination not to use the State roads at all in view of the increased tariff, and it is expected that the registration in the State will show a marked decrease. Commissioner of Motor Vehicles Smith has announced that owners who register before May 12 may retain their old numbers, but after that time new assignments will be made.

The annual election of the New Jersey Automobile and Motor Club was held last night at Newark. Paul E. Heller was chosen President, W. C. Crosby Vice President, A. B. Le Massera Secretary, and Dr. James L. English Treasurer. The new members of the Board of Governors elected were W. C. Shanley, F. A. Croselmire, F. B. Meeker, A. R. Scherer, and H. A. Bonnell.

OARSMEN REVISE LAWS.

Additions to Constitution and Bylaws at Harlem Meeting.

Principal among the matters taken up last night at the meeting of the Harlem Regatta Committee at the Harlem Casino was the question of the revision of various parts of the constitution.

Much comment was caused by the suggestion of the committee that the usual committee handling the annual regatta on Decoration Day, which is composed of one delegate from each club of the association, be reduced to five, these to be appointed by the President. The President and Secretary, ex-officio, were added, making the total number of the committee to manage the annual regatta, seven. This plan was adopted without opposition. It will go into effect next season.

The following addition was made to the constitution:

> No oarsman shall be eligible to compete in the regattas of the association who has been dropped from any rowing or athletic club for non-payment of dues, and this disqualification shall remain in force until the delinquent member's dues are paid.

Among the rules passed was that providing for the dismissal, by a majority vote of the delegates present at any meeting of any oarsman guilty of disorderly conduct or the use of language unbecoming a gentleman. New rules for the government of the annual regatta were passed, and specifications as to the eligibility of oarsmen in different classes were made.

Handball Men Have Lively Sport.

Handball players had one of the most interesting sessions of the season on Club Day at the Brooklyn Handball Club's court. One of the features was a match for a purse between Walter L. Kipp of South Brooklyn and James Keogh, a Claire boy and one of the players of the Wolf Tone Hurling Club. Kipp won, but not without a hard struggle, the scores being 21—17, 10—21, 21—15, 19—21, and 21—19. Another match which enthused a big gallery was between two veterans of the game, Michael Slater and Mike Heney, whose combined age was 117 years, against two youngsters, Francis Ward and Patrick Ryan. The old men took three games out of four, Slater scoring 21 straight aces by service on Ryan in the third game. The day's sport was wound up with a skillful four-handed contest between William Schmidt, the "German Student," and Thomas Dooley against T. Corbett and D. Lyons. The former pair took four straight games, the first and third being stubbornly contested. The scores were: 21—19, 21—14, 21—20, 21—11.

Princeton Seniors Win Games.

Special to The New York Times.

PRINCETON, N. J., May 4.—After being postponed twice on account of rain, the annual Caledonian games of Princeton University were successfully brought to a close here this afternoon. First place in the games was easily won by the seniors, who had little difficulty in rolling up 45 points. The sophomores beat out the freshmen for second place by 28 points against 26, while the juniors came in last with 18 points. Whiteley, Princeton's star cross-country runner, performed well, coming in with the half in 1:59 1-5.

P. S. 49 Defeats P. S. 40.

At Crotona Park yesterday afternoon Public School 49, Manhattan, defeated Public School 40, Manhattan, in the first game of baseball for the championship in the Eighth and Twelfth School Districts by the score of 8 to 5. Those who did very well are Pitcher Charles McShane, William Lorenz, and Catcher William Lepplo. Pitcher McShane distinguished himself by getting two home runs. Lorenz, at first, executed a clever double play unassisted. The boys from Public School 40 also did well.

Police May Stop Foot Racing.

YONKERS, N. Y., May 4.—The Yonkers Police Department is to get legal opinion upon the subject of permitting footraces on Sundays. The attention of the authorities has been called to Section 256 of the Penal Code, which prohibits sports and games on Sundays. A number of persons have complained about athletes running through the streets on Sundays clad only in running costumes.

MRS. GERKEN SELLS HORSES AT AUCTION

Newsboy and Shopgirl, Famous Show Winners, Knocked Down to a Pennsylvanian for $4,300.

FIFTEEN HEAD BRING $12,135

Harvey S. Ladew Buys Doncaster Model, the Hackney Pony—Sale at Durland's Academy.

Newsboy and Shopgirl, the splendid team of horses that made Mrs. John Gerken famous at horse shows throughout the country, were the features of Mrs. Gerken's dispersal sale at Durland's Riding Academy in West Sixty-sixth Stret last night.

When the blue ribbon pair, attached to a phaeton and driven by Mrs. Gerken, appeared in the ring they were received with a vigorous amount of handclapping. Apparently the horses looked and performed as well as they ever did on the tanabrk, and notwithstanding their ages, Newsboy being 13 years old and Shopgirl 11, the price that Richard Philip McGrann of Lancaster, Penn., gave for them, $4,300, was said to have exceeded expectations. J. Campbell Thompson started the bidding at $2,000, and by $100 offers this was increased to $4,000. J. B. Wadsworth looked like the purchaser when he bid $4,250, but the Lancaster man raised this $50 and secured the pair.

In all Mrs. Gerken sold fifteen head for $12,135, an average of $809 per head. Summary of sales:

Lahm Cup Challenge.

A. Holland Forbes, who recently received his pilot's license from the Aero Club of America, has sent his formal challenge to the club for the Lahm Cup. In order to win the trophy he will be required to travel over 473 miles, the distance made by the present holder, Capt. Charles de F. Chandler of the United States Signal Corps. Mr. Forbes will use his new balloon, Conqueror, and he intends to make his initial ascension in the big balloon to-day from North Adams. Before leaving for North Adams yesterday morning Mr. Forbes said that no effort would be made for a long flight. The balloon will be shipped to this city immediately after the flight, and either to-morrow or Thursday it will be sent to St. Louis. He will be accompanied on his long distance flight by Lieut. Selfridge of the United States Army balloon corps.

De Witt Clinton Riflemen Win.

The rifle shooters of De Witt Clinton High School scored a notable victory over the representatives of the Manual Training Hih School of Brooklyn at the De Witt Clintons' range yesterday afternoon, the first and second teams of each school being pitted against each other. The first team of the New Yorkers won by 1 point, the score being 235 to 234, and the second team beat the Brooklynites by 236 to 234, raising the record for second teams by 4 points.

Chicagoan Breaks Many Targets.

Jesse Young of Chicago gave the members of the Bergen Beach Gun Club, at their regular weekly shoot, a sample of how they break targets in the West. Mr. Young, as a guest of the club, participated in six 25-bird competitions, and when the record was made up he had broken 97 out of 100 targets, and 141 out of a possible 150. Ex-Sheriff Frank Creamer of Brooklyn also showed some good marksmanship. On next Sunday the second leg for the handsome loving cup presented by Lowell M. Palmer, Jr., will be decided, the shooting beginning at 10:30 o'clock in the morning.

Injunction to Save Betting.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 4.—Judge Samuel B. Kirby of the Chancery Court late this afternoon issued an injunction in favor of the new Louisville Jockey Club against the city officers of Louisville, restraining the latter from in any wise molesting or interfering with the conduct of the race meeting at Churchill Downs, beginning to-morrow, or preventing the operation of Paris mutuel betting machines. The issuance of the restraining order by Judge Kirby means that the race meeting will be run according to schedule until the injunction is dissolved.

Yale's Best Runner Injured.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., May 4.—The Yale track team has just sustained a severe loss which it is feared may cost the college the dual games with Princeton next Saturday and the games with Harvard at Cambridge a week later. Lester Barber Stevens of Milwaukee, who is the best sprinter at Yale, has injured his knee and will be unable to compete in the sprints. He has been running the 100 yards in ten seconds flat, and was counted upon to win the sprints in both sets of games. Stevens is a Law School senior and came here from the University of Minnesota.

English Polo Visit Abandoned.

Secretary William A. Hazard of the Polo Association received a letter yesterday from Major J. G. Beresford of the Seventh Hussars and one of the leading English polo players, stating that the proposed visit of the English polo team to America this season has been abandoned. An effort had been made to visit this country, and five English poloists had expressed a willingness to come in July. In view of the fact, however, that some of the big English games at Hurlingham and other clubs are scheduled for that month, several of the players are anxious to take part in them, and as they could not arrange a convenient time later in the season Major Beresford writes that the visit this year must be given up.

CORNELL CRITICISES TIGERS.

Bad Feeling at Ithaca Because Princeton Would Not Play on Wet Field.

Special to The New York Times.

ITHACA, N. Y., May 4.—The refusal of the Princeton baseball team to play the game scheduled with Cornell on Saturday on the ground that the diamond was wet, when 4,000 persons were clamoring for a contest and the Cornell management had entered a strenuous protest against the Tigers quitting the field, has so seriously strained the athletic relations between the two universities, already wrought up over the football controversy last Fall, that a breach is considered imminent. Although no rain fell for an hour on Saturday, Coach Meier, ignoring the protests of Cornell, ordered his men to the hotel, presumably because he feared that Heyniger, Princeton's crack pitcher, could not control the ball.

The Cornell Sun says: "Princeton's action was so discourteous and unjustifiable that it must express its disapprobation of this 'win at any cost, never take a chance' spirit, and that Princeton's action recently indicates anything but sportsmanship and friendly rivalry."

Coach Presented with Loving Cup.

The members of the basket ball team of the College of the City of New York presented their coach, Leonard Palmer, an instructor of physical training at the college gymnasium, with a beautiful silver loving cup yesterday afternoon as a token of their esteem. The Athletic Association of the college has accepted the report of Manager Nat Fleischer, '08, which shows total receipts for the season of $1,085.95, and expenditures of $645.81, which leaves a surplus of $440.14. The following men were awarded 'Varsity letters: David Pearlman, '10; Ira Streusand, '11; Louis Brand, '09; A. Barbanell, '09; J. Goldman, '10; H. Heskowitz, '11; J. Barron, '09; M. F. Sittwin, '08; J. Katz, '10; Louis Spivak, '09, and Manager N. Fleischer, '08. E. Nathan Kleinbaum, '09, was elected manager of the team for next year.

THE VREELAND BILL.

Nothing could be more admirable than Mr. VREELAND's industry, unless it is his readiness to oblige. Day after day he produces fresh versions of his bill. Mr. VREELAND of the Salamanca Trust Company, Cattaraugus County, wastes no time over objections. He simply offers a new bill.

Praise of Mr. VREELAND, however, is something different from praise of the bill, which he himself prefers to alter and amend rather than defend. According to our Washington advices he is "willing to submit his bill to any changes" to-day's conference may suggest. Obviously, therefore, nobody knows what the bill will be to-morrow, or even what it is to-day, for that matter, since it exists as yet only in Mr. VREELAND's mind. Only two things are sure—it will not be the Vreeland bill unless it provides for the issue of some large part of a billion dollars of emergency currency, or if it does provide for any method of getting in the currency after it is put out. The omission of adequate methods of redemption is quite as characteristic of the bill as its ample, not to say excessive, provision for issue. Neither of these basic characteristics is among those details which either Mr. VREELAND or the conference can alter at this stage of the game.

Yet these points are well worth consideration, for the redemption of the existing volume of banknotes which Mr. VREELAND intends to double is at the present time embarrassing the Treasury to an extent few realize. As Representative FOWLER said on the floor of the House, and as other Congressmen are remarking privately among themselves, the Treasury has now suspended gold payments except upon specific demand. A year ago the Treasury held $146,000,000 of free gold, and now it has less than $40,000,000. The Treasury is obliged to receive banknotes for redemption and in payment of dues to the United States, and it is obliged to disburse lawful money for redemption of notes and to meet an excess of expenditures. The Treasury relies upon the banks, the banks rely upon the Treasury, and Mr. VREELAND proposes to lay a double strain upon the mutual reliance without providing any increased strength to either. It is rather a bill to create than to cure an emergency.

With justice did Mr. VANDERLIP in THE SUNDAY TIMES express the foreign opinion that the wonder was not that we experienced emergencies but that we escaped them. As a permannt provision for the evils it designs to remedy the bill is worse than we deserve as a punishment for the manner in which we palter with the subject. It is only defensible as a temporary concession to the political necessities of the moment, and all that is possible to commend in it is contained in the reported limitation of it to a two-year period.

PERMANENT EMBASSIES.

The defeat of the "feeler," offered as an amendment to the Diplomatic and Consular bill, appropriating $403,267 for the purchase of embassy buildings in Paris and Tokio, does not indicate that the sentiment of the Senate is opposed to housing our representatives in foreign countries. On the contrary, there are clear indications that many Senators and members of the House of Representatives are coming around to the idea that, as Mr. TELLER expresses it, "we must enlarge our contributions in this line." Increased salaries for Ambassadors, Ministers, and Consuls are not now under consideration. Relatively they are paid as well as the other officers of our Government.

Recent incidents in our diplomatic history, however, have convinced many Americans that the United States should own buildings in all foreign capitals to serve alike as homes and offices for its representatives. The spectacle of one Ambassador dwelling in a palace and another, of equal rank, living in a flat is not edifying. Of course, if a very rich man is appointed to an Ambassadorship (and there is no reason in the world why our rich men should not work for their country) he will take such a house as his purse affords, unless an official residence is provided for him.

Senator TELLER is right, however, in his opinion that the matter is one for grave consideration. To provide embassies in only two cities would not help the matter much. We do not understand that Senators LODGE, HALE, and WARREN, who favor the idea of eliminating the item of rent from the expenses of our repesentatives abroad, intended that the proposed amendment should serve any other purpose than to fix the public mind on the crying need of embassies and strengthen Congressional sentiment in favor of the new plan.

MONOPOLIES AND THE TARIFF.

The Dingley tariff imposes a duty of $6 a ton of 2,000 pounds upon print paper such as is generally used in the production of newspapers, and this duty increases upon finer grades of paper sold at a higher price until it reaches 15 per cent. ad valorem upon paper valued at over 5 cents a pound. There is also a duty on wood pulp, the material out of which print paper is made. Representatives of newspaper publishers have for some days been giving testimony before a Committee of the House in the effort to procure relief from what they represent to be an unwarranted, unreasonable, and monopolistic increase in the price of news print paper, the manufacture of which is now in this country so concentrated as practically to constitute a monopoly.

As a help in their present time of need for publishers of newspapers that approve and advocate the protection of American industries by tariff duties, we commend a careful perusal of recent Republican platform utterances. The authoritative model for this year's platforms is, we take it, that of the Ohio Republican Convention. That is Mr. TAFT's own State, and Mr. TAFT is the probable nominee of his party. Moreover, the resolution of that platform has been closely imitated in other Republican States, notably Iowa and Massachusetts.

The Ohio platform declares boldly for "a revision of the tariff by a special session of the next Congress," and the measure of protection it advocates is given in its declaration that the revision should insure "the maintenance of the true principles of protection by imposing such customs duties as will equal the difference between the cost of production at home and abroad, together with a reasonable profit, to the end that, without excessive duties, American manufacturers, farmers, producers, and wage-earners may have adequate protection." Moreover, the Republican National platform of 1904 declares against "the unjust discrimination or the illegal encroachment of vast aggregations of capital," and that "rates of duty should be readjusted only when conditions have so changed that the public interest demands their alteration."

In the case of the Paper Trust conditions have changed in such a way as to bring considerations of the public interest to bear upon the question. No justifying reason has been given, or can be given, for recent advances in the price of paper that impose the burden of millions upon millions of additional cost upon consumers of that commodity. It has been said that the newspapers speak only for themselves and their own interest in their appeal to Congress for relief. That is not true. They speak for the whole people. There is no commodity of which it can be said that its use is more nearly universal, none upon which an unreasonable advance of price would impose burdens upon a larger number of victims of the extortion. It is not merely the newspapers that are called upon to pay this additional tribute to the monopoly. White paper is used in the manufacture of printed books, school books, Bibles, Prayer Books, scientific books, and books of general literature; the consumption of wrapping paper is enormous, and the increased price affects the material used for paper boxes. There is not a household in the country that is not a consumer of paper.

In the aggregate the tribute paid to this tariff-intrenched monopoly amounts to many millions of dollars annually, and it is a matter of concern to every family in the land. The retention of these duties is not justified by the principle of protection as professed by the Republican Party. On the contrary, that party has always insisted that the fostering of monopolies was foreign to the purpose of protective customs duties, and the exaction of unreasonable prices was an abuse to be corrected. Good faith and consistency demand that the proved abuse of its privilege by the Paper Trust should receive the prompt and remedial attention of Congress.

A GOOD BEGINNING.

If the report is true, as we believe it is, that the habit of cigarette smoking among women will be discountenanced at Newport this Summer, there is room for hope that we are on the eve of a revival of good manners in fashionable society. Laxity in manners leads to overfreedom in conduct and frequently to social scandals. What is called "Continental" in the conduct of daily life does not fit the American environment. But we have never believed that the obvious laxity of manners and the seeming disregard for moral conventions among the very rich in this country were more than passing fancies, symptoms of restless dissatisfaction with a manner of living that is joylessly "gay" and nearly devoid of intellectual refreshment.

The very foundations of life in the capitals of Continental Europe are different from ours, and it is obvious that the breaking of marital restraints from trivial causes is much less common in Europe than in America. The divorce habit is growing here, and all wise observers agree with Cardinal LOGUE that it must lead to degeneration if it continues to grow. But the divorce habit can be cured, we are convinced, as easily as the cigarette-smoking habit by good example in high places. We have hopes that recent disruptions in social life mark a climax. The contemplation of the continued unhappiness of divorced women must have some good result. The idea that the chief aim of life is "the pursuit of happiness" must be corrected.

It is a great pity that the author of our Declaration of Independence ever hit upon that phrase. But the happiness he had in mind was the happiness of humble contentment, the simple home, well-harvested crops, the rest after the hard day's work of the "good provider," surrounded by his numerous family.

TROUBLE IN INDIA.

It is a striking evidence of the immense area over which the "pax Britannica" must be maintained in India that the two points at which trouble is announced are some fourteen hundred miles apart, as the bird flies. Peshawar and the Khyber Pass, where an incursion of Afghans has taken place, are in the extreme northwest, among the foothills of the Himalayas. Calcutta, where a bomb-throwing conspiracy is reported, is in the extreme southeast of Bengal. Another interesting fact is that the mountain tribe, the Mohmands, as well as the Afghans who have crossed the border to aid them, are Mohammedans, with whom the discontented class among the Bengalese have no sympathy and to whose fellow-religionists in Bengal they are sullenly antipathetic. The two occurrences have, therefore, nothing in common save that they disturb the peace and tax the wisdom and fortitude of the rulers of the empire.

The point of essential importance in the raid of Afghans in the northwest is the attitude of the Ameer of Afghanistan. It is, on the facts as reported, obvious that he must have allowed, if he did not sanction, the raid. A force estimated at from 13,000 to 20,000, made up from the Shinwaris, recognized as a portion of his own troops, could hardly have gathered and made the march to and through the Khyber Pass without his knowledge. On previous occasions when like movements took place, the Ameer has explicitly forbidden them, and has taken active measures to prevent or punish them. His course now, even if it indicates only passive approval of the movement, is disquieting, and cannot be ignored by the British Government.

It is probable that the Ameer, if he is for the moment antagonistic to the British, is resentful of the recent treaty between Great Britain and Russia which recognized Afghanistan as within the exclusive sphere of British influence. Heretofore the Ameer has felt a certain degree of security in dealing with either of the two Powers because he has thought he could play one against the other. Now that Russia has definitely surrendered her former position, and the Afghan monarch must face Great Britain unsupported, he may well be disposed to experiment as to the temper of his possible opponent. It is not venturing much to predict that his experiment will be short and conclusive. The British were never less indisposed or less unprepared to defend their supremacy in India at all necessary costs. Gen. WILLCOCKS, who has just inflicted sharp punishment on one of the tribes with which the Afghans are seeking to co-operate, has moved westward to occupy the fortified entrance of the Pass, and there is no doubt that he will promptly be reinforced.

Meanwhile the disturbances in the southeast, though wholly unconnected with those in the northwest, may prove to be serious in themselves. There have been many indications during the past year of acute discontent among the people of India, especially in Bengal. It has taken the form of agitation for a greater and more definite share in the government of the various countries under British rule or protection by representatives of the natives. The accounts of its nature and extent have been conflicting. There is a considerable party in England which rather vaguely sympathizes with the sentiment supposed to be at the root of the agitation. KEIR HARDIE, the Socialist-Labor leader and Member of Parliament, has been the most prominent in the matter, and when recently in India indulged in public speeches which were regarded at home as seditious. They were much in the tone of others delivered by our own Mr. BRYAN on the same subject. It is fair to suppose that whatever there is of reason in the movement would be appreciated at its full value by a Government in which JOHN MORLEY—Viscount though he be—is responsible for India. The problem of India is a tremendously complex one at best, and all prophecy regarding its development must be extra hazardous. But it is quite obvious that it is not to be solved in our generation by the application of abstract principles adopted by and adapted to the English-speaking peoples.

I would not be fit to hold the position that I do hold, I would not be a good American, if I did not take a peculiar interest in exactly the kind of club which is represented here to-day.

Interested though I am in organizations of men for social and intellectual betterment, I am even more interested when they are managed by and controlled in the interest of women, and particularly working women, working girls.—President ROOSEVELT to the National League of Women Workers.

If interested he is fit, and he insists that he is interested. Anybody can complete the syllogism. In these matters, if the premises are sound and the reasoning valid, the conclusion grips you with hooks of steel.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Tries the Effect of Warning.

Up in Rye, on Sunday, the Chief of Police, instead of laying secret traps for automobilists going faster than the law allows, adopted the milder plan of assuming that most of them sinned through failure to realize how fast they were going and that they would moderate their speed if officially warned that they were inviting arrest and fines. So he had his men out on the road, not to catch the offenders, but to expostulate with them. This was done in some forty-five instances, and the result seems to have been good, for none of those spoken to failed to heed the request to slow down, and no arrests had to be made within that town's limits.

Also, many a rural constable and Justice may say no fines were collected, and it is obviously the belief of not a few such officials that the object of automobile regulations is not to stop overspeeding, but to increase local revenues. Were this not so, the imposition of $5 and $10 fines would not continue, since they have no prohibitive effect whatever and seem to be adjusted with a view to making the tax just about what the traffic will bear without either driving the automobilists away or frightening them into reformed, and, therefore, unprofitable, habits.

Rye's Chief of Police seems to think that his duty was done and well done when he made the streets of his town reasonably safe. It is a decidedly good idea, and perhaps if it were generally adopted it would be just the thing to touch the conscience of the motor folk. They can appreciate kindness and common sense, but it sours their tempers when they are trapped and exploited for violating an arbitrary regulation. Cars are usually held up at places where the road invites to speed because speed is perfectly safe there, and the petty punishment produces more of irritation than of repentance. The irritation, in turn, inspires a strong inclination to "do it again" as soon as the constable is out of sight.

Underlying all these troubles is the fact that hard-and-fast speed limits are absurd. The permitted rate is often extremely dangerous, while as often the forbidden one involves no perils to anybody. It all depends upon circumstances—the nature of the road, the clearness of the view ahead, and the number of vehicles using it. To expect even the most scrupulous of automobilists to keep within the legal speed when there is no reason for doing it except the existence of a local ordinance is to expect too much of human nature. Probably not one of them does it all the time. They use, instead, a sound discretion, and in the vast majority of cases no harm follows.

Thanks Due to the Policemen.

New York's police are scolded so often that opportunities to praise them should not be neglected. The events of last Saturday provide such an opportunity, for, after the dismissal of the parade and when the vast throngs of spectators were seized with the form of madness which crowds are always ready to manifest, there certainly would have been a frightful disaster if the police had not risen promptly to the emergency and at the risk of their lives first brought the moving multitude to a standstill and then dispersed it before any serious harm had been done.

The rush toward the place where Cardinal LOGUE was supposed to be was due to an accumulation of small forces, almost irresistible in the aggregate. No one person in the dense masses exerted much strength, but they all pushed the same way, and soon those toward the front were subjected to a pressure which made them entirely helpless. A few of them saw the danger and tried to turn back, but the way was hopelessly blocked, and the forward impulsion was continued by those far out of hearing of the orders and exhortations of those near the objective point. At that moment a great slaughter threatened, and had not the police preparations been wisely made and had not the representatives of the force acted with intelligence and courage, the day of rejoicing and celebration would have ended in a bloody tragedy that would have made it only too memorable.

Possibly action was not taken quite quickly enough, but any assertion to that effect would be wisdom after the event, and the peril, though narrowly averted, was averted with a skill and vigor that should balance a good many black marks on the police record. The only harsh criticism of what the police did that day comes from a few people with whose customary movements the drawing of the police lines before and during the parade interfered. In some cases, no doubt, the guardians of these lines might well have shown a little more discretion than they did about barring the way of individuals with pressing reasons for passing through, but it must be remembered that the use of streets for parades under proper regulation and authority is entirely legal and legitimate, and the slight amount of real inconvenience thus caused does not constitute a very serious grievance. So long as any considerable number of good citizens can get the same privilege for the asking, nobody need complain, and very few will if they take a second thought.

Great News for the Anthropologists.

One of THOMAS W. LAWSON's agents, returned to Boston from Mexico, where he has been looking after what is vaguely described as "mining interests," has reported to Prof. AGASSIZ a discovery as remarkable as, though decidedly different from, those by which Mr. LAWSON himself has so often astonished us. What the agent found was a cave containing 200 skeletons, and that is only the beginning. Each of the skeletons was—or had been—that of a man more than eight feet tall!

The story is itself at least that high. Of course, the facts that it is told in sedate Boston and to a grave scientist like Prof. AGASSIZ are in its favor, but we have not yet heard what Boston and Prof. AGASSIZ think of the tale, and until we learn that both do whatever may be the Bostonian equivalent of "standing for it," we are going to have our doubts. Not doubts of the cave, of course, and we would admit the skeletons, even to the number of 200, but that all, or even any of them are eight feet long—well, that is a different matter. Human skeletons of that length are rare, to say the least of them, and credulity wavers when confronted with the task of confessing that there was ever a Mexican tribe with so many of its members afflicted with acromegaly.

As for "the ancient race that lived before the Aztecs," that part of the yarn would sound better if any traces of an ancient race had previously been found in either North or South America. None has, according to all the best and only good, authorities, but of course that doesn't quite prove that none ever will be.

PUBLISHERS AND WOOD PULP.

The Tone of the Congressional Committee One of Prejudice.

From The New Haven Union.

A committee of twenty-six members of the American Newspaper Publishers' Association has been in Washington for several days urging that the duty on wood pulp and on print paper should be removed. That committee leaves Washington to-day. The committee of members of the House assigned to consider this subject has shown itself so absolutely antagonistic to anything that might be done for the relief of the newspaper business that every man who appeared in behalf of the newspapers is retiring disgusted.

The whole tone of the examination to which Mr. Norris, Mr. Ridder, and Mr. Ambrose Butler were subjected was that of a cross-examiner prejudiced against the witness. It was not that of a man seeking to get information concerning a situation which might demand some legislation in which he should take part. The Newspaper Publishers' Association sent their committee to Washington to ask for the repeal of the duty on wood pulp and print paper. They ought to know something about it. When the Steel Trust sends any one to Washington to talk about a duty on steel, or when the Sugar Trust sends its lobbyist to keep the duty on sugar at its regular point, they are treated with deference and with a certain amount of applause. But when the newspapers of the United States, to the owners and editors of which nearly every Congressman owes his political being, to which he sends almost daily the accounts of his extraordinary services in the cause of the people, send a committee to Washington to ask relief from a condition which has become intolerable, that committee is treated with what might fairly be described as studied insolence. What do the newspapers propose to do about it?

Some of the publishers are wondering who have been the lobbyists that have been on this job against the newspapers. When Chairman Mann and other members of the committee are able to sit back placidly in their seats and talk learnedly about what the percentage of wood pulp to a ton of paper may be and how great is the percentage of clay, it makes men who have been in the newspaper business for twenty-five years marvel at the sudden access of exact and specific knowledge on the part of politicians who have had nothing to do with either making, buying, or using print paper.

Inviting Censure.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

It would be a good plan to print in good-sized type the names of the shortsighted men in Congress who are voting against the increase of our army and navy and against putting our coasts in a thorough condition for defense.

They seem to forget that a disciplined army can't be made in a week nor a battleship built in a few days. A nation with a good-sized navy and army, with coasts well protected, does not necessarily become an aggressive one. In the event of war coming on us in our present state of criminal unpreparadness, no doubt the names of the men in Congress who failed in their duty to attend to the defenses of the country would be execrated, but that would be a very small consolation to an angry and humiliated people.

Roller Skating Episode.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I think it high time for Gen. Bingham to call a halt on roller skating in the streets.

Coming down Broadway last Friday with my mother, who, by the way, is in her seventy-second year, we were bunted into by one of these young rascals, with the result that my mother was hurled violently to the sidewalk and badly bruised and shaken up. In my anger I fetched the urchin a clout in the ear which produced a howl that brought about him a small mob of sympathizers, who assailed me as every kind of a brute known to history, and had it not been for the fact that I am six feet two and weigh 240 pounds I might have been roughly handled.

High Schools and Trade Schools.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Some of our high schools should be converted into trade schools. There is now a Manual Training High School. It should be made an out-and-out trade school. The boys who graduate from the grammar schools are of the average age of 14½ years. About 5 per cent. of them should go to academic high schools, to be fitted for professional studies, and about 40 per cent. should go to trade schools. According to the census, there were, in 1900, of males 10 years and over at work in New York City 1,102,471. Of these, 5 per cent. were engaged in the professions, 38 per cent. in manufacturing and mechanical pursuits, 36 per cent. in trade and transportation, 19 per cent. in domestic and personal service, and 2 per cent. in agricultural pursuits.

Our system of education should be based on these figures.

Speed in Brooklyn.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Could any of your readers perhaps tell me whence the expression Brooklyn Rapid Transit? Furthermore, why is there such a deplorable lack of manners at the bridge?

"LEST WE FORGET."

When the mists lie low and the sun slants up,
And the east is an aureate lip;
When the road lies free to the morning cup,
And the air has a frosty nip;
When the steed champs foam with its nostrils wide,
For the master's mettle rife,
And a gay song fits to the strong, long stride—
There are still some things in life!

When the pool lies still, or the current slides
Like oil round the far-flung line;
When the tarpon deep in the blackness glides
And nibbles the live-bait mine;
When the reel says "crrrrk" and the wrist feels jar,
And the first leap marks the strife,
As the play begins and the foam flies—Ah!
There are still some things in life!

When the great moose sniffs by the water's edge,
And starts with an angry snort;
When the hunter crawls through the rustling sedge,
And the heart beats thick and short;
When the finger crooks on the trigger's curve;
When the eye cuts like a knife,
And the rifle cracks with a vicious verve—
There are still some things in life!

When the dinner's o'er and the pipe burns free,
And the dog curls by the chair;
When your trail is good (as it ought to be)
And the light glints on Her hair;
When the drowsy thoughts of the past come back,
And you smile, "That's she—the wife!"
When you're quite prepared for the morrow's track—
There's a lot of good in life!

WILL VISIT PAPER MILLS.

House Committee Will Be Unable to Report This Session.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 4.—A new phase in the investigation of the paper industry, now being conducted by a select committee of the House of Representatives, developed to-day when it decided that in order to investigate the matter thoroughly the committee must visit some of the mills. They will leave Washington on Friday afternoon for Palmer Falls, N. Y., where they will examine the methods of the Hudson River Mills and take testimony on the ground.

In view of this decision of the committee practically all hope of a report before the adjournment of Congress is lost.

At the opening of the hearing this morning John Norris of THE NEW YORK TIMES, who has been almost continuously on the stand since the beginning of the investigation, submitted 178 telegrams he had received from publishers in response to queries sent out last week by Herman Ridder. Forty-one publishers expressed their willingness to appear before the committee and tell what they know of the methods of the trust.

Mr. Norris explained that the difference in price paid by various newspapers for their paper was due to the influence of middlemen and commissions and the distance from the mills of the publishers in question.

"Is the price, then, uniform at the mills?" asked Mr. Mann.

"We are here," replied Mr. Norris, "to prove that a uniform increase in the price of paper of 2½ cents a pound has been caused by the combination, and that a further increase to 3 cents is contemplated."

HUNT FOR PAPER TRUST BOOKS

Grand Jury Witnesses Say They Hope to Find Them Soon.

The Federal Grand Jury yesterday resumed its inquiry into the affairs of the Manila and Fibre Paper Manufacturers' Association, particularly with reference to what is known as the "Parks Pooling Plan." The witnesses heard were Dr. James E. Campbell, President of the Sulphite Paper and Pulp Company of Dexter, N. Y.; James A. Outterson of the Degrasse Paper Company, Carthage, N. Y., and David Kersey, employed in the offices of John H. Parks, Secretary of the Manila and Fibre Paper Manufacturers' Association, 1 West Thirty-fourth Street, and Joseph S. Truman, manager of an express company, at 66 Broadway.

Dr. Campbell and Mr. Outterson, whom the court gave until yesterday to produce before the Grand Jury certain books and papers wanted by the Grand Jury, reported that, while they had been unable to gain possession of the books and papers, they hoped soon to be able to comply with the Grand Jury's order. The investigation was adjourned until to-day.

TO ADVANCE HARRIMAN CASE.

Inter-State Commerce Board Asks the Supreme Court to Do So.

WASHINGTON, May 4.—In the Supreme Court of the United States a motion was made to-day in behalf of the Inter-State Commerce Commission to advance on the docket the cross appeals of the Commission and Edward H. Harriman and Otto H. Kahn, the latter of the New York banking firm of Kuhn, Loeb & Co., in the cases in which Harriman and Kahn refused to answer certain questions propounded by the Commission in 1906 in connection with its inquiry having to do with the alleged consolidation and combination of railroads subject to the Inter-State Commerce law.

The United States Circuit Court for the Southern District of New York, to which the matter was submitted, directed the two witnesses to make reply to all questions except those relating to the purchase of stock by Harriman in anticipation of the Union Pacific dividend. Neither party was satisfied with this solution, and both sides appealed to the Supreme Court.

AUTHOR OF OUR CONSTITUTION

Claims of Pelatiah Webster Forced Into Congressional Record.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 4.—Senator Carter forced into the pages of The Congressional Record to-day ammunition for a feud that may attain the acrimony of the Shakespeare-Bacon controversy. It was a pamphlet devoted to proving that Pelatiah Webster, and not Benjamin Franklin, was responsible for the Constitution. The pamphlet in question is the work of Hannis Taylor of Boston, who says:

"Herein is printed for the first time in 116 years the epoch-making paper published by Pelatiah Webster at Philadelphia, Feb. 16, 1783, and there republished with notes in 1791, in which he announced to the world, as his invention, the entire plan of the existing Constitution of the United States, worked out in detail more than four years before the Federal Convention of 1787 met."

LILLEY IS SATISFIED.

Withdraws His Request to Reopen Investigation of Boat Company.

WASHINGTON, May 4.—Representative George L. Lilley has withdrawn his request that the investigation into the legislative methods of the Electric Boat Company be reopened.

To-day Chairman Boutell of the House Investigating Committee, who suggested to-morrow as the time for him to appear, received a telegram from Mr. Lilley stating that after consultation with his counsel he had decided not to reappear before the committee, as the points he desired cleared up were not considered material.

NO LET-UP ON BROWNSVILLE.

Senator Foraker Determined to Force a Vote Upon Negro Question.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 4.—Senator Foraker practically served notice to-day that trouble lurked ahead for the adjournment programme unless the Brownsville matter was cleared up.

The Senate leaders are anxious to avoid a record vote. On the eve of a National campaign it might prove embarrassing to certain members.

Senator Bulkeley, in an address to-day, supported Foraker's contention that the discharge of the negro soldiers of the Twenty-fifth Infantry by the President was without justification.

BROWNSVILLE CASE ARGUED.

Judge Hough Reserves Decision in Private Reid's Suit for Wages.

For more than three hours after the usual adjourning time, Judge Hough, in the United States District Court, last night listened to arguments questioning the right of President Roosevelt to summarily dismiss the three companies of negro soldiers of the Twenty-fifth Infantry for alleged participation in the Brownsville riot of Aug. 13, 1906.

The action came up on an argument of a demurrer interposed to a portion of the answer of the Government in the action commenced by Oscar W. Reid to recover $122, his wages as a private soldier from the date of his dismissal without honor and the date of the expiration of his enlistment.

The suit was commenced in the Federal Court of this district by Lawyers Chase Mellen and Francis Woodbridge, in behalf of Private Reid, and it is said that the money to litigate the matter has been furnished by a wealthy New Englander who sympathized with those soldiers of the Twenty-fifth whose presence was not proved in Brownsville at the time of the shooting up of the Texas town, but who were dismissed by the President without court-martial or civil trial.

To the general complaint in behalf of Private Reid, United States District Attorney Henry L. Stimson entered a general denial, and for an additional defense alleged the right of the President to dismiss the soldiers of the three companies, and also referred to the reports of the various Army Inspectors recommending such action, making the reports a portion of the record of the case.

ROOSEVELT TOLD BILLS WILL PASS

Watson, House Whip, Reassures Him on Part of His Legislative Programme.

LITTLE HOPE ON TRUST LAW

Currency Bill Muddle Makes It Probable No Definite Action Will Be Taken This Session.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 4. — President Roosevelt had another conference to-day with Representative Watson, Republican whip of the House, regarding the prospects for the legislative measures he has asked Congress to enact at this session. Mr. Watson told the President that there was no possibility that the Civic Federation bill amending the Sherman anti-trust law would be passed, and he was extremely doubtful if it would be possible to obtain any such legislation at this session.

The President is in favor of the much-revised Vreeland Currency bill, on which the House machine has arranged a conference for to-morrow night. But no man can say now what will happen to that bill either in the conference or afterward in the House. The Democrats are solidly opposed to it, and there is bound to be a large Republican insurrection if it is brought up in the House through the power of the Speaker's organization.

There appears to be only one currency proposition on which a majority of both House and Senate could agree now, and that is for the creation of a commission to investigate the whole subject of currency and the banking laws and report to the next session of Congress. But the Senate leaders, under the direction of Mr. Aldrich, are preparing to kill that proposition unless they can tack the Aldrich currency bill to it. If they do that the House will kill it, so that it is doubtful now if even a commission will be appointed.

For the remaining items of the President's latest programme there is hope in varying degrees. Speaker Cannon has indicated that he will not attempt to stand much longer against the tremendous pressure that has been brought to bear on him, not only by the Administration, but by a number of his most faithful adherents in the House.

The bills modifying the court procedure in injunction and contempt cases, Watson told the President, have a good chance of passage. Watson also told the President that he was confident of currency legislation. The Child Labor bill for the District of Columbia will also go through. Representative Alexander of New York has drawn a bill covering the liability of the Government to its employes for injuries received on duty, and it will be introduced to-morrow. He accompanied Watson to the White House and discussed his measure with the President. Watson thought it could be passed.

By a vote of 12 to 3 the House Banking and Currency Committee this morning tabled the revised Vreeland bill. In an informal conference afterward the Republicans reached a practically unanimous agreement to support in the party conference to-morrow night a proposition made two weeks ago to Sereno Payne by Representative Hill of Connecticut. This would permit National banks, at the discretion of the Secretary of the Treasury, to issue a currency based on Government bonds without regard to the capitalization of the bank in question. As the law now stands, a National bank cannot issue banknotes in excess of its capitalization.

This measure is only intended to be temporary. Appended to the bill, which the committee decided to support, will be a provision limiting its effect to two years. During that time a broadly constituted commission could investigate the whole subject of currency and report a bill to Congress in 1910. The committee also adopted a resolution petitioning the Speaker to grant a week's debate on the subject of currency in the House.

Chairman Fowler and Representative Prince, a member of the committee who has all along opposed the Vreeland bill, called on the Speaker early this afternoon, in an effort to get his indorsement of the committee's temporary substitute. The Speaker told him that personally he favored the Vreeland bill, but that, so far as a substitute or compromise measure was concerned, the whole matter would be thrashed out in conference to-morrow. The conference will be largely attended. Already 176 names are on the petition—126 more than are necessary for a call.

Every proposition made so far will have a determined body of supporters. A Republican, who made a partial poll of the House to-day, following the circulation of the petition, said that next to the negative commission measure the greatest number of members who will attend the conference will be in favor of the Vreeland measure. There are still some supporters of the Aldrich bill, however, and the members of the Banking and Currency Committee will give a nucleus for the Payne-Hill proposition.

The situation will be still further complicated by a discussion of the Banking and Currency Committee's resolution asking for a week's debate on the whole question. No one ventures a prediction as to what will come out of the conference.

THREE DEFEATS FOR MACHINE.

Roosevelt Forces Get Money for Inquiry Into National Resources.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 4.—On three successive votes to-day, following a fight that lasted all the afternoon, the friends of the President in the House gained three victories against the House machine headed by Representative Tawney, Chairman of the Appropriations Committee. The fights were for amendments to the Sundry Civil bill, drawn to permit the continuation of the work of preserving forests and appropriating moneys for investigation.

STILL BLOCKS ELKINS PLAN.

Culberson Refuses to Consent to Suspension of Commodity Clause.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 4.—Senator Elkins is exerting every effort for favorable consideration of his resolution suspending the commodity clause of the railroad rate law. He conferred to-day with Senator Culberson, permitting consideration of his bill to be temporarily postponed. It is understood that Culberson refused to acquiesce in the legislation unless certain bills intended for the relief of shippers were reported from the Inter-State Commerce Committee, of which Senator Elkins is Chairman.

FIGHT FOR PARIS EMBASSY.

Senator Lodge Offers Amendments to Appropriation Bills for Its Purchase.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 4.—A determined fight will be made for appropriations for the purchase of an embassy building in Paris. Senator Lodge to-day introduced two amendments, each carrying $400,000, which he will seek to have attached to the Sundry Civil and the Omnibus Public Buildings Appropriation bills. He also has offered a bill authorizing the purchase of the Paris property.

ITALIAN OPERA TROUBLES.

Released Singers Making Complaints —Good Performance of "Aida."

The Italian Grand Opera Company, which opened at the American Theatre last evening, and which had been previously at the Academy of Music, seems doomed to have troubles of its own. The roster of the company has been changed in the move uptown, and several of the members of the former company who have been dropped assert that they have not received all the pay coming to them.

Those who complain are: Gaetano Merola, musical director, who was chorus master at the Manhattan Opera House until the middle of the season; Roas Duce Merola, soprano; D. Almeri, soprano; G. Strauss, mezzo-soprano; V. Colombati, mezzo-soprano; M. Bossi, mezzo-soprano; E. Torre tenor; A. Paoloni, tenor; C. Alessandroni, baritone; G. Zara, baritone, and A. Oteri, bass. They say that the company owes them for five weeks' services, and that in forming his new company for the American Theatre the manager has dropped them.

"The singers were fully paid for their services at the Academy of Music," said Manager Abramson yesterday. "Something is owed to some of them for a week or two on the road. At that time we found it difficult to get good bookings and lost a great deal of money. The singers were not paid during Christmas week, I believe.

"When I came to New York I reorganized the company and managed it entirely myself. Since then everybody has been paid. In moving to the American Theatre I have made an attempt to strengthen the company, and those members of the old company who are not re-engaged have not taken kindly to that fact.

"If I receive any sort of support from the musical public I shall continue to give opera at popular prices in New York all during next season, while opera is going on at both the big houses."

The performance of "Aida" last night at the American Theatre had a good many good features. A new dramatic soprano, who is tropical in appearance, action, and voice, made a sensational success with a large audience. Both vocally and histrionically she is lacking in reserve, but her voice is pleasing in quality when she is not forcing it. Mr. Samoilov sang the tenor part very well indeed, and Mr. Arcangeli was a capable Amonasro. Mme. Canzio was scarcely up to the part of Amneris. Mr. Fernari conducted.

These performances of opera at a dollar for the best seats deserve a good attendance. "Lucia" will be sung to-night.

Miss Grosvenor's Debut in Opera.

Miss Charlotte Grosvenor of Boston, a niece of ex-Congressman Grosvenor of Ohio, will enter the professional ranks of grand opera singers to-morrow night when she will sing the rôle of Violette in "Camille," in the production of the Helen Noldi Opera Company at the West End Theatre, in 125th Street. Miss Grosvenor has appeared frequently in private recitals and entertainments. Her professional début will be made in the presence of about 200 friends who are coming from Boston.

Dippel to Sail Saturday.

Andreas Dippel, co-director of the Metropolitan Opera House, has postponed his departure for Europe till Saturday, owing to the arrival of his confrère, Gatti-Casazza. Mr. Dippel will sail on the Campania. Alfred Hertz also has postponed his sailing in order that the new Italian Director may be made acquainted with the mysteries of the Opera House. The latter was busily engaged all day yesterday consulting with the heads of the various departments.

Siegfried Wagner to Tour America.

It was announced last night that negotiations have been entered into with Siegfried Wagner, son of the famous composer, for a tour by him of the principal cities of America, commencing next October. He is to bring with him an orchestra of sixty-five musicians, four soloists, and his mother, Cosima Wagner. Forty concerts will be given in the various American cities, and the tour is to end with a farewell concert in Madison Square Garden.

"La Traviata" at the West End.

The Helen Noldi Opera Company opened its second week at the West End Theatre last evening with a performance of "La Traviata." This opera will be continued throughout the week. "Aida" is in preparation.

TO OPEN LUNA PARK MAY 16.

Thirty-eight Automobiles Will Take Theatrical Folk There for Afternoon.

The opening of the season at Luna Park has been set for Saturday afternoon, May 16. At 3 o'clock on that day thirty-eight automobiles, headed by a band, will leave Times Square for Coney Island, carrying members of leading theatrical companies, authors, managers, and composers. A special gateway is to be erected at Luna Park's entrance, and A. L. Erlanger, with a gold key made for the occasion, will unlock the gates. Then, riding on Gyp, one of the Thompson & Dundy elephants, he will lead a tour of inspection around the park.

The gates will not be opened to the public until the guests from Broadway have settled down to dinner in the new restaurant.

Veterans at the Hippodrome.

Forty-eight posts of the Grand Army of the Republic were represented by the veterans who attended the performance at the Hippodrome last night. Gen. Horace Porter, who with his comrades occupied a box on the right of the stage, was cheered as he entered. Directly opposite sat Gen. F. D. Grant and his staff. In honor of the occasion and the presence in the playhouse of more than 400 veterans, Marceline made his first appearance on the Hippodrome stage in military garb.

ST. PETERSBURG, May 4.—Miss Lucille Marcel of New York, soprano of the Opéra Comique of Paris, appeared to-night at the Imperial Opera in a special performance of "Aida," which was arranged after the close of the regular Russian season. She was well received by a crowded house.

FOR THE TABLE.

Shad Supply Curtailed by Last Week's Storm—How to Cook the Fish.

The price of shad has gone up as another unpleasant result of last Thursday's storm, and has nearly doubled. Dealers say the price will not get down again until the end of the week, probably. Prices range now at 75 cents each for Connecticut River buck shad and $1.25 for the roe shad from the same place. There is a little North River shad, but that does not run as plentifully as it used to. The Connecticut River shad will finish out the season, which closes the middle of June. Before the storm shad had been very plentiful, and they have been down to 50 cents for the buck and 75 cents for the roe shad. Shad roe are 40 cents per pair.

Every one is supposed to know how to bake shad, but there are hints which are helpful, and one is to use a tin sheet, upon which the fish is placed inside the baking pan. The fish is scaled, an opening is made on the under side, and the insides taken out and the fish washed thoroughly, wiped dry on a clean towel, and rubbed well with salt. A dressing is made of a cup of stale bread crumbs, a tablespoonful of melted butter, a tablespoonful of chopped parsley, half a teaspoonful of salt, and a little black pepper. This is mixed well, the fish stuffed with it, and sewed up with soft white cotton. In scores made an inch apart on the fish strips of salt pork are placed. It is dredged with salt, pepper, and flour, and the bottom of the pan is covered with boiling water. Allow fifteen minutes to the pound for baking, and baste every ten minutes with the gravy in the pan. From the tin the shad can be slid off to the platter, and is garnished with fried potato balls and parsley. Hollandaise or roe sauce is used.

Another way of baking shad is to stuff it with mashed potato, season with finely chopped parsley, and place in a buttered pan and cover with lumps of butter.

STRANGE LIFE ON THE BOWERY

"Bill" Kept on Trying, but in His Case the Old Adage Didn't Seem to Work.

HE LOST OUT IN THE END

A New Melodrama at the Star Full of Dangers, Rescues, Disguises, and Pistols.

"Kate Barton's Temptation," a melodrama in four acts by Thomas S. Sewell, at the New Star Theatre, is described as a real play of New York life. Well, New York is hardened to that sort of misinformation or a committee of citizens would be appointed to rescue the fair name of the city. The Boweryites, however, who once arose wrathfully and demanded a new name for the street because of the slurs contained in a popular song are going to turn on writers of popular melodramas some day and rend them. In the meantime, however, popular imagination provides the color that the playwrights need even if the actual scenes they pretend to represent do not.

So we find Kate Barton arriving at her "home in the Bowery" after her day's work as cashier in a department store is over. Her foster father and her blind sister have been awaiting her anxiously, and Bill Barlow, the persistent villain, has happened in opportunely to confide the fact that he has arranged a robbery of the cash register at the store and that Kate will be suspected.

"Then," according to the incontrovertible logic of melodrama, "the old man will turn her out, and she will be mine, body and soul." Bill knows the rules of the game.

The old man does turn her out, but not until Kate has refused to become the wife of Robert Reed, the express messenger, and has told him that she is "not worthy."

"Not worthy!" he exclaims. "Do you mean to say that Bill Barlow has—?" Bill certainly has, for Kate bows her head.

Robert Reed, however, avows that he will be Kate's friend to the last, and, moreover, he warns her that if Bill does not do the square thing he will be on his track. Then he carelessly picks up a package of several thousand greenbacks that he has promised to deliver on his train run and goes away, to be held up in the caboose by Bill, who is determined to have the money if he has to kill his rival to get it. But the comedy Irishman, who is longing to get on the police force, has been waiting for a chance to foil Bill, and he pops up just in time to prevent the villain from jumping off the train. At the point of a pistol he forces Bill to get into a packing case, and nails on the lid. Then he addresses it to Police Headquarters and drops it off the train.

When Bill turns up next he is disguised as a woman, and is being saved by Kate, who has brought him to a "lonely hut on the Bowery." All the other Boweryites are apparently off seing a parade. At any rate, there is no interference. Bill's accomplice has been sent out to look up Kate's blind sister, upon whom the persistent Bill has not cast his evil eye, and when Kate tries to interfere he chokes her and "casts her off" in the street. This, however, does not prevent her from following him to Wing Lee's chop suey joint, where Bill, disguised as a Chinaman, is again discovered by Robert Reed, who comes in disguised as a Hester Street peddler, and where the comic Irishman, now a policeman in uniform, has time to do a song and dance before anybody gets busy again chasing the villains.

There is a scene in a den of crooks, a fire scene, and a daring rescue from sure death to add to the excitement before Kate is finally brought to the police court for trial, where her innocence is fully proved. So after all his trying Bill lost out in the end and Robert got the girl. However, as she has been at Bill's service throughout the entire play, and has more than once aided him to escape avenging justice, the moral is a little vague.

The acting is better on the whole than one usually gets in these poular melodramas, and Grace Covert, a rough soubrette, who appears as a tispy Bowery girl is genuinely clever. She would be noticeable for her naturalness even in more pretentious surroundings.

Joseph Brooks of Klaw & Erlanger was prominent in an audience that included many persons well known in literary and artistic circles.

NO ALARM OVER IMMIGRATION.

Straus Points to Half Million Foreign Born in Army and Navy.

In an address at the annual meeting of the Presbyterian Union at the Hotel Savoy last night Oscar S. Straus, the Secretary of the Department of Commerce and Labor, said that there was no need for any alarm at the increase of immigration into this country.

"Americans were alarmed at the invasion of the Germans after the revolution of 1848, but six of the Generals in the Federal Army during the civil war were Germans. Then we got scared over the Irish," said Mr. Straus," but we have got used to them, and now the people are getting worried over the immigration of the Italians, Hungarians, Armenians, and others who are coming to America to supply us with the labor that we need.

"In 1864 it was estimated that out of the 500,000 men in the American Army and Navy, 159,000 were of foreign birth, and in 1905 out of an army and navy force of 2,213,000, at least 500,000 were of foreign birth. In 1860 the entire population of the United States was 31,000,000, of whom 13 2-10 were of foreign birth, and in 1900, with a population of 80,000,000, the percentage of foreign born was only 13 7-10."

SAN FRANCISCO RECOVERS.

Street Railway Earnings Now Close to Figures Before the Earthquake.

Figures of the recent earnings of the United Railroads of San Francisco made public yesterday indicate that the passenger traffic on the city street railway lines has practically returned to a normal volume, the current year being considerably in excess of that of a year ago, and relatively close to the figures recorded before the disasters which overwhelmed the city two years ago.

The average daily earnings of the United Railroads of San Francisco in March this year were $18,017, compared with a daily average of $17,345 in March, 1907. The daily average this year for the first three weeks of April showed a further increase over March, amounting to $18,684 for the first twenty-two days of the month.

PORTO RICO PROSPEROUS.

But There Is a Falling Off in Trade Because of Damaged Sugar Crop.

Gov. R. H. Post of Porto Rico, who comes to attend a meeting of State and Territory Governors in Washington on May 12, got in yesterday on the Red D liner Philadelphia. He will remain here until June 20. While in Washington he will confer with President Roosevelt on insular affairs.

The Governor was enthusiastic over the financial and commercial prospects of Porto Rico. He admitted, however, that the island was not enjoying as great prosperity as that of last year.

"The island trade is not as good as last year," said Gov. Post. "This is because of the drought, which has damaged the sugar crop. The credit of Porto Rico is good and it is a noteworthy fact that there has not been a single bank failure."

GERRY SOCIETY INQUIRY.

Finance Department Wants to Know About Expenditure of City Funds.

Charles Hervey, head of the Bureau of Municipal Investigation and Statistics in the Finance Department, began yesterday an audit of the books of the Cociety for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children, often called the Gerry society. Mr. Hervey's activities will concern solely the expenditure of the $50,000 appropriated by the city for the use of the society, and will not go into the general funds of the organization.

The investigation is identical in character with those made by the Department of Finance in the case of other charitable and semi-charitable institutions which receive financial aid from the city, and will probably last not longer than three days. Mr. Hervey and several assistants spent a good part of the day in the rooms of the society.

CITY ORPHANS REVEL IN WILD WEST SHOW

Even the Smallest Boys Saw the Nice Points in the Equestrian Football Game.

GIRLS LIKED THE PAPOOSES

But All Were Excited When the Indian Village Was Attacked by Buffalo Bill and His Men.

If there was one thing more than another that every one of the small boys who visited the Wild West Show yesterday, on Orphans' Day, liked it was the football game between the Indians and cowboys. The smallest boys knew when the cowboys were ahead, and the boys who couldn't walk and never had walked shouted when some one made a point:

"Now they have made the third goal," and the woman attendant who didn't know anything about it except that a lot of men seemed to be putting themselves unnecessarily in danger and making things uncomfortable for an innocent-looking big ball, shook her head in wonder and amazement.

"How did they ever learn it?" she gasped.

"That's what they do in war," a bigger boy said admiringly, when the Sixth Cavalry man dashed around the ring, riding four horses bareback, a foot on the backs of the two outer animals. "When he is in a battle, and he captures four horses, that is the way he will carry them off," which may be the reason for that particular exercise, and no one could say that it wasn't.

"Those poor fellows don't know what is coming to them," said another boy seriously, as the stage coach, which is later to be overwhelmed by the avalanche, drove up. But that was not a matter for sympathy, as it happened, for the avalanche wasn't running yesterday, perhaps because the weather was not warm enough. So the stage coach got away safely, the grand parade followed, and everything was over, and every small boy who could made a rush for the arena to hunt for cartridge shells for souvenirs.

As for the girls, all their attention went to the real Indian papooses.

"How did you like the show, and what was the best thing in it?" some one asked two pretty, dark-eyed dark-haired little girls, as they marched out with their school. They smiled, and one of them said:

"We don't speak English."

They were Italians, and just then a small boy of the school, who had constituted himself rear guard, called them gruffly: "Come on," and they "came" quickly, for these were two English words they could make out.

SUFFRAGETTES OUT AGAIN.

They Get a Warm Welcome from a Harlem Crowd.

The suffragettes had the police and the labor men with them at their second open-air meeting in Harlem last night. There was more applause even than at the first night of a doubtful play when home talent assists, and it was at times a little disconcerting. The police reported three arrests, but they were on the outskirts of the crowd, and the speakers did not hear of it until afterward.

Inspector Thompson, with twenty-five men in plain clothes and fifteen in uniform were the power behind the throne of the suffragettes, or literally in front of the two big shoe boxes, which the advocates of "votes for women" borrowed from a near-by shoe shop for a platform. Four policemen in uniform stood in front of this, the Inspector and his plain clothes men were in the crowd and the other men in uniform hovered around the edges.

The location the suffragettes have chosen for their meetings, Seventh Avenue and 125th Street, is well adapted for the purpose. Opposite the place where the suffragette rostrum is raised is a long, long heap of stones brought there for street repairing, and atop this a large part of the people mass themselves, looking over the crowd below and the speakers. This was the most enthusiastic part of the audience, although the women's voice did not carry far. The occupants of the stone bleachers caught only a word or two here and there and howled joyfully whenever the slightest incident gave them a chance, and sometimes when the occasion was lacking. Between times they would call:

"Can't hear a word! Hooray!"

They could see if they couldn't hear, and when Mrs. Lydia Commander took the platform after Mrs. Sophie Loebinger, who was the first speaker, and arranged her boa around her neck as she did so, the crowd cried in admiring tones:

"Oh, you look all right!"

Mrs. Borrman Wells was wearing a new Spring hat with a big cluster of red feathers at the side, which took the eye of the crowd immediately.

"Oh, see the hat!" they cried.

SHARP DECLINES NEAR CLOSE

Union Pacific Bond Offering a Factor—Cheaper Money for City—Exchange Rates.

The first period of irregularity in yesterday's stock market came shortly after the opening, and was caused by heavy selling of stocks here for London account, the total of such sales being estimated at not less than 50,000 shares. The explanation of this liquidation lay in the weakness of the London market, where British consols fell sharply and other issues were correspondingly heavy on an influx of disturbing news from India. In the English capital the day was one of rumors regarding conspiracies on the part of the natives in the larger Indian cities and in outlying districts. Nothing came to hand before the close of the business day to confirm the reports, but their effect upon sentiment in London was immediate. After the stock from this source had been absorbed in the local market prices rallied, and in several directions, notably in St. Paul, reached new high levels for the movement. Late in the afternoon, however, pressure again developed, due apparently to profit taking and selling, in anticipation of the subsequent announcement of the Union Pacific's intention to authorize a $100,000,000 mortgage. Under the weight of such offerings prices gave way rapidly, closing in most instances substantially below Saturday's level. The Union Pacific bond announcement did little more than confirm the previous understanding that the stockholders would be called upon to authorize a large issue of securities. The official statement that not more than $50,000,000 of the $100,000,000 so authorized will be made use of was reassuring. Offerings of bonds have been coming upon the investment market with great rapidity and in considerable volume of late, and there is still, of course, some question as to its final capacity. On the grain markets prices were again strong, with corn moving to the highest figure touched in several years. The Cotton Exchange greeted the report of the Bureau of Corporations on its activities with an advance of $1.50 a bale in several options. News from the Winter wheat territory was not unfavorable, the Missouri State report in particular noting improvement during the month.

Money market conditions were practically unchanged. Foreign exchange rates declined sharply early in the day, but recovered some of the lost ground later. In London Paris bankers secured the greater part of the gold laid down from South Africa. Announcement was made that the City Controller had sold to several banking houses $20,000,000 of six months' revenue warrants upon a 3¾ per cent. basis, as against the 6 per cent. on similar warrants issued by the city shortly after the troubles of October last. The understanding in banking circles was that money received by the Pennsylvania Railroad from its bond sale would be invested in these warrants.

PHILADELPHIA PRICES.

PHILADELPHIA, May 4.—Local trading was dull and listless. Prices generally were steady. United Gas Improvement, notwithstanding a favorable annual report, was rather heavy, as was Philadelphia Electric. Rapid Transit was quiet and Union Traction held firm. Tonopah Mining was quite strong, but [illegible] stock to hold its price unchecked [illegible] Steel closed unchanged. Total [illegible] shares.

OUTSIDE SECURITIES

Desultory Market Leaves Many Issues Unchanged at Close from Opening Levels.

TRADING AT A STANDSTILL

Prices Fairly Well Maintained in the Dullest Market in Weeks—Coppers Practically Unchanged.

Curb trading was in small volume yesterday, and prices moved only within the narrowest limits. The coppers were sluggish, and at the close many of the issues showed no change from the opening prices. The Nevada gold stocks shared in the general apathy, moving upward nominally on the light trading. Among the coppers Butte Coalition showed considerable strength, selling 810 shares from 21⅞ up to 22⅜. The close was at 22¼. Cumberland-Ely sold 1,000 from 8¼ down to 8, and closed at the opening price, 8¼.

The principal transactions reported yesterday in the outside market, with opening, high, low, and last prices, were as follows:

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

Technical Market Conditions.

Brokers say that in this market it would be comparatively easy to express an opinion that might be worth something if the extent of the short interest could be figured. That would seem to be a simple enough proposition, but there is a difference of opinion which would indicate that it is a little more complex than appears on the surface. When it is said that it might be simple enough to figure out, the point is remembered that very positive opinions on just that point, the extent of the short interest, are expressed every day. But these opinions are nothing more nor less than the casual gossip of the day. Brokers who are in close touch with the market say that they are puzzled in the matter of the short interest. They say that the action of the market in the last few weeks would indicate a technical condition that could be developed only from an extended short interest. On the other hand, in their talks with other brokers, in their observation of the trading, and in all the little details which would ordinarily be convincing, they do not find anything positively conclusive. Every time the market has had a sharp advance it has been credited to the exigent covering of shorts, but apparently these shorts have put out their stock again, as a new crop is apparently always available.

Giving the Imagination Rein.

Rumors continue to fly thick and fast in the financial district, and there is an old-time hardihood in the indiscriminate use of names. One of the customers of a brokerage house went into the office yesterday and sought out the head of the house. He told him that he had heard at his club that two houses were in trouble. He named the houses, which were regarded as very strong, and asked the broker to investigate. This the broker did, and the result of his investigations was embodied in a letter to the customer in which he advised him that not only was there no foundation for the rumor, but that, in his opinion, there must have been a spice of malice somewhere to induce the circulation of such a yarn. Another rumor, interesting at least, was to the effect that a certain bear operator had seen the error of his ways and had made a private settlement which eliminated him from the market. Without official corroboration that rumor is also suspicious.

***

Contradictory Business Influences.

One of the big men of the lumber industry has been in town for a short time partly on business—that is specific business—and partly to get a line on sentiment preliminary to deciding upon certain extensions in one line in which he is interested. Part of the result of his observation he stated to one of his friends in the financial district yesterday. He said: "Some conditions I have found are decidedly encouraging and some are depressing. I find no material improvement in business, and I find also that some clear-headed business men do not expect any substantial improvement for some time to come. But at the same time there seems to be an underlying optimism, a belief that present conditions will be more limited than might have been expected from such a panic, and that in time, when normal business conditions are re-established, everything will be more healthy and more satisfactory. There is still the same difference of view in the various sections. Uptown New York has one idea and Wall Street has another. You measure conditions down here by the ticker and the bond market. Perhaps the bond market is a good index, but in the present instance it shows the most conservatism. I could summarize my feelings by saying that I am conservatively hopeful."

Ultimate Money Market Outlook.

In view of the fact that Congress is likely to adjourn, if not on May 20, at least within the next month or six weeks, and no currency legislation has been accomplished, there is a tendency to speculate a little more seriously on probable conditions next Fall. Of course, there is a chance that some bill may still pass both House and Senate, but the feeling prevails that what could not be accomplished since last December to the satisfaction of those concerned is not likely to be rushed through with satisfaction to any one in the closing days of the session. Consequently, it is figured that conditions in the money market next Fall should be judged for the present as if no currency legislation were probable. One banker put the situation in this fashion yesterday: "There is a disposition to assume that everything will be lovely in the money market next Fall, but I do not think so. We may not have a severe stringency, but we will undoubtedly have conditions that will make for firm money."

That Union Pacific Meeting.

No one in the financial district expects that the Union Pacific meeting to-day will be anything but a routine affair, at which the propositions to be submitted by the management will be approved without question. Nevertheless, this meeting has been discussed daily for weeks, or more particularly since the advance in the market began. Some have looked forward to it as the logical explanation of the upward movement, while others have taken it for granted that the distribution of the bonds to be authorized at the meeting will determine the real influence in the market. No doubt is expressed that whatever bond issue is made will be unqualifiedly successful, but there is a natural curiosity to know the exact terms of the issue. One of the puzzling things about the market in Union Pacific is the comparative mystery as to the personal element identified with the movement. It has not been possible to trace directly to any one office the buying which precipitated the movement, nor to any one centre which might be regarded as a distributing point for orders.

THE COFFEE MARKET.

Coffee showed no special feature yesterday. After opening unchanged to 5 points higher the market reacted, but sales for the day were less than 20,000 bags. Havre opened unchanged to ⅛ franc higher, but lost ¼ franc, and Hamburg was unchanged to ¼ pfennig higher. Brazilian cables reported a decline of 75 reis at Rio, but an unchanged market at Santos, and receipts at the two ports were 12,000 bags, against 50,000 last year and 23,000 two years ago. Sao Paulo receipts were 10,000 bags, against 7,200 in 1906, and Jundiahy receipts were 7,000 bags, against 7,000 in 1906. The world's visible supply statement showed a decrease of 511,521 bags for the month of April, against an increase during April last year of 612,707 bags and a decrease for the month of April, 1906, of 391,759 bags. The visible supply as of May 1 was 14,949,000 bags, of which about 8,000,000 bags are said to be held by the Government, against 16,009,000, the visible supply of May 1, 1907, and 10,356,000 two years ago.

Spot coffee quiet; Rio No. 7, 6 to 6 1-16c.

The total warehouse deliveries in the United States for the week were 136,212 bags, against 82,884 last week and 96,255 last year. Of the former amount New York reported 81,800 bags. The range of contract prices was as follows:

$100,000,000 ISSUE UNION PACIFIC BONDS

Half the Amount to be Put Out Now and the Balance Held in Reserve.

FUNDS TO RESUME WORK

Only $25,000,000 Needed for Immediate Requirements, Harriman Says—Stockholders Meet To-day.

The amount of the bond issue which the stockholders of the Union Pacific Railroad will be called upon to authorize at their special meeting to be held in Salt Lake City to-day is $100,000,000. About $50,000,000 of this issue, it is understood, will be issued in the near future, and the balance reserved in the treasury of the company for additions and new construction. As the Harriman interests will control to-day's meeting, the authorization of the bonds is assured.

This statement regarding the Union Pacific bond issue was made yesterday by E. H. Harriman:

> The financial requirements of the Union Pacific have been much exaggerated. The maximum amount needed at this time to put the company in funds does not exceed $25,000,000, but we want to resume development and put our people to work. In no event, however, will over $50,000,000 of the bonds be issued against the properties now owned.
>
> While the stockholders will be asked at their meeting to-morrow to authorize an issue of $100,000,000 of bonds, at least $50,000,000 of the amount will be reserved for issue under strictly guarded provisions only for the construction or acquisition of new lines and for additions. Instead of mortgaging new lines as constructed or acquired, and thus having separate mortgages on different divisions, it is deemed best to provide in one mortgage for future extensions and new lines. The meeting is a preliminary step to put the company in a position to take advantage of favorable opportunities to raise additional capital to the best advantage.

The last annual report of the Union Pacific showed that there were 1,649 miles of the Union Pacific system which were owned free of mortgage debt. Of these, 1,130 miles were owned directly by the Union Pacific Railroad, and the balance was owned through the Oregon Railroad & Navigation Company, or through other subsidiary companies. One of the purposes of to-day's special meeting is to authorize the merging in the Union Pacific of the Topeka & Northwestern Railroad, which is now owned through stock ownership, and which represents part of the 1,649 miles which the Union Pacific owns free of mortgage debt.

It was assumed in Wall Street that arrangements for the sale of about $50,000,000 of the new bonds will be made in the very near future. It was stated, however, in well-informed banking quarters that no negotiations had yet been entered into between the Union Pacific and bankers for a sale of the bonds. It is altogether possible that part of the issue will be placed abroad, but on this point and other details of the issue it was said yesterday to be impossible to predict until the Union Pacific takes up an actual sale of the bonds.

Mr. Harriman's statement that he wanted to resume development and put men back to work is in keeping with his comments for some time regarding the proposed Union Pacific financing. His main object in raising new money at this time, he has stated, is to give employment to idle railroad workers, and to this extent to add to the country's prosperity.

THE COTTON MARKET.

Soars on British Boom and Frost Fears—Closes 21 to 31 Points Up.

Cotton made a sensational advance yesterday on talk of a better trade demand, diminishing local stocks, and prospects for frost in the Western belt. At one time May sold 87 points above the low level of last week. The close was steady at a net advance of 20@31 points. Sales for the day were estimated at 400,000 bales.

The market opened firm at an advance of 14@24 points in response to sensational gains in Liverpool, which more than responded to Saturday's late strength at New Orleans. The range of contract prices was as follows:

	High.	Low.	Close.	Sat. Close.
May	8.90	8.68	8.73@8.75	8.42

The local market for spot cotton was quiet, with prices 20 points higher, at 10.40 for middling upland and 10.65 for middling Gulf. Sales, 3,200 bales.

Southern spot markets were telegraphed as follows: Savannah steady, ⅛c higher at 9¾c, sales 547 bales; Norfolk firm, ⅛c higher at 10⅛c, sales 388 bales; Augusta steady, 3-16c higher at 10@10¼c, sales 191 bales; St. Louis steady, unchanged at 10c, sales 1,500 bales; Galveston steady, ⅛c higher at 10⅛c, sales 1,412 bales; New Orleans steady, ⅛c higher at 10 3-16c, sales 2,675 bales; Memphis firm, ⅛c higher at 10¼c, sales 1,900 bales.

GRAIN AND PROVISIONS.

WHEAT—Except for May wheat, which at times showed weakness, the market was generally firm yesterday on higher cables and Hessian fly damage in Kansas. The visible supply statement showed a decrease of 5,547,000 bushels, against a decrease last year of 787,000 bushels. A considerable part of last week's reduction was attributed to the disappearance of wheat in transit from far Northwestern points. Advances of 1¼ to 1⅝d at Liverpool and of ⅝ to 1⅝c at Budapest were reported. The Missouri State report gave the condition at 93 against 91 last month and 82 last year. Duluth reported twenty loads for export, mostly durum. Cash wheat in New York closed as follows: No. 2 red, $1.10 elevator and $1.11¼ free on board, afloat; No. 1 Northern, Duluth, $1.16¼, and No. 2 hard Winter, $1.14¼ free on board afloat, to arrive. Exporters took ten loads in New York late, making thirty loads altogether, and the late curb was ⅛c higher.

CORN—New high records were made by May yesterday, and the whole market was generally strong on wet, cold weather in the belt. Liverpool was up ½d, and interior receipts a little more than half as large as last year. The visible supply decreased 698,000 bushels. No. 2 corn in New York was quoted at 74@74¼c free on board afloat, to arrive, other grades being nominal.

THE FOREIGN MARKET.

Business Dull on European Bourses with Prices Tending Downward.

LONDON, May 4.—Money was in good supply on the market to-day, and the demand was quiet. Discounts were easy, and the Continent secured the bulk of the £500,000 in gold available.

The Stock Exchange started weak and unsatisfactory. The trouble on the Indian frontier was responsible for a sharp drop of 1⅛ in consols and a decline of 1 point in Indian stocks. This depressed the other gilt-edged securities, while the shipbuilding dispute checked business in home rails. Paris continued to sell De Beers and Rio Tintos, which stocks, especially the former, were weaker.

American securities ruled dull in the forenoon, and the slight opening advance over parity was lost by the absence of support. The New York opening came irregular. Then offerings increased, prices declined, and the market finished easy.

Bar silver was quiet at 24⅜d per ounce. Money, 1½@2 per cent.

PARIS, May 4.—The tone on the Bourse to-day was heavy.

BERLIN, May 4.—Trading on the Boerse to-day opened sluggish and continued inactive through the day.

Completed Watch Chains Are Held Not "Toys"—Other Decisions.

It was decided yesterday by the Board of United States General Appraisers that steel watch chains of the usual length and provided with bar and snap are dutiable properly as "manufactures of metal" at the rate of 45 per cent. ad valorem.

A. Strauss & Co., the importers, alleged that the articles should be allowed to enter as "toys," but this contention General Appraiser Fischer in his decision for the board holds to be without merit. The chains are complete in every respect, and on this account the board is unwilling to admit them at 35 per cent. under the toy schedule. The board also overruled another claim by the same firm regarding the classification to accrue on metal pencils.

Other importers' claims overruled were filled by Mendelson & Co. and others, Samstag & Hilder Brothers, A. Leipzig, Sidney Blumenthal & Co., Max M. Schwarez & Co., Rosenstein Brothers and others, D. C. Gardiner and others, C. B. Richard & Co., J. & M. Rosenberg and others, Tower Manufacturing and Novelty Company, Joseph G. Johnson & Co., Bernhard Ulman & Co. and others, George C. Peirier, the Henry Siegel Company, and M. Gugenheim, New York.

The board sustained protests filed by the American Express Company and others, Peter A. Frasse & Co. and others, James G. Wilson, Magnus & Lauer, Albert Eckstein, and Euler & Robeson, New York.

A Period of Sober Reflection

It is conceded that the greatest protection to the public in dealing with corporations is publicity. If a company has nothing to conceal it should not object to giving the public full information as to its affairs. The Lawyers Mortgage Company is the only Mortgage Company that tells all about its business—the amount of Guaranteed Mortgages outstanding, the amount of delinquent interest, the number of foreclosures during the year, and every item from which the public can judge for itself the uniform solidity and strength of its mortgage investments.

The City of New York, by this proceeding, seeks to acquire an estate in fee simple in certain real property hereinafter described for the construction, maintenance and operation in perpetuity of a Rapid Transit Railroad, including certain stations and station approaches or entrances, in accordance with the routes adopted by the Board of Rapid Transit Railroad Commissioners by resolution on the 25th day of May, 1905, and approved by the Board of Estimate and Apportionment of the City of New York on the 14th day of July, 1905, and approved by the Mayor of the City of New York on the 28th day of July, 1905, and consented to by an order of the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court, First Judicial Department, made and entered on or about the 12th day of March, 1907, which railroad, including stations and station approaches or entrances, is further described in the contract for the construction thereof made by the City of New York, acting by the said Board of Rapid Transit Railroad Commissioners, with the Degnon Contracting Company, dated May 9, 1907, which said contract was thereafter duly modified by a contract of modification dated February 18, 1908. The subway or subways for said railroad are to be constructed substantially as shown in such contract modified as aforesaid, and upon the maps or plans adopted by the Public Service Commission for the First District of the State of New York, on the 13th day of March, 1908.

The second parcel consists of certain lots or parcels of land designated upon said maps adopted by the Public Service Commission for the First District of the State of New York, on the 13th day of March, 1908, as Lots Nos. 26, 27 and 28 in Block 197, Section No. 1, which lots taken together form a parcel of land situated on the westerly side of Centre Street, extending from Walker Street to Canal Street, with a frontage on the northerly side of Walker Street, extending about 45 feet 11 inches westerly from the westerly side of Centre Street, and with a frontage on the southerly side of Canal Street, extending about 26 feet 2 inches westerly from the westerly side of Centre Street; said Lots Nos. 26, 27 and 28 being also designated upon said maps as Nos. 106 and 108 Walker Street, Nos. 151 to 155 Centre Street and No. 240 Canal Street.

The third parcel consists of a certain lot or parcel of land designated upon said maps adopted by the Public Service Commission for the First District of the State of New York on the 13th day of March, 1908, as Lot No. 27, in Block No. 198, Section No. 1, which is a parcel of land situated on the easterly side of Centre Street, extending from Walker Street to Canal Street, with a frontage on the northerly side of Walker Street, extending about 61 feet 2¾ inches easterly from the easterly side of Centre Street and with a frontage on the southerly side of Canal Street, extending about 54 feet 11¾ inches easterly from the easterly side of Centre Street, said Lot No. 27 being also designated upon said maps as Nos. 114 and 116 Walker Street, Nos. 152 to 158 Centre Street, and Nos. 234 to 238 Canal Street, all in the Borough of Manhattan, in the City of New York.

A fuller statement setting forth the location and boundaries of the several lots and parcels of land and rights, franchises, easements or privileges sought to be taken or acquired, and a brief statement as to each of said lots or parcels of the title, interest, rights, easements, terms or privileges therein, or appurtenant thereto, sought to be acquired by the City of New York, is annexed to each of three similar maps adopted by the Public Service Commission for the First District of the State of New York on the 13th day of March, 1908, which said maps were filed, one in the office of the President of the Borough of Manhattan, City of New York, on the 23d day of March, 1908, one in the office of the Public Service Commission for the First District of the State of New York, at No. 154 Nassau Street, Borough of Manhattan, City of New York, on the 18th day of March, 1908, and one in the office of the Register of the County of New York on the 26th day of March, 1908.

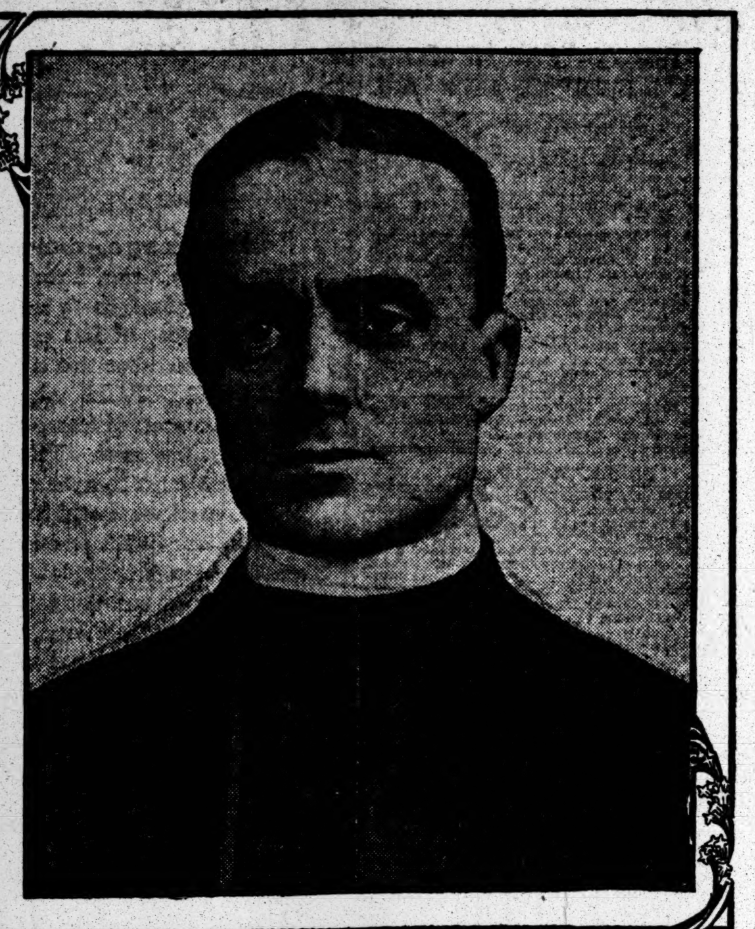
William Barclay Parsons, another of the vestrymen, is on his way to Cuba.

Dr. Manning called the vestrymen to order, immediately after which he called Col. Jay, as the Senior Warden, to take the chair. Dr. Manning said he would leave the building, but the vestrymen refused to accede to that, and he was persuaded to go into another room during the few minutes necessary to elect him to the rectorship of one of the richest parishes in the world. In a few minutes Dr. Manning was called into the room to receive the congratulations of the vestrymen. Only one ballot was taken. Dr. Manning briefly expressed his gratitude for the honor that had been conferred upon him.

The election of Dr. Manning to the rectorship followed out a long precedent in Trinity Parish, for, had he not been elected he would have been the first assistant rector not to succeed to the rectorship on the death of the spiritual head of the parish. Dr. Manning, who is an Englishman, has been vicar of St. Agnes's Chapel since 1903, and one year after he assumed that place he became the assistant rector of the parish.

Dr. Manning was born in Northampton, England, in 1866, and came to the United States when he was 12 years old. He was graduated from the University of the South, at Sewanee, Tenn., and took his divinity degree from the same school in 1893. He was ordained in the priesthood by Bishop Kip of California, after which he became the rector of a church at Redlands, that State. Dr. Manning, after a brief rectorship in California, returned to Sewanee, where he became the Professor of Dogmatic Theology.

He resigned that professorship in 1898 to become rector of Christ Church, Nashville, Tenn., which place he retained until he came to New York, in 1903, to be vicar of St. Agnes's Chapel. Within a year after Dr. Manning came to New York, two Bishoprics were offered to him, one to be the Bishop of Kentucky, and the other to be Bishop of Harrisburg. He was actually chosen to the last Bishopric, and it was while he had the offer under consideration that he was made assistant rector of Trinity Parish.



THE REV. DR. W. T. MANNING, New Rector of Trinity.

FRANK A. MUNSEY AIDS STOWAWAY RELATIVE

Young Englishman of the Same Name Hid Himself on the Lusitania.

HAD WRITTEN PUBLISHER

Years Ago He Asked Munsey if They Weren't Related—Now Magazine Owner Will Help Him.

A young Englishman with a liking for wandering and a desire to become an American citizen was released yesterday from Ellis Island through the efforts of Frank A. Munsey, the publisher. The wanderer, Hilsen Munsey, 22 years old, says the American Munsey represents a branch of his family tree.

Young Munsey got here a few days ago as a stowaway on the Cunarder Lusitania. He was discovered, and when the ship arrived was locked up for safe keeping and deportation when the ship sailed again. It was then young Munsey remembered the representative of the American branch of his family, and wrote to him telling of his troubles and asking help. It came sooner than the young man expected, and yesterday the publisher telephoned to Commissioner Watchorn that he would pay his relative's fare. Later he sent his secretary to Ellis Island to assure the Commissioner that the youth would not become a public charge if he was released.

To get aboard a steamer he walked from Antwerp to Ostend. There the British Consul shipped him to Dover. From there he walked almost the length of England and landed in Liverpool just three days before the Lusitania sailed for this side. He was footsore and without money, but his ambition to get to America was not dampened. He went on board the vessel and hid on the top of a boiler. He stayed there until the vessel was some hours out of Queenstown. Then the heat drove him out and he spent the rest of the way working for the fo'cas'le cook.

The young man is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Munsey of Wolverhampton. His parents do not yet know of his arrival here.

"It was awful hard work getting here," said the young man. "I am here, though, and I want to settle down and become an American."

FOOD.

TRAINED NURSE

Remarks about Nourishing Food.

"A physician's wife gave me a package of Grape-Nuts one day, with the remark that she was sure I would find the food very beneficial, both for my own use and for my patients. I was particularly atracted to the food, as at that time the weather was very hot and I appreciated the fact that Grape-Nuts requires no cooking.

"The food was deliciously crisp, and most inviting to the appetite. After making use of it twice a day for three or four weeks, I discovered that it was a most wonderful invigorator. I used to suffer greatly from exhaustion, headaches, and depression of spirits. My work had been very trying at times, and indigestion had set in.

"Now I am always well and ready for any amount of work, have an abundance of active energy, cheerfulness, and mental poise. I have proved to my entire satisfaction that this change has been brought about by Grape-Nuts food.

"The fact that it is predigested is a very desirable feature. I have had many remarkable results in feeding Grape-Nuts to my patients, and I cannot speak too highly of the food. My friends constantly comment on the change in my appearance. I have gained 9 pounds since beginning the use of this food." "There's a Reason." Read "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs.

OPERATED IN CHECKS.

H. O. Francis, Alias Saunders, Locked Up on Complaint of Two Hotels.

When a man who registered as Perry K. Saunders of Battle Creek, Mich., asked the clerk at the Hotel Imperial to cash a small check last night, leaving another larger one to cover his account at the hotel, the clerk become suspicion. He recalled that a week ago a man calling himself Harvey O. Francis had got the Hotel Breslin to cash a check for $12, at the same time leaving a check for $50 to settle his account, and then had disappeared, both checks later proving to be worthless.

House Detective Curran of the Breslin was sent for, while the clerk at the Imperial detained the man on a pretext. The man became suspicious, however, and ran out. House Detective Fougere chased and caught him. When Curran came he identified him as the man who had swindled his house.

Saunders, or Francis, was locked up in the West Thirtieth Street Police Station. In his room at the hotel Curran says he found a letter addressed to Mrs. Jean Francis at Battle Creek, Mich. He believes that Francis is the man's right name.

LOST HIS CASH AND DIAMONDS.

Schenectady Man Fell in with Fast Company on Arriving Here.

Charles B. Reel came here from Schenectady yesterday, left his luggage at the Hotel Manhattan, and went to a barroom near Forty-second Street and Sixth Avenue. He met two engaging acquaintances and commenced to match quarters. The limit rose, and presently Mr. Reel had lost all of his change, amounting to $35. Then two diamond rings and a diamond pin soon afterward changed hands.

Having nothing more to lose, Reel decided that he had been swindled. He chased his friends out into the street and down Sixth Avenue, where one of them ran into and knocked over Detective Brennan of the Central Office. Brennan's partners, Blair and Burns, caught the man.

At Headquarters he said he was Charles M. Devine of the Hotel Imperial. He denied that Reel had been swindled, and said he had won the pin, which was found in his pocket. He said his friend had the rings, but refused to tell who the man was or where he lived unless the police promised not to arrest him. They wouldn't do it, and Devine went to a cell with his secret.

Kingston's 250th Anniversary.

KINGSTON, N. Y., May 4.—The two hundred and fiftieth anniversary of the settlement of Kingston will take place May 30 and 31 and June 1. Kingston is making elaborate preparations for this event. Here, in 1777, was framed the first Constitution of New York State.

Platt Divorce Suit Up on May 8.

The suit for divorce which Mae C. Wood has begun against United States Senator Thomas C. Platt was called again yesterday in the Supreme Court, and marked ready, subject to the engagements of John B. Stanchfield, counsel for Senator Platt. It is expected to begin on May 8. The plaintiff alleges that she was married to Senator Platt at the Fifth Avenue Hotel on Nov. 9, 1901. The latter denies the marriage and says the marriage certificate which the plaintiff says she possesses is a forgery.

CLEVELAND BETTER; DR. BRYANT LEAVES

Reports from Lakewood Indicate Improvement in ex-President's Condition.

DR. LOCKWOOD IN CHARGE

New York Physician, Who Is an Authority on Diseases of the Stomach —Mrs. Cleveland Denies Rumors.

Special to The New York Times.

LAKEWOOD, N. J., May 4.—Dr. Joseph Bryant of New York, who has been with ex-President Grover Cleveland since Friday, returned to town on an early train to-day, refusing to talk of the case.

"All trustworthy statements regarding Mr. Cleveland's condition will be made by the family and through The Associated Press," was all he would say.

He was relieved at the bedside by Dr. G. Rowe Lockwood of New York, who came down in the last train and went at once to the Lakewood Hotel. He would not discuss Mr. Cleveland's illness, and referred all inquirers to Dr. Bryant. He said that the length of his stay was indefinite. Dr. Lockwood is an authority on diseases of the stomach.

Mrs. Cleveland did not take her customary drive to-day. A telephone message to the hotel brought the response that Mr. Cleveland was resting comfortably, and his improved condition had permitted Dr. Joseph Bryant, his physician, to leave.

Mrs. Cleveland telephoned yesterday, as she has been doing daily for the last week, to George F. Parker, Secretary of the Equitable Life Trustees, and an old friend of Mr. Cleveland's, that she was distressed beyond measure by the reports regarding her husband's illness in some of the New York newspapers.

"It is absolutely untrue," said Mrs. Cleveland to Mr. Parker, "to say that Mr. Cleveland has cancer. He is suffering from a severe attack of his old digestive trouble, which he has had intermittently for years. There is no cause for immediate alarm. He has been very ill and is now slowly but surely recovering.

"We stayed on here because Dr. Bryant considered that the climate of Lakewood would be better for Mr. Cleveland than Princeton. I am not confined to the sick room, as stated in the papers, but am able to leave my husband every day. There is nothing to conceal about Mr. Cleveland's illness and nothing has been concealed."

TWENTY-THREE MILES FOR EIGHT-CENT FARE

You Can Travel for That Price from New Rochelle to Atlantic Avenue.

RETURN FOR SAME PRICE

Trolley, Elevated, and Subway Are the Lines Used—Discovery of a Commuter.

A man who has been complaining bitterly because of the disintegration of the local surface cars into their original systems and the consequent curtailment of transfers, was congratulating himself yesterday because he has discovered a new thing in transfers.

"They have increased my car fare expenditures here in Manhattan," said he, "but I've got one on the street car people nevertheless. To be sure, all of this particular stunt isn't done in Manhattan. But a part of it goes through Manhattan. It begins outside of the city up in Westchester County, goes the length of Manhattan, and finally ends in Brooklyn. In the course of my stunt I ride something like twenty-three miles for 8 cents. I use three different kinds of transportation—the trolley, the elevated, and the Subway. And I don't make such bad time either.

"To begin, I start in New Rochelle. There in Huguenot Street I take a car known as an express. This runs by the most direct routes through Pelham Manor and Mount Vernon down to the terminus of the Third Avenue Elevated at Bronx Park or 198th Street and Webster Avenue. On the special car I get a transfer to the elevated which costs me just 3 cents in addition to the original nickel of my fare.

I don't make at all bad time down to the elevated. I make it in about fifty minutes from New Rochelle. Of course I needn't take this special car, which runs half hourly. But if I take an ordinary car I have to transfer to another line of trolley cars at Mount Vernon, which is a needless annoyance, and also the time to the elevated structure is slower, since the ordinary route is several miles longer than that taken by the special car.

"Getting on the elevated at its Bronx Park terminus—which is just a little walk from the car line, not more than a minute or so—I ride on the elevated to 149th Street, where I get a free transfer from the agent at that point to the Subway. Going into the Subway entrance just across the street, I get an express that not only takes me the length of Manhattan to the Battery—if I wish—but which will without change take me to Borough Hall in Brooklyn and further to the Flatbush Avenue Station of the Long Island Railroad.

This trip costs me just 8 cents. The distance from New Rochelle to Forty-second Street, Manhattan, is 16.6 miles, which call seventeen miles for the sake of round figuring. From Forty-second Street to the Battery is four miles more, which makes twenty-one. Then I call it another mile to Borough Hall, which makes twenty-two. Add another mile for the distance between Borough Hall and the Flatbush Avenue Station, and we get a grand total of twenty-three. And all for 8 cents, or about 3.4 mills a mile. Think what transportation along the same route approximately would have cost in the old days.

"Of course it goes without saying that the trip can be made in the reverse way for 8 cents just as easily. The agent in the Subway—the transfer agent—hands you a transfer as you leave, if you ask for it, that entitles you to ride northward on the Third Avenue Elevated to its terminus, where you get your special car for New Rochelle.

"I have been quiet about this way of traveling between my home on the Sound and the factory I occasionally visit in Brooklyn for fear that the receivers would put an end to it. But I feel like boasting to-day, and so I have told."

GEORGE GOULD OPTIMISTIC.

He Thinks the Worst Has Been Seen and Looks for Business Betterment.

George J. Gould said yesterday that he thought the corner had been turned in the financial situation, and that while he looked for somewhat unfavorable railroad earnings, perhaps until July, he was inclined to take an optimistic view of the outlook. He said that while all roads would not be able to borrow with the same facility as the Pennsylvania, he was of the opinion that the success of the Pennsylvania and of the Interborough Rapid Transit issues had made it measurably easier for other roads to place loans.

Mr. Gould said he attached a great deal of importance to the change that has taken place in the attitude of the political leaders of Texas toward the railroads of that State. Mr. Gould said the change in the sentiment of the people in Texas with respect to the railroads had also become pronounced within the last three weeks. He believes that this more friendly sentiment on the part of politicians and the people will gradually become general throughout the United States. He attributes the improvement in the outlook to the Supreme Court decision in the rate cases.

Referring to the Western Union Telegraph Company, Mr. Gould said that the company had $1,000,000 cash in bank, was paying all its expenses promply, and that operating expenses had been so much reduced that net earnings, despite a falling off in gross, have not recently shown any material loss.

Substantial progress is still being made, he said, in the construction of the Western Pacific.

BANKERS MEET AT LAKEWOOD.

Executive Council of American Association Holding 3 Days' Session.

Special to The New York Times.

LAKEWOOD, N. J., May 4.—Ninety members of the Executive Council of the American Bankers' Association are in session for three days at the Laurel-in-the-Pines. The day was spent entirely in the holding of committee meetings, there being ten of these gatherings. The three sessions of the Executive Council as a whole will be held to-morrow. The next meeting of the Bankers' Association will probably be held in the Fall in Denver. The banquet of the council will be held to-morrow night. The business meetings will continue on Wednesday, and, if necessary, over into Thursday. Among those here are Philip S. Babcock, James R. Branch, J. F. Thompson, Lawrence L. Gillespie, William Hauhart, William F. Burns, Fred E. Farnsworth of New York, and Uzal H. McCarter of Newark. The trust company, savings bank, and Clearing House sections of the association are well represented.

HE DUG HIS OWN GRAVE.

Hart's Island Prisoner Later Plunged Over Railing and Killed Himself.

When the body of William J. O'Neil was brought from Hart's Island to the Morgue last night it was learned that the man had committed suicide by throwing himself from the third story of the prison. He was despondent because of having to serve time.

O'Neil probably dug his own grave. Prisoners at Hart's Island are employed at digging trenches on the island each trench with a capacity for 150 bodies, to be used as a potter's field.

"This one's for me," he said to a companion the other day, as he scraped away the dirt in one of the trenches. After services on Sunday he threw himself into the trench from the third tier of cells.

Wheeler to Go to Berlin.

At a meeting of the Columbia University Trustees yesterday it was announced that President Benjamin Ide Wheeler of the University of California had been nominated as Theodore Roosevelt Professor in Berlin for the year 1909-10, and appointed by the Prussian Ministry of Education.

COTTON EXCHANGE REFORMS.

Form of Contracts, Theodore Price Says, Should Be Revised.

Theodore H. Price, whose criticism of the existing system of contract grade differences in the New York cotton market are in effect upheld by the special report of Herbert Knox Smith of the Bureau of Commerce and Labor on cotton market methods in this country, pointed out yesterday some of the things which he thought ought to be done to correct the alleged evils which exist in cotton market trading under the rules of the New York Stock Exchange. In reply to inquiries concerning his view of the bureau's special report Mr. Price said he thought that the views expressed in that report with regard to the rule of the New York Cotton Exchange, which permits of the establishment of fixed grade differences for a period of ten months, were entirely sound.

Mr. Price referred to the fact that on Tuesday last middling cotton was quoted in New York at 10 cents a pound, while basis middling contracts for May delivery sold at 8.03 cents. He said that, as a matter of fact, as shown by the official records of the Exchange, there were in the New York stock on April 25 only 197 bales of middling cotton, so that the term "basis middling contract" was a misnomer so far as it implied that on the contract traded in on the New York Cotton Exchange any middling cotton at all was likely to be delivered.

He said that in his opinion criticism of the Exchange would be largely disarmed if the description of the contract were immediately changed, and instead of being described as a "basis middling contract" it was described as a "basis good ordinary contract" and quoted 200 points lower.

He said the rules of the Exchange should be so modified as to make obligatory the physical delivery of the cotton every time it changed hands, thus enabling the receiver to protect himself against the delivery of improper cotton. He said if objection were made to his suggestion on the ground that it would facilitate corners it would be very easy so to modify the contract that it could be automatically extended upon payment of a moderate penalty; that corners were in themselves uncommercial, and that in the long run they hurt the Exchange more than they benefited it.

President Parker and the officials of the Exchange refuse to make an official reply to the charges, but it is the opinion of a large number of the influential members that some reform in the means of establishing grade differences will have to be formulated as a result of the bureau's strictures.

GOOD PRICES FOR CARPETS.

Spirited Bidding for $3,500,000 Stock on Big Sale's Opening Day.

More than 1,400 buyers representing carpet houses in all sections of the country attended the auction sale yesterday of $3,500,000 worth of carpets, rugs, and tapestries in the warerooms of Alexander Smith & Sons Carpet Company, at 105 and 107 Fifth Avenue. This is the largest number of buyers who ever gathered at a carpet sale. The sale was conducted by Wilmerding, Morris & Mitchell, auctioneers.

Bidding was spirited from the opening of the sale, and prices were pushed rapidly beyond the point at which many of the buyers had expected to obtain goods.

Duplicates of lots which were put up at auction simply to establish a price were freely taken, although in many instances the prices were within 5 per cent. of the prevailing market rate.

The sale will be contiued all this week, or until the entire $3,500,000 stock has been sold out. This stock includes about 3,500 pieces of Wilton velvet, 13,000 pieces of velvet and Palisade velvet, 20,000 of tapestries of various qualities, 5,000 of Saxony Axminsters, 3,500 of extra Axminsters, 2,000 of Savonneries, 10,000 bales of Manor tapestry rugs, 10,000 of Nepperhan, 1,000 of Wilton velvet rugs, 2,000 of Colonial velvet, 2,000 of E Palisade velvet, 16,000 of Axminster, and 8,000 of Axminster E and J rugs and mats.

Among the firms represented by buyers at the sale were the H. B. Claflin Company, Marshall Field & Co., Arnold, Constable & Co., Lord & Taylor, the Siegel-Cooper Company, the O'Neill-Adams Company, the Simpson, Crawford Company, Bloomingdale Brothers, Greenhut & Co., James A. Hearn & Co., Rotherberg & Co., The Fourteenth Street Store, R. H. Macy & Co., and Koch & Co.

FISH OUT OF MISSOURI PACIFIC

Hasn't the Time to Spare to Serve as a Director, It Is Said.

Stuyvesant Fish, ex-President of the Illinois Central, who became a member of the Board of Directors of the Missouri Pacific and its Executive Commmittee about a year ago, has resigned from that board. He refused yesterday to give any explanation of his resignation, but a semi-official statement announced that his reason for doing so was that he had not time to give to Missouri Pacific affairs the amount of attention which he felt ought to be given by a Director of a road.

Mr. Fish was at no time a large holder of Missouri Pacific stock, and his withdrawal from the board was said yesterday to be without special significance. It was reported yesterday that one reason why Mr. Fish was leaving the Directorate of the Missouri Pacific was that he was going abroad for a long trip. This was denied, however, by Mr. Fish.

Interest was taken in Mr. Fish's election to the Executive Committee of the Missouri Pacific last year because of the fact that he had recently left the Presidency of the Illinois Central, an active competitor of the Missouri Pacific, and because of the relations existing between the Gould interests dominant in the Missouri Pacific and E. H. Harriman, with whom Mr. Fish waged his contest in the Illinois Central.

GENERAL ELECTRIC REPORT.

Shrinkage of Profits Has Reduced the Values—Surplus $16,513,836.

The sixteenth annual report of the General Electric Company for the year ended Jan. 31 shows profits of $6,586,653. There was paid in dividends $5,183,614, leaving $1,403,039 carried to surplus account. The surplus at the end of the fiscal year was $15,110,796, making the surplus on Jan. 31, 1908, $16,513,836. President C. A. Coffin in his annual report says:

"Late in the year there was a sudden and severe shrinkage in the value of all merchandise and materials used by your company, notably copper. The book value of inventories was reduced by about $2,000,000. Reserves, and allowances for depreciation of factory plants, and the shrinkage in inventory values have greatly reduced the profits of your company."

$28,000,000 BONDS SOLD BY THE CITY

Bankers Take Six Months' Revenue Obligations, Which Pay 3¾ Per Cent.

PENNSYLVANIA CASH USED

Kuhn, Loeb & Co. Syndicate Took $10,000,000 of the Issue, Part to be Sold in Paris.

It was announced at the Controller's office yesterday that the city had disposed of $28,000,000 of revenue bonds bearing interest at 3¾ per cent. The bonds are short-time securities, running for six months. The sale was largely the outcome of negotiations held last week between Controller Metz and several financiers headed by Kuhn, Loeb & Co.

A syndicate headed by Kuhn, Loeb & Co. took $10,000,000 of the issue, the Guaranty Trust Company a like amount, about $2,500,000 went to Goldman, Sachs & Co., and the balance to bond houses in the financial district.

Since August last the city has had four large sales of long and short term bonds and revenue debentures, totaling in the nieghborhood of $193,000,000. Some smaller sales of bonds bring the total issued by the city within the last year close to $200,000,000.

None of these bonds will be placed in the open market. The $10,000,000 taken by Kuhn, Loeb & Co. will be employed for the temporary investment of part of the money realized by the Pennsylvania Railroad on its recent $40,000,000 bond issue. The proceeds of this loan will not all be needed at once by the railroad, and it is understood that the New York City revenue bonds were chosen as the best form of temporary investment in which the funds could be placed.

In the case of two of its large security issues during the last few years, including the Pennsylvania Company's $50,000,000 note issue, a part of the proceeds of the issues was allowed to stay on deposit with institutions with the object of having the money earn interest until it was actually spent by the railroad.

Part of the $10,000,000 bonds taken by others than the Guaranty Trust Company and Kuhn, Loeb & Co., it was said in Wall Street, has been placed in Paris.

HELD FOR $7,000 THEFT.

Widow of 99 Accuses Her Nephew of Drawing Her Bank Account.

On an order of arrest signed by Supreme Court Justice Charles B. Wheeler of Attica, Wyoming County, Walter S. Bigelow, 22 years old, formerly of that city, but more recently of 500 West 149th Street, was arrested at that address yesterday afternoon by Deputy Sheriff Cruise, and locked up in the Ludlow Street Jail in default of $10,000 bail.

Bigelow is charged by his aunt, Henrietta L. Wyman of Attica, a widow, with having on or about Jan. 1 last obtained possession of her savings bank books and withdrawing from her accounts $7,000.

In her affidavit Mrs. Wyman says that she is 99 years old, and that Bigelow stole her two bank books and disappeared. Later she found the entire amount had been withdrawn by her nephew, though she says she does not remember ever signing any order to the banks to pay the amounts to him.

Bigelow will be held pending the arrival of the Wyoming County authorities.
